Poland Quits Gold; French Devaluation Appears Near

President Mosciki Puts Embargo on Metal's Sale or Purchase.

U. S. Stock Market Drops 1 to 9 Points

Paris Believes Leftist Swing Is Prelude to Change in Franc.

Gold Repercussions.

Poland yesterday abandoned the gold standard, leaving France, the Netherlands and Switzerland as the only major nations of the world still maintaining gold as basis for their currency.

Doubt grew that the French Republic will remain long on gold in view of growing agitation for devaluation of the franc and the Leftist victory in the national elections.

Stocks sagged heavily on the Paris Bourse, with all French issues suffering in the selling wave.

In New York the Polish action in deserting gold and the French elections were given as important factors in the widest break in stock prices in almost a year.

Polish Embargo.

By the United Press.

Warsaw, April 27.—Poland today abandoned the gold standard when President Ignacy Mosciki issued a decree prohibiting the free purchase or export of gold and foreign currency.

The gold embargo automatically removed Poland from the dwindling list of nations still maintaining the gold standard as basis for their currency. Among the major nations of the world only France, the Netherlands and Switzerland remain on that basis today, and there is doubt in some quarters whether the French Republic will remain on gold long in view of growing agitation for devaluation of the franc and the Leftist victory in yesterday's elections.

The decree, promulgated in the Official Gazette today, followed a meeting last night of Mosciki, Premier Majan Koscialkowski and Finance Minister Eugen Kwiatkowski.

Speculation Cause of Decree.

It empowered the Bank of Poland, effective today, to regulate the transfer of foreign exchange for imported goods, and ruled that all incoming foreign exchange must be turned over to the Bank of Poland.

The government said the decree was necessary because speculation in gold and foreign exchange during the last few months had endangered the domestic money market.

Only several days ago the government announced that it had sentenced several speculators to a concentration camp because they had forced down the value of the zloty through market maneuvers.

Communist Gains Cause French Stocks to Sag.

Paris, April 27 (AP).—Communist gains in the Chamber of Deputies election yesterday, along with the prospect of a Leftist victory in next Sunday's run-offs, caused French issues to sag heavily today on the Bourse.

Financial authorities anxiously speculated whether the new chamber, with a majority possibly more radical than heretofore, might not drag the franc to devaluation.

The stock market's slump was attributed to uneasiness over the outcome of the run-offs, when many Communist, Socialist and Radical Socialist candidates are expected to withdraw to give victory to the strongest candidates in their "peoples front."

All French issues suffered under the selling wave, rentes falling a point and a half and Bank of France 400 francs.

A change soon in France's policy of keeping the franc stable by budget economy was considered unlikely in financial quarters, regardless of the makeup of the new chamber. Some, however, publicly asked if the Leftist government might not attempt "managed economy" inflation or even devaluation.

They pointed out the government, whatever its political color, will need money for armaments to offset

King Fuad Worse; Hope Abandoned

Cairo, Aril 27 (AP).—Premier Ali Pasha Maher announced tonight hope for King Fuad, seriously ill with a mouth and throat infection, had been practically abandoned.

The premier, who remained at the palace throughout the day, said gangrene was spreading and had reached the monarch's throat.

The King's condition became worse during the night, the royal physicians said in a bulletin. Circulatory troubles increased with the spread of infection.

King Fuad has taken no food for more than four days, and he was reported to have fallen into a coma. The royal family was summoned to his bedside.

The premier announced Crown Prince Farouk has been recalled from London, where he has been studying. He is returning by train and boat.

Alcatraz Island, Where Escape Attempt Failed

Joe Bowers, first convict to attempt an escape from the Federal prison at Alcatraz Island, plunged 60 feet into the bay when guards shot him. Arrow indicates point from which prisoner fell.

Convict Is Slain Trying to Flee From Alcatraz

Guards Shoot Mail Robber on Rocky Bank; Body Is Taken From Bay.

By the United Press.

San Francisco, April 27.—Sharpshooting guards killed Joe Bowers, 40-year-old convict, today, when Bowers attempted to escape from Alcatraz Federal Prison, the American "Devil's Island" in San Francisco Bay.

Bowers was half way down a precipitous slope of the "rock" when the guards opened fire. He fell the rest of the way and his body disappeared beneath the waves. Even had he escaped the gunfire the convict would have had to swim through a mile of treacherous currents to reach the mainland.

Guards who train almost daily on the rifle range for just such an emergency, saw Bowser as soon as he started down the ledge.

A launch put out from the prison wharf and picked up the body.

It was the first attempt of a convict to escape from Alcatraz since the bleak prison was turned into a Federal penitentiary.

Bowers took the "long chance." He skirted the wall and attempted to drop into the bay. He was slithering down the rocky slope when the marksmen calmly raised their rifles and shot him.

Didn't Have a Chance.

Warden James Johnston said Bowers never had a chance to beat the elaborate system of protection around the prison.

Bowers' neck was broken and he had been shot in the right side and shoulder.

Bowers was serving 25 years for robbing the mails. He was an Austrian by birth and was transferred to Alcatraz from Leavenworth Penitentiary on December 4, 1934.

Some of the Nation's most desperate outlaws—George (Machine Gun) Kelly, Harvey Bailey, Al Capone and Albert Bates—are confined in Alcatraz. They have never attempted to escape, although they were hard to keep in other institutions.

Bowers' demise marked the third death in the prison. The other two resulted from natural causes, according to prison records.

Recent Rebellion.

One of these assertedly lay behind a recent revolt. More than 100 prisoners rebelled in the prison laundry, but were quickly brought back under discipline. Johnston said the rebels sought privileges which the Government refused to give.

Other reports were that the demonstration arose over the death of a prisoner who allegedly was denied proper care. A prison doctor was transferred after the strike.

The island prison lies just inside Golden Gate in San Francisco Bay. Formerly, it was used as a prison for incorrigibles in the United States Army.

The Department of Justice took over the island for the confinement of convicts regarded as troublemakers in other institutions. "The Rock" is 12 acres of bleak stone, concrete and tool-proof steel.

Academy Is Told of Progress In Treating Radium Poisoning

Delicate Instrument Facilitates Diagnosis of Disease; Calcium Holds Hope of Cure, Doctor Tells Meeting Here.

Heartening advances in the diagnosis and treatment of radium poisoning, until now considered practically incurable, were described to the National Academy of Sciences by a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor yesterday as the academy opened its annual meeting here.

Dr. Robley D. Evans reported the perfection of a "screen-cathode quantum counter," an incredibly efficient diagnostic instrument, whose mechanical brain can detect radium emanations in a patient 3 feet or more distant.

Then, with respect to treatment and cure, he outlined progress made by Dr. J. C. Aub in the use of calcium to eliminate the dread poisoning to which many factory workers fall prey each year.

"Extensive studies of a typical case of radium poinsoning have been made, and a treatment developed which has given interesting results," said Dr. Evans. His collaborator, Dr. Aub, is on the staff of Huntington Memorial Hospital, Harvard University.

By measuring gamma radiation from the human body, the quantum counter can betray the presence of the most minute quantity of radium. It is said to be from 10 to 100 times as sensitive as the electroscopes now used in the diagnosis of radium poisoning.

The treatment effected by Dr. Evans and Dr. Aub consists, essentially, of lowering the patient's calcium content by diet restrictions, resulting in dissipation of radium deposited in the bones, and then replacing this contaminated calcium with fresh by special medication.

Development of the quantum-

Drop Defense, Italian Bomber Warns Capital

Plane Roars Over Addis Ababa; Ethiopians Told to Spare Highways.

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

Addis Ababa, April 27.—Italian aviators today threatened to destroy Addis Ababa if Ethiopian warriors resist Marshal Pietro Badoglio's troops or continue to dynamite roads over which the greatest motorized cavalcade ever mobilized for colonial warfare is moving to the attack of Emperor Haile Selassie's capital.

New panic was created in the city when a tri-motored Caproni bomber, swooping over Addi Ababa, roared over the tree tops, narrowly missed the English church and dropped a bundle of leaflets printed in the Amharic language.

"Italian arms are victorious in the north and south," the warnings from the sky said. "Carry on your business as usual. Plant your crops, we will not harm you. But do not destroy roads. Do not resist. If you do we shall destroy you."

The leaflets fell in Postoffice Square.

Aviators Wave.

The aviators flew so low, despite sporadic rifle fire, that they were able to wave to journalists gaping from the ground. The plane flew off in a northerly direction unscathed after making detailed observations in the vicinity of the local radio stations.

Despairing Ethiopians were somewhat encouraged by publication of official dispatches from the Dedjaz-

Eden to Submit Own Proposals To Rivet Peace

Briton Seeks Compromise Between Berlin and Paris on Rhine.

By the United Press.

Paris, April 27.—France learned tonight that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will submit his own plan for consolidation of European peace.

Eden's proposals will represent a compromise between the French and German points of view on the Rhineland crisis.

It will embody three major points, as follows:

1. That Germany return to the League of Nations immediately and unconditionally and that all European nations agree anew to respect the Covenant of the League.

2. That Germany and her neighbors sign a web of non-aggression and mutual assistance pacts to replace the Locarno Treaty, with special pledges by Germany regarding fortification of the reoccupied Rhineland territory.

3. That Germany enter into non-aggression pacts with eastern European nations and particularly reassure Austria and Czechoslovakia that the Reich will respect their territorial integrity.

Mark Eden's Limit.

These points would be the limit of Eden's proposals for the first stage of negotiations to insure European peace. Later, the powers would take up other major problems, in-

3 Ships Survive Mid-Atlantic Gale

New York, April 27 (AP).—Three liners resumed their courses today after crashing through a southwest gale to the aid of two crippled freighters in mid-Atlantic.

The freighters, the Ivanhoe, of Norway, and the St. Quentin, of Great Britain, succeeded in riding out the storm and canceled their calls for help. Both had steering gear trouble.

The liners Bremen and Washington were plowing toward the St. Quentin when the British freighter wirelessed:

"Weather moderating. Sustained considerable deck structure damage. After effecting repairs to steering gear will proceed this afternoon without assistance. Thank you all."

The Polish liner Pilsudski already had reached the Ivanhoe, but the Norwegian decided to wait for a salvage tug.

A third freighter that experienced trouble in yesterday's gale, the Rushpool, was believed, in the absence of any further word, to have effected repairs.

Dionne Quintuplets Underfed, Parents Say, Urging New Diet

By the Associated Press.

Callander, Ont., April 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne said today they believed their quintuplet daughters are not getting enough to eat and that their diet should be changed.

The parents, who visit the children twice daily in their private hospital, added that the five "don't say a word that can be understood" although "we have tried them in every manner."

However, Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, the babies' physician, said that they got ample food, but that their weight was being kept down purposely, because babies not burdened with excess weight were better able to resist disease.

As for "restlessness" commented upon by Mrs. Dionne, the doctor said that was a direct result of their plentiful energy—an energy which had to be worked off.

Mr. and Mrs. Dionne have been at odds with the guardians of the quintuplets.

They indicated they believed the 23-month-old youngsters would thrive better if fed soup from fresh meat, mashed potatoes with a sprinkling of meat gravy, cooked vegetables, particularly carrots, rice and all the milk they desire instead of what the parents termed "greenish mush"—mashed fresh fruit and oatmeal.

Mrs. Dionne, who frequently presides at the noon feedings, said she found the children turn away from their main part of the meal, the "greenish mush," although it was flavored by adding a little mashed banana.

Mrs. Dionne said the children do not sleep in the morning as well as they did and that they are more or less restless in the afternoon.

G.O.P. Forms Bloc to Fight Revenue Bill

House Minority Group Unites to Oppose Tax Program.

Snell Says Republicans Realize Futility of Move, However.

Decision to offer united opposition to the Administration's $863,000,000 tax bill was reached at a two-hour conference of House Republicans last night.

Conceding that the minority members have little chance of amending or defeating the measure, Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell declared after the meeting that the fight will be carried through the voting stage on the ground that an unsound theory of taxing corporations is set up in the bill.

"It would be foolish," said Snell, "to think of defeating or amending the bill when the party on the other side of the chamber has a majority of 200. The only effective opposition we can offer is simply to vote against the bill.

"I think that the opposition to the bill, so far as the Republicans are concerned, is practically complete."

Snell said that no amendments were discussed at the conference. Most of the talk, he declared, centered on the policy embodied in the tax bill. This policy, he said, meant a new and untried method of collecting taxes, and the abandonment of a policy that has been in vogue for 20 years or more.

"Against Thrift."

Referring to the taxes on corporation reserves, Snell asserted:

"This is against thrift and savings and against prudent management in business. It will discourage the practice in industry of laying up a back-log against periods of depression. In the past five years or so, industry has spent $27,000,000,000. If industry had not laid up reserves, no such sum could have been spent, and the result would have been greater unemployment and a heavier relief load on the Federal Government."

Fifty-five of the 103 Republicans in the House attended last night's conference. Many members, it was said, had gone home for the primary elections in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, minority leader of the Senate, plans to call a conference of Senate Republicans probably Thursday or Friday.

La Follette Plans Move.

Senator Robert M. La Follette (Progressive), Wisconsin, announced late yesterday that when the tax bill reaches his side of the Capitol he would offer amendments to increase individual income and surtaxes.

General debate on the bill in the House was virtually completed yesterday, and today the measure will be thrown open to amendments under the five-minute rule. The bill should reach the Senate by Thursday.

Senator La Follette said that in offering amendments to the bill he would propose that exemption barrier on income taxes be reduced from $2,500 to $1,500 for married persons, and from $1,000 to $800 for single persons.

Seeks Increase.

He said he would move to increase the normal income tax from 4 to 6 per cent and raise surtaxes on net incomes up to $50,000.

La Follette offered amendments to the 1935 tax bill that would have boosted income and surtaxes, but they were defeated.

The Wisconsin Progressive recalled that last year he grouped his amendments. This year, he said, he would offer them separately, and he expressed the opinion that they would have a better chance of being adopted.

La Follette asserted he was in sympathy with the "general objectives" of the Administration's tax bill with its heavy imposts on corporation incomes, but said he was seeking to close loopholes for tax dodging in the upper income brackets. The effect of his amendments, he said, would be to bring in even more money to the Federal Treasury.

Debate in the House yesterday followed party lines, with Minority Leader Snell leading the attack on the measure and Representative Vinson (Democrat), of Kentucky, defending it.

"So far as I have been able to ascertain," said Snell, "no one has been able to predict with any degree of certainty the amount of rev-

Chamber Plans National Study To Ascertain Available Jobs

Vice President of Business Group Hits New Deal Laws as Harmful.

In direct reply to President Roosevelt's demand that trade and industry absorb more of the jobless or face higher relief costs, the board of directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce yesterday authorized a national survey to find out how many jobs are open in the country today.

The survey was proposed at the opening board session prior to the first general meeting today of the twenty-fourth annual conference of the chamber by John W. O'Leary, president of the Machinery and Allied Products Institute.

The aid of the American Federation of Labor might be enlisted in making such a survey, said chamber officials privately. Local chambers of commerce, trade associations, merchants, store, services and professions were specified by O'Leary as capable of determining "our re-employment possibilities with a degree of accuracy which cannot be equaled in any other way."

The board's action on the resolution came after the delegates had heard Philip J. Fay, of San Francisco, a chamber vice president, vigorously assault the New Deal.

Girl Kidnaping Twine Studied; Hoax Is Hinted

Hilda Utterback's Story Shows Discrepancies, Sheriff Says.

Pieces of twine—a clew similar to the one which led New York police to the murderer of Mrs. Lewis H. Titterton, promising young novelist—were being studied last night by Loudoun County authorities in an effort to solve the mysterious "kidnaping" of 18-year-old Hilda Utterback from her house near Hamilton, Va.

Diligent search of the abandoned house near the Utterback farm where the girl was found Sunday morning after a posse of citizens had spent the night combing the countryside for her, revealed pieces of twine similar to the binder and tar twine with which the girl's hands and neck were tied. No such twine was found in the chicken coop or the woodpile alongside which Hilda said she was seized by her two abductors and tied up.

Discovery of the twine in the abandoned house and not in the rear yard of the Utterback home, as expected, was only one of the discrepancies in the girl's story police said they were studying.

It was pointed out that although the girl was supposed to have been tied up from 9 p. m. Saturday to 6 a. m. Sunday, medical examination failed to reveal the slightest mark of the twine on her skin. Police also wondered why, since the girl was not gagged, she made no attempt to cry out or to bite through the thin twine that held her prisoner.

Justice Department Silent.

Efforts to interest the Department of Justice agents in the case were fruitless last night. Although no statement was forthcoming from them it is understood their attitude was that no Federal statute had been violated.

Washington police, meanwhile, were checking the girl's fingerprints with those found on a glass jar the girl said her abductors left with her when they shoved her into the cramped cupboard closet of the second floor of the cottage where she was found.

Although officials declined to discuss the case, it was learned there are four theories on which they are working.

1—That the crime was committed

Jersey's Jobless Again Camping In State House

Vacate Chamber Briefly to Allow Futile Session on Aid After Uproar.

By the United Press.

Trenton, N. J., April 27.—The Workers Alliance "squatters" vacated the Assembly chamber tonight so lawmakers could do something about providing relief funds, but moved back in when the Assemblymen failed to act.

Both Houses of the Legislature convened and adjourned until 10 a. m. Wednesday without doing anything toward easing the relief crisis.

There was no violence, and of the 10,000 demonstrators the Workers' Alliance said would reinforce them tonight less than 300 appeared. The only moment of excitement was when Ray Cooke, State chairman of the Workers Alliance, had permission to address the Assembly withdrawn after he called a member a liar.

Conference Today.

Members of the Assembly and Senate will confer tomorrow on relief revenue measures and it is hoped a solution of the problem will be found then.

After the Assembly adjourned, the demonstrators trooped back into the chamber, which they have lived in since last Tuesday. John Spain, jr., State organizer, banged Speaker Marcus Newcomb's gavel for order "as we have important business to take up," but the floor was so crowded with spectators, newspaper reporters and photographers who paid him no attention that no meeting could be held.

Their re-occupation of the assembly chamber was in defiance of a resolution passed by the Assembly tonight. The resolution censured the Statehouse guard for permitting during the past week a "vulgar and burlesque demonstration against the duly constituted representatives of the people" and asked Gov. Harold G. Hoffman to prevent similar occurrences in the future.

The Statehouse guard, fearful of trouble if force were employed, made no move to clear the chamber, however.

Another resolution was offered

Drunken Driving Is Laid to Official

Thomas L. Dawson, Secretary of State of Maryland, was charged with driving under the influence of liquor and reckless driving in a warrant sworn out yesterday afternoon by C. T. Jentzler, of Clarendon, Va., after two collisions on the Rockville pike. Dawson was said to be ill when officers went to his Rockville home and the warrant was not served.

According to Montgomery County police, Dawson's car collided with the left front fender of the car of James W. Hanbery, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Long Beach, Calif., shortly after midnight yesterday. His car then hit Jentzler's car. Jentzler and Mrs. L. L. Deal, of Clarendon, a passenger in his car, were treated at Georgetown University Hospital for minor injuries.

Both Jentzler and Hanbery told Montgomery County police that Dawson was driving on the left side of the road. Dawson, a cut on his lip and knee, was taken home by Policeman J. W. Ward. No record of the accident was placed on the police blotter until after Jentzler had sworn out his warrant before Justice of the Peace Evan A. Condon, of Bethesda.

Acting Governor Renews Rank Of 17,000 Kentucky 'Colonels'

By the Associated Press.

Frankfort, Ky., April 27.—Seventeen thousand Kentucky colonels, admirals and similar honorary aids were restored to "good standing" today by Acting Gov. James E. Wise exactly one month after Kentucky's attorney general, Beverly M. Vincent, ruled them all "out of office."

The acting Governor, serving as chief executive in the absence of both Gov. A. B. Chandler and Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson, increased the standing army of honorary aids by two, issuing colonel's commissions to Eligoh Smith Boteler, of New York, and Lawrence W. Leeper, of Dallas Tex. They were the first commissions issued under the Chandler administration, which took office last December 10.

Informed of the action of Wise, who is president pro tem of the State Senate, Vincent declined to comment other than to say he was sticking to his original opinion, holding that there was no constitutional provision for appointment of colonels in the first place. Both the State and Federal Constitutions, Vincent pointed out, provide that no titles of nobility shall be issued, and because colonels have no duties, terms of office or authority, he said the commissions amount to titles of nobility.

Gov. Chandler, who hasn't issued a colonel's commission since he took office and has repeatedly said he doesn't intend to, said it was all right with him if the acting Governor "creates a lot of Kentucky colonels." The Governor was attending a baseball game in Cincinnati when acting Gov. Wise spread the restoration order on the executive journal.

Vandenberg Resolution Is Adopted Without Record Vote.

Foes Assail Bill As Campaign Move

Data on Tariff Favors to Business Assured by Democrats.

By Felix Bruner.

After three hours of political debate during which Democratic big guns were turned on Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, the Senate yesterday passed without a record vote the Michigan Senator's resolution asking for information concerning all AAA payments over $10,000.

The resolution was loaded down with amendments, submitted by members of the majority, asking the Tariff Commission for various information concerning corporation incomes and profits.

One amendment, by Senator Barkley (Democrat) Kentucky, asked for the names of corporations having statutory net incomes of $1,000,000 or more, together with benefits derived from the tariff. Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, tacked on another amendment asking for the names of corporations benefiting to the extent of $100,000 a year or more from tariffs during the last three years.

In addition, the Connally amendment sought publicity specifically on corporations benefiting by tariffs on aluminum, steel, cameras and films, chemicals and dyes, electrical appliances and tin.

The purpose of the Democratic amendments was to demonstrate that manufacturing concerns, including those from which farmers make purchases, receive subsidies in the form of tariff protection and that farmers are not the only group paid benefits.

Land Ownership Data.

Still another amendment, presented by Senator Bone (Democrat), Washington, asked the Senate Agriculture Committee to study the extent to which land ownership has been concentrated in large corporations.

The Senate defeated one amendment, presented by Senator Barbour (Republican), New Jersey, calling for detailed information concerning the Resettlement Administration, headed by Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the majority leader, moved to table and the motion was carried by a vote of 32 to 20.

Vandenberg asked for the information concerning AAA payments six weeks ago. The request was at first opposed by Secretary Wallace, who later reversed himself and said he was willing to make the data public. Since introduction of the resolution some facts concerning payments, two of which reached $1,000,000, have been revealed.

The Senate debate revolved around the theory that Vandenberg is a candidate for the Republican nomination for President and repeated accusations were made that he was attempting to further his candidacy. Vandenberg insisted that he merely was asking information and denied that he was seeking publicity.

Cites Sugar Bill Vote.

Robinson pointed out that the Michigan Senator had supported the Jones-Costigan sugar control bill "and that he knew it provided benefits for sugar growers."

"Nearly all the biggest payments were made to sugar growers," he said.

"The Senator," he continued, only recently has become the great champion of publicity."

Robinson produced Congressional records to show that the Michigan Senator had opposed income tax publicity and had opposed making public details of loans made by the RFC to corporations.

"But no Presidential campaign was in the offing then," he said.

The Democratic leader said that Vandenberg had opposed the AAA, "which contemplated mostly small payments," while he supported the sugar control legislation.

"What advantage, other than political advantage, can the Senator seek by advertising payments under the AAA?" he asked.

"It is curious," Vandenberg replied, "that every time I have asked for simple information on payments by the Government somebody has wanted to change the subject.

"At first Secretry Wallace was

Landon Gains Four Delegates From Missouri

Republicans Pledge to Aid Kansan, Bringing Total in State to 20.

St. Louis, April 27 (AP).—Missouri Republicans tonight adopted by an overwhelming majority a resolution pledging the State's four delegates at large to work for the Presidential nomination of Gov. Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, at the national convention.

The pledging of the "Big Four" raises to 20 the Landon-instructed delegates who will represent Missouri at Cleveland in June. Sixteen delegates, instructed for the Kansan, were named at district conventions.

Three districts indorsed Landon and in two the four delegates were uninstructed. The State has 30 votes.

The delegates at large are Herman Langworthy, Kansas City; Mrs. Helen Lang Rogers, Carthage; A. L. Shapleigh, St. Louis and Dr. J. R. Crossland, Negro, St. Joseph.

Knox Gains Strength In Home County.

Chicago, April 27 (AP).—Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, won the full support of the Cook County Republican convention today in his campaign for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

Indorsing him unanimously, the convention pledged the support of its 881 delegates to the State convention in Peoria, May 22, instructing them to use "all honorable means to cause the nomination of all delegates at large to the national convention who pledge themselves to support the candidacy of Col. Knox."

Eight delegates at large will be selected in Peoria to supplement the 49 elected in the primary April 14.

Meanwhile peace settled over the primary-torn ranks of Illinois Democrats as its leaders joined in announcements they would present a united front for the November campaign against the Republican foe.

The main controversy involving Gov. Henry Horner, successful candidate for renomination on one hand, and Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman Patrick Nash on the other, was wiped out as the Cook County Democratic Convention stronghold of the Nash-Kelly forces, voted indorsement and promised enthusiastic support for Horner and the entire ticket. The mayor, generally credited with originating the idea of entering Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, of Chicago, as a rival to the Governor in the primary, sent word from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., that he would "go along with the ticket in November."

Roosevelt Opposed In Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt will be opposed for the first time in a State-wide test in Pennsylvania's primary tomorrow, with Col. Henry Breckinridge, of New York, New Deal critic, entered against him.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, will be the lone Presidential candidate on the Republican ballot.

For a presidential year, the primary campaign lacked zest. Democrats appealed for a large Roosevelt vote, but no one appeared in behalf of Breckinridge. Neither did anyone campaign in behalf of Senator Borah.

The Democratic organization, headed by Gov. George H. Earle and Chairman David L. Lawrence, predicted the organization's entire slate of delegates to the Philadelphia convention, pledged to Roosevelt, will win, as well as "regular" candidates for Congress and the State Senate nominations, the only offices outstanding in an otherwise dull campaign.

The Republican State Committee wants to send an uninstructed delegation to the Cleveland convention. Disclosures at the elections bureau today that 31 of the 68 candidates for district delegates were listed on the ballot as "pledged," brought from Chairman M. Harvey Taylor a statement that many of the pledges resulted from "misinterpretation" of nomination papers.

Taylor said "many candidates, discovering their error, sought to withdraw their pledge, but the elections bureau ruled this could not be done because of the late date. Some advertised in their local newspapers that they would go uninstructed although they are pledged on the ballot."

Borah, through an old election law, being the lone candidate, is the "popular choice" unless a candidate's name is added by sticker or some other means and receives more votes than the Idaho Senator.

State committee executives insisting upon an uninstructed delegation said "Borah may receive a scattering of these pledged votes on the first ballot, but a vast majority of those pledged will line up with those who are uninstructed."

Hoover Slate Denied In Massachusetts.

Boston, April 27 (AP).—A brisk denial by John Richardson, Republican national committeeman, that the Massachusetts party organization was attempting to put over a Hoover slate of national convention delegates in tomorrow's party primary took the election out of the doldrums tonight.

Richardson, a personal friend of former President Hoover and himself a candidate for a seat at the convention from the Thirteenth Congressional District, declared he was "entirely open-minded on the question of who is to be our next President."

He criticized those who had interpreted the unopposed organization slate of delegates at large as favorable to the Hoover cause.

The fight for Republican district delegates in Richardson's district is one of few battles of State-wide interest tomorrow, although the record number of 18,730 candidates is in the field seeking election to everything from places at the Republican and Democratic National Conventions to the less coveted posts at State party conventions, clear down to membership on party ward committees.

Voters in both parties will have an opportunity to express their Presidential preference. A chief interest, however, continued in the Republican preference with friends of Col. Frank Knox, Gov. Alf M. Landon, and United States Senators Borah and Vandenberg optimistic over the possibility of a good vote for their men.

The preference vote will not bind either Republican or Democratic delegates to the national conventions.

Socialist Labor Party Adjourns

New York, April 27 (AP).—The Socialist Labor Party at the close of its nineteenth national convention adopted a platform today declaring that "social development points in out one direction—to an industrial union government, an administration of things in place of a political rule over men."

The platform called upon the workers of America to organize into a Socialist Revolutionary Industrial Union with the aim of placing "the land and the means of production and distribution in the hands of useful producers."

It vizualized the passing of the present system of government and the creation of "The Socialist Industrial Commonwealth of Emancipated Labor—a commonwealth in which every worker shall have free exercise and full benefits of his faculties, multiplied by all the factors of modern civilization."

Roosevelt's Failure to Make Concessions to Conservatives Is Cited.

By Franklyn Waltman

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S failure to make any concessions to the conservatives within and without the Democratic Party in his two recent campaign speeches at New York and Baltimore is significant. Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers apparently feel that his prospects for re-election are so good that it is not necessary to make any gestures toward the right wing.

WALTMAN

Indeed, the President, in vague and general language, indicated that should he be re-elected he will continue on the same course which has marked the New Deal—more experimentation, an indifference toward sound fiscal policies, a greater control by the Federal Government over business and adherence to the philosophy that the frontier of opportunity having been closed, the Government must assume an ever increasing paternalistic course.

This was clearly indicated in this passage from the President's New York speech:

"The strong arm of the Nation is needed not in immediate relief alone—we grant that. It is needed also in taking measures of prevention before natural disasters occur. It is equally needed in taking measures to prevent economic disasters which are not natural, but man-made."

Of course that expression does not commit the President to anything. Since he insists he is a quarterback, he may change his course without notice. But that passage undoubtedly will be cited as an advance notice of further social experimentation after the election, just as vague and platitudinous passages in Mr. Roosevelt's 1932 campaign speeches have been cited during the last three years as presaging the course of the New Deal.

The part of President Roosevelt's New York speech which attracted the most attention, however, was his assault on the contention reached some months ago by the Brookings Institution after an exhaustive study that a complete and stabilized economic recovery could be achieved only by reducing prices through technological advances and giving the forces of competition freer rein.

The President, distorting the theory somewhat by emphasizing that cutting wages would be the major method of cheapening production and reducing prices, turned his back firmly against that approach to attacking the problem, much to the regret of many economists who regard the Brookings proposal as worthy of more serious consideration.

It is popular in a campaign year to espouse higher wages—none ever oppose them. But the problem facing this country is getting employment for some 10,000,000 jobless persons, physically able and willing to work. The New Deal program of higher wages, higher prices and controlled production has failed to achieve that end. And that objective cannot be attained until the productive facilities of this Nation are more fully employed and they cannot be more fully employed until the masses of people can purchase more of the necessities of life. Instead of stressing wages as the President did, emphasis should be placed on real wages, what the worker can buy for the dollar he receives.

One economist thinks Mr. Roosevelt's New York speech was a distinct throw-back to the "horse and buggy days" of economic thinking. At all events, it appears that the "horse and buggy"—a term used by the President to symbolize his disgust with the Supreme Court NRA decision—is coming back to haunt the President.

At an early hour Sunday morning a group of White House correspondents returning to their hotel across the street from the President's Sixty-fifth street home in New York, where he spent the night, were amazed to see a horse and buggy standing outside of Mr. Roosevelt's residence.

Several police officers were tugging at the horse's bridle, seeking to encourage it to move on, but the balky animal, having come east on a one-way westbound street, seemed to think it belonged in front of the President's house. Investigation revealed the horse and buggy was one of those which tourists use to ride around Central Park—and the driver on the way to work had taken a short cut through the one-way street, ignorant of the police cordon in front of the Roosevelt home.

Thus there are a number of horses and buggies in New York, even if, as the President laughingly said in his New York address, he could not find any grass growing in the city's streets, as former President Hoover had predicted. But maybe that is because there are so many unemployed walking the streets looking for work.

Extemporaneously the President revived the "forgotten man" of his 1932 campaign in the New York speech. Throwing his head back and his chin out in that cocky manner which he simulates when he thinks he has something extraordinary to say, Mr. Roosevelt declared: "I propose to continue the fight for more food and better homes."

One might think that would bring the house down with applause, but it did not cause a ripple. Mr. Roosevelt has a habit, when a sentence which he expects to draw applause misfires, of rephrasing his thought extemporaneously in different language. So he interpolated at this point this sentence: "I propose that the man who was forgotten in those olden days shall not be forgotten again." It rang the applause bell.

Supreme Court Backs Reviews Of Bureau Acts

Points to Agency Growth; Aid to Rail Rate Plea Seen in Decision.

A majority of the Supreme Court yesterday held that when a constitutional right is at stake, the power of the courts to review the findings of an administrative body is virtually unlimited.

The decision, read by Chief Justice Hughes, was looked upon as strengthening the position of the court in rate-making cases and in reviewing administrative procedure generally. The court took occasion again to refer to the growing number of administrative agencies in the Government.

Some persons saw in the ruling an improvement in the position of Eastern railroads, which are preparing a court battle against the 2-cent fare order of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Associate Justice Brandeis, in concurring with the ultimate finding in the case, disagreed with the doctrine and held that when property rights are at stake the power of the judiciary to review the conclusions of administrative agencies is limited to determining whether or not proper procedure was followed and proper rules of law applied.

Court Decision Unusual.

The court was curiously split in the decision, which upheld rates fixed by the Secretary of Agriculture for the St. Joseph Stockyards company. The court was unanimous in its conclusion. Agreeing with the Chief Justice as to the reasons were Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler.

Justices Stone and Cardozo said that Justice Brandeis has "stated the law as it should be," but that the weight of precedent was against his opinion. Justice Roberts merely concurred in the result.

The decision was one of 12 handed down by the court. The list did not include a ruling on constitutionality of the Guffey coal law. The court will sit again next Monday, when a Guffey decision may be handed down.

Limits Ruled Fixed.

"The Constitution fixes limits to the rate-making power by prohibiting the deprivation of property without due process of law or the taking of private property for public use without just compensation," the Chief Justice said in his opinion. "When the Legislature acts directly, its action is subject to judicial scrutiny and determination in order to prevent the transgression of these limits of power.

"The Legislature cannot preclude that scrutiny or determination by any declaration of legislative finding.

"Legislative agencies, with varying qualifications, work in a field peculiarly exposed to political demands. Some may be expert and impartial, others subservient. It is not difficult for them to observe the requirements of law in giving a hearing and receiving evidence. But to say that their findings of fact may be made conclusive where constitutional rights of liberty and property are involved, although the evidence clearly establishes that the findings are wrong and constitutional rights have been invaded, is to place those rights at the mercy of administrative officials and seriously to impair the security inherent in our judicial safeguards.

Prospect Called Grave.

"That prospect, with our multiplication of administrative agencies, is not one to be lightly regarded. It is said that we can retain judicial authority to examine the weight of evidence when the question concerns the right of personal liberty. But if this be so, it is not because we are privileged to perform our judicial duty in that case and for reasons of convenience disregard it in all others. The principle applies when rights either of person or of property are protected by constitutional restrictions.

"Under our system there is no warrant for the view that the judicial power of a competent court can be circumscribed by any legislative arrangement designed to give effect to administrative action going beyond the limits of constitutional authority."

Democratic Party Joined by Wallace

Des Moines, Iowa, April 27 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace for years "a Democrat in feeling," formally became one in name as well today.

His party affiliation and that of Mrs. Wallace were changed from Republican to Democratic by the filing of their declarations with the county auditor here.

Wallace had said the change, deferred until after the Democratic State convention here, was "just a formality and really a recognition of my membership in the Democratic Party."

The son of a former Secretary of Agriculture, Wallace, like his father, grew up in Iowa as an old line Republican. He left the Republican ranks in 1928 to support Alfred E. Smith.

Pleas for 'Quoddy To Go to Roosevelt

Augusta, Me., April 27 (AP).—Gov. Louis J. Brann left for Washington today with 700 telegrams from Maine residents urging him "to secure continuance" of the $36,000,000 Passamaquoddy tidal power project.

"I will place them before President Roosevelt," the Governor said, "and couple them with my insistance that 'Quoddy be completed."

Completion of the project has been threatened by lack of Congressional approval.

The telegrams bring out, he said, "that cessation of construction would entirely destroy the hope of rehabilitation in the eastern part of the State."

Order to 'Milk' Townsend Club Members Cited

Former Michigan OARP Was Warned Not to Go Too Fast, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

Detroit, April 27.—Jack T. Leasia, former manager of the Townsend old-age pension plan organization in Michigan, testified today before a Congressional committee that a Townsend official had warned him "not to get this job done too fast; we want to milk this crowd for two more years."

The hearing, which is being conducted by Representative Clare Hoffman, Michigan Republican, opened today before an audience composed largely of elderly people.

Leasia testified the warning was given him by H. H. Schwinger, who then was an official in the Townsend organization's Chicago office.

The witness said he had gone to Chicago to protest that organizers in the Congressional districts were "starving" to death" on their pay of 5 cents for each new member enrolled.

Dismissed March 17.

Leasia testified Schwinger spent $23 in an expensive night club for a dinner for Leasia, another man and a girl. Schwinger subsequently told him, the witness said, "There's a lot of money in this thing for men above tre level of organizers," and explained the organization work was to be drawn out to permit "milking" the contributors.

"I was in the upper strata then, but I didn't stay there long, "Leasia said. He was dismissed as Michigan manager March 17, and was succeeded as Michigan manager March 17, he said, and was succeeded by F. Manley Goldsberry, Chicago regional director of the organization.

Goldsberry told him, he said, that complaints had "gone right to headquarters" that Leasia "was going too fast," and that it was reported he was rtying to build up a big organization.

"They thought I was going to turn it over to some politician, perhaps my associate, Gov. Brucker, who was then being talked of as a candidate for Senator," Lesia testified.

Leasie was secretary to Wilber M. Brucker when Brucker was Governor of Michigan. Bruckner now is seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator in opposition to Senator James Couzens.

Revelation Surprise.

Mrs. Minnie Hathaway, bookkeeper in the Detroit Townsend office, testified that about $11,000 was collected from Townsend Club members in the Detroit region between November 2, 1935, and April 25, this year, and that all of it had been sent to the Chicago office.

Both Mrs. Hathaway and George E. Gullen, one of the organizers of the Michigan group, said they had believed before the decent disclosures by a Congressional committee that Dr. Francis E. Townsend and Robert E. Clements received only $50 a week each as head of the national organization.

Two Alienists Tell Jurymen Reaguer Insane

Slayer of Girl Should Be Placed in Hospital, De Jarnette Says.

Two widely-known alienists took the witness stand in Justice Oscar Luhring's Criminal Court yesterday and testified that William Reaguer, 57-year-old Culpeper, Va., undertaker, on trial for the penknife slaying of Willie Mae Wood, was insane at the time of the crime.

Dr. J. S. De Jarnette, superintendent of the Western State Hospital for the Insane, in Staunton, Va., testified Reaguer not only was insane at the time of the crime, but that he still was "dangerously insane" and should be confined to an institution for the rest of his life.

"I regard this man as dangerous," said Dr. De Jarnette. "He should be put in a hospital."

First defense witness was Dr. Raymond K. Foxwell, of Washington, who examined the defendant on two occasions after the killing in the Houston Hotel before dawn last October 12.

Third Is Questioned.

His testimony, as was that of Dr. De Jarnette, fundamentally was based on a hypothetical question prepared and submitted to the court early yesterday.

A third specialist in mental and nervous diseases was being questioned directly by Chief Defense Attorney William A. O'Shea when court adjourned for the day.

Dr. Foxwell said he examined Reaguer at the District Jail on March 12 and April 21.

When he first examined Reaguer, Dr. Foxwell said, the prisoner told him Willie Mae Wood slashed her own throat in a suicide pact with him.

In so doing, Dr. Foxwell said Reaguer declared, she broke the penknife with which she was all but decapitated, and, consequently, when he slashed his own wrists, as his part of the bargain, his attempt to end his own life was unsuccessful.

"Reaguer told me he and Willie Mae Wood were in his room in the hotel in the early morning and they both were terribly depressed.

"They decided to form a suicide pact and end it all, he said. So she cut her own throat and broke the knife."

When he interviewed Reaguer at the jail April 21, however, the middle-aged undertaker, who is the father of two married daughters, did not remember this story.

Some Sort of Dream.

"The second time I talked to him he said it must have been some sort of dream he had, something he read in the papers," asserted the alienist.

"He insisted he remembered nothing of the killing, nothing of the incident, and that he regained consciousness only when he woke up in the hospital and was told about it."

Dr. Foxwell agreed with Assistant U. S. Attorney Irvin Goldstein that the suicide pact of which the undertaker spoke was a mere figment.

"That is evident by his second story that he remembered nothing," Dr. Foxwell stated.

Before Dr. Foxwell completed his testimony a 23-page hypothetical question, based on Reaguer's life, his alleged illness, his bereavement at the loss of his son and his "October-April" attachment for Willie Mae was introduced into the evidence.

Never Examined Reaguer.

Dr. De Jarnette, whose experience in dealing with mental cases goes back to 1888, never had examined Reaguer, and he was questioned merely upon the facts stated in the hypothetical question.

Dr. De Jarnette spoke in a hoarse voice, explaining he had a bad cold and it was an effort for him to testify.

"I believe," he said, "that Reaguer was insane, because of the terrible trauma (blood clot) he had on his brain, and the fact that he had been drinking a lot of whisky."

Each question asked Dr. De Jarnette by Goldstein the physician parried, and he sought to enlarge upon his answers. At one point the monologues of the Virginian visibly irritated Justice Luhring.

"Dr. De Jarnette, I am conducting this trial, "interrupted the judge. "You will answer the questions as they are put to you."

Dr. De Jarnette was subjejcted to a grueling cross-examination by Goldstein. At one point O'Shea leaped to his feet, and accused the Assistant U. S. Attorney of heckling the witness.

"Do you believe the defendant knew what a knife was at the time of the murder."

"Yes, sir," responded Dr. De Jarnette.

Knew She Would Die.

"Do you think he knew that if he cut Willie Mae Wood's throat with a knife she would die?"

"Yes, sir."

For the second time since the trial began, Herbert Wood, young husband of the slain girl, was forced to listen to the two letters she wrote Reaguer after she became his bride.

With his jaw set, Wood heard the letters read to the jury in the hypothetical question without emotion.

Last witness of the day was Dr. Antoine Schneider, Johns Hopkins graduate and professor of neurology at Georgetown University.

Dr. Schneider, corroborated the testimony of Dr. Foxwell, with whom he interviewed the defendant on March 12 and April 21.

Dr. Schneider will take the stand again today, and state whether he believes the defendant insane.

Check Case Holds Pair for Hearing

Albert Cheney, 26, and Owina Dyer, 21, both of Boston, were charged with forgery here yesterday after they were returned from Norfolk, Va., Sunday, on a warrant charging two forged signatures on checks totaling $35.

The two lived in the 1400 block of North Capitol street, police said. Cheney, a bus operator, received a pay check from Boston when he arrived here April 18. After that check was cashed two others bearing his indorsement were cashed, each for $35, police said.

Detective Sergt. Chester C. Stepp, of the headquarters check squad, said the woman aditted the forgery and stated Cheney had nothing to do with it. They will appear in Police Court today. The charge against Cheney probably will be nolle prossed, Stepp stated.

McMullen Fee Trial Opens in Court Today

Trial of Col. Joseph I. McMullen, former chief of the patents section of the War Department, on a charge of accepting fees from the Cuban-American Manganese Corporation while he was on duty at the War Department, will open in District Supreme Court today. A pending second-degree murder case delayed his triel, scheduled to open yesterday.

Col. McMullen, recently demoted and fined in a court martial, also is seeking a review of his conviction by the War Department. He is charged with accepting fees of $2,000 from the manganese company while that corporation had pending in Congress a bill to lighten the excise duty on manganese, a bill that the War Department actively supported because an increase in manganese taxes would increase the prices of armaments.

Unions Urged to Back Newsmen's Walkout

Milwaukee, April 27 (AP).—A Milwaukee Federated Trades Council investigating committee issued a statement today urging affiliated local unions to give moral and financial support to Milwaukee Newspaper Guild members who went on strike against the Wisconsin News February 17.

The statement said "the labor movement as a whole must take the position that the right of organization and the principle of collective bargaining is involved in this (the newspaper strike) situation and upon these points we must support the striking members of the newspaper guild."

Sun Baths Are Urged As Aid to Ministers

Philadelphia, April 27 (AP).—Dr. Christian H. Shirk, secretary of the Mechodist preachers' meeting, told the group today that ministers should do a "daily dozen" and take sun baths.

"The greatest benefit accrues when sun baths can be obtained when void of clothing," he said. "I would not, however, suggest going the limit of joining a nudist colony."

"The pale faced anemic youth should not be encouraged to enter the ministry," he declared.

Yacht Runs on Rocks Off Cuba; Calls for Aid

New York, April 27 (U.P.).—The Mackay radio tonight reported receiving a call for immediate assistance from the yacht Jane II, aground off the northwest coast of Cuba. The message said the yacht was pounding badly on the rocks 20 miles west-southwest of Bahia Honda.

Lloyds lists a yacht Jane II, built in 1927, as being owned by E. W. Watts, of New York City. No tonnage is given. It is 42 feet long.

Girl Kidnaping Twine Studied

by some one who had a grudge against the girl's father.

2—Tha t the crime was committed by someone who was forbidden from seeing the girl.

3—That a maniac did it.

4—That it was a hoax.

The townspeople in Leesburg talk of it as if it were a hoax.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Utterback were indignant at the suggestion that Hilda's kidnaping was a hoax. Utterback said he had asked Hilda whether she tied herself up but that she denied it.

"Nervous and Scary."

"I swear to it that she wouldn't do a thing like that," he declared.

Mrs. Utterback said Hilda was "too nervous and scary a type to attempt such an adventure."

"She never would have gone into that abandoned house alone," asserted the mother. "I know her disposition better than anyone else, and I have never yet caught her in a story."

Pointing to the fact that the girl wore an old dress, old stockings and old shoes, Mrs. Utterback ridiculed the idea that Hilda might have planned a meeting with a boy friend. When Hilda left the house, the radio was playing, said Mrs. Utterback, and the girl's outcries might not have been heard.

When she was found by newspapermen, the girl still was in a semi-conscious state, said the mother, and doesn't remember what happened to her until she was back in the house.

The curiosity of Loudoun County police regarding the twine with which Hilda was bound, was aroused for a reason other than that similar pieces were found in the abandoned house and not in the chicken coop. After examining the two pieces of twine, one 8 inches long, the other 10 inches, Sheriff E. S. Adrian said he thought both pieces of string "were too short to have been used to bind the girl in the manner she described."

Pieces of String Short.

The pieces of string could have been wrapped around the girl's wrists and neck no more than once or twice and not with the numerous twists described by the girl, the sheriff said.

Although admitting he was puzzled by the girl's story, Sheriff Adrian refused to make any statement on the possibility that the case was a hoax. Charles Harrison, prosecuting attorney of the county, refused to discuss the case other than to state that the law-enforcement agencies of the county were bending every effort to solve the case.

Four men who were arrested by Sheriff Adrian Sunday were released yesterday when their alibis were established. One of these was a former tenant on the Utterback farm and another was a feeble-minded youth who had frequented the neighborhood.

In telling the story of her "kidnaping" the girl described her abductors as two men, one white, the other colored, both about 42 years old. This puzzled Sheriff Adrian, who could not understand why a white man and a Negro would plot an abduction together.

According to Hilda, she left the house around 9 p. m. to close up the chicken coop. As she was leaving the chicken coop, the men "grabbed her from behind," one of them clasping his hand over her mouth, and led her across the pasture through the two gates which had been left open.

At the second gate they made her take off her shoes. They then took her to the cottage which is less than a quarter of a mile from her house.

The fact that the house was passed frequently through the night by searching parties, many of them flashing their searchlights into the windows of the abandoned cottage, and that Hilda made no outcry was another reason why her story was suspected.

The cottage to which the girl was taken has been unoccupied since last fall and was locked. The men had a pass key, the girl said.

She said they took her to the second floor and shoved her into one of the storage closets and then started to hand her a jar of water.

"When the man spilled some of the water on the floor," she continued, "they dragged me out and put me in another closet. They threw an old mattress over me and the man put the water jar down beside me and said, 'Here, you might need this.'"

When the men left they threatened to kill her and her family if she made a noise, she said.

Hilda was discovered by two Washington newspapermen early Sunday. She was examined by Drs. A. Gibson and G. H. Musgrave, who found faint red marks on her wrists and neck, apparently caused by the twine. They found no other marks, although the girl said the men struck her several times as they were taking her to the cottage.

Girl, 18, Is Accused Of Killing Her Son

Prince Frederick, Md., April 27.—An 18-year-old Calvert County farm girl will be charged with the murder of her infant son tomorrow, county officials said today after the discovery of the infant's body in an upstairs room of her parent's home.

The girl, Alma Ogden, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ogden. Dr. Eberhart Briscoe, who was called by Mrs. Ogden when her daughter failed to arise in the morning, found the body of the baby in a lard can in an adjoining room with a knife wound in the neck. He said the girl admitted killing the infant, and said she was afraid of what her family and the neighbors would say.

Members of the family, questioned by State's Attorney Arthur W. Dowell, said they knew nothing of what had happened. Two younger sisters who slept in the same room with Alma said they had not been aware of anything unusual.

Dowell said the girl will be brought to Calvert County Hospital here and placed under guard until she can be arraigned for a preliminary hearing. A warrant charging first-degree murder will be issued by Police Justice William W. Duke tomorrow.

U. S. Fleet Off For Six Weeks Of Maneuvers

Hospital Ship Leads Way to 'War Scene' Near Coronado Islands.

By the Associated Press.

San Pedro, Calif., April 27.—Duplicating war conditions as nearly as possible, all units of the United States Fleet slipped silently into the dawn mists of the Pacific today for six weeks of secret maneuvers.

The mercy unit of the fleet, the white hospital ship Relief, was first to sea. Close behind followed the first of the fighting ships in their gray war paint, the fast heavy cruisers Chicago and Portland.

This was an indication of the division of forces for the first phase of the maneuvers. After them the battle line of dreadnaughts steamed out. Then the 12 heavy cruisers and the auxiliaries put to sea.

From San Diego moved the giant aircraft carriers, the seven light cruisers, seven submarines, some three score destroyers and various auxiliaries.

Somewhere below the Coronado Islands two great fleets will form during the night, and the "war" will be under way.

For two weeks or more the various forces will demonstrate their tactical ability in different battle exercises before the approach to the Bay of Panama brings the fleet into a problem involving defense of the Panama Canal.

Woman, 62, Slayer Of Son, Given Life

Los Angeles, April 27 (AP).—Mrs. Grace Warren Van Alstyne Du Bois, 62 and feeble, who claims descent from Virginia aristocracy, was sentenced today to prison for life for the murder of her son, Dr. Charles Warren R. Du Bois, last December 17.

Witnesses testified Mrs. Du Bois had told her sons, including Charles, and Ted, a witness at the trial, that they were of a family too aristocratic to cope with modern life.

Dr. Du Bois was shot as he sat in the kitchen of the home he and his mother occupied. Mrs. Du Bois testified that a young man who was to have gone hunting with her son accidentally discharged a gun he was cleaning, killing Dr. Du Bois. The youth fled, she asserted.

The prosecution contended Mrs. Du Bois once had tried to make a suicide compact with her son, Charles, and had told both of them they should end their lives.

Two trained nurses attending him on the trip last ministered to him when the train passed through Charlottesville. His body was taken to the District Morgue, pending word from relatives. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said death was due to his illness.

Father Is Killed In Plunge From Calvert Bridge

Fearing Insanity, He Ends Life in 140-Ft. Leap; Left Note to Wife.

Fear that he was going insane drove Frank Emanuel, 34, father of three children, to leap 140 feet to his death yesterday from the center span of the new Calvert street bridge.

His body was found shortly before 8 a. m. by Capt. John A. Worrell, of Silver Spring, Md., lying in the roadway of the "lower road" as Worrell was riding through Rock Creek Park on his way downtown.

Police were notified by Worrell and established Emanuel's identity through receipted bills in his pockets. A note written in Italian was found in the man's pocket, addressed to "My dear Louisa." State Department employes translated the note for police as follows:

"For more than four months I have not been able to sleep; during the last few days I have hardly been able to stand on my feet. I am trembling like a leaf. If I had been able to resist I would have finished by going to the insane asylum, and then it would have been worse for you, for our children and for everybody.

"I really do not know what I should do. My poor head can no longer stand it; my heart is breaking at the thought I must leave you and the children in this vale of tears.

"The world will never pardon me. I tried to fight this terrible fear which beset me. I beg you not to have my body brought home. Have it taken to an undertaking establishment and have me buried right away. Don't spend much money on my funeral. I hope that God will help you together with the children. I beg your pardon. I ask your mother's pardon and that of all those whom I have caused trouble and suffering. Above all, I ask pardon of our children. I ask God's forgiveness. Have courage, my dear, and good Louisa. Goodbye."

Emanuel's body was taken to the Morgue, where Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide.

Mrs. Emanuel, whose three daughters are all under 8 years old, was prostrated at the news. She told police her husband operated a barber shop at 1626 Wisconsin avenue northwest, next door to his home. She said her husband had recently opened a second shop at Fifteenth and L streets northwest, and that the shop had not been successful. Her husband was despondent over financial reverses, she continued.

The three daughters who survive are Josephine, 7; Louisa, 5, and Annette, 4. A brother, Joseph, also a barber, lives at 1246 Eleventh street northwest.

Solar Radiation Held to Govern Weather Trend

Dr. Abbott Reports Findin Dr. Abbot Reports Finding in 12-Year Study.

Government weather forecasters, who are by nature disdainful of long-range weather prophets, may be compelled to temper their skepticism as the result of a report yesterday to the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution.

His investigations of the sun's radiant energy, Dr. Abbot asserted, led to the conclusion weather forecasts may be made two weeks in advance. The report was based upon a study of the relationship between increases and decreases of solar radiation and temperature variations in different seasons and locations.

The "patterns" discovered by Dr. Abbot are the product of 12 years' study at Smithsonian observation stations in Washington, St. Louis and Helena, Mont. In Washington, for example, when the sun's output began to decline in a certain January, there was a specific pattern of falling and rising temperature for a 17-day period.

Patterns Opposite.

Then, when solar radiation increased, a specific temperature pattern resulted. Patterns for rising and falling radiation are opposite, Dr. Abbot said, and are different for each month and for each place.

Similarity was noted in the monthly patterns of Washington, St. Louis and Helena over the entire 12-year period. For each month and each location, the rising and falling patterns were approximately equal and opposite.

It should not be inferred, Dr. Abbot declared, that temperature rises in proportion to the increase of the sun's output of energy. Rather, if increased solar radiation brings cooler weather in January, it is highly probable that a decrease will bring warmer weather.

"The point is," the Smithsonian Secretary told the Academy "that whatever happens will be specific for the month and place."

Temperature changes produced by fluctuations of solar radiation are of such magnitude as to eliminate all doubt that the latter exert an important influence upon the earth's weather, Dr. Abbot said. The greater the radiation change, the greater the change in temperature, he continued.

Has Three Stations.

With the scholar's traditional conservatism, Dr. Abbott withheld any claim that his findings will be of immediate value in forecasting. It will be necessary first, he said, to determine specific patterns for every part of the United States and to make extremely accurate observations of solar radiation every day in the year.

The Smithsonian Institution now operates three permanent observing stations under Dr. Abbot's direction. They are at Mount Montezuma, Chile; Mount St. Katherine, on the Sinai Peninsula, and Table Mountain, Calif. For reliable daily service there should be at least ten such stations scattered over the earth, he asserted.

If these stations could be etsablished in the near future, a comprehensive test of the new forecasting method could be begun by 1940, Dr. Abbot said.

counters used in the investigation was supported by a grant from the American Philosophical Society. The instrument detected radium in at least one fatal case which had been reported, erroneously, as negative after electroscopic tests.

The possibility that atom-smashing, which is still a laboratory phenomenon, eventually may be applied in the treatment of disease was laid before the assembled scientists by Dr. E. O. Lawrence, of the University of California.

Platinum Bombarded.

His paper was based upon recent investigations by Dr. J. M. Cork and himself into the behavior of platinum under bombardment by deuterons, or heavy hydrogen. Subjecting the platinum to a 5,000,000-volt bombardment resulted in the target's being broken down into iridium and platinum, Dr. Lawrence reported.

Improvement of the cyclotron, or atomic machine gun, and substitution of helium atoms for the heavy hydrogen has made possible an 11,000,000-volt attack, he declared. Since these "bullets" may now be projected clear of the machine and into the air, it will soon be practicable to experiment with their effect upon living tissue.

"Preliminary studies have indicated that the neutron ray may be even more valuable in certain types of medical treatment than is the X-ray," said Dr. Lawrence.

Dr. R. A. Millikan, world-renowned physicist of California Institute of Technology, discussed recent investigations of cosmic rays, which have been made in Peru and Manila, P. I. The studies indicate, he said, that the theory incoming rays consist only of charged particles is open to serious doubt.

At a lecture meeting last night, Dr. Arthur L. Day, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, described the hot-spring problem of Yellowstone National Park.

He revealed that for the first time two borings have been made to learn something of conditions underground. It was shown that, at a depth of 250 feet, the temperature was 205 degrees centigrade and steam pressure exceeded 300 pounds.

Scientists to Cover Elephants, Music In Papers Today

What would you like to known about the body temperature of elephants?

Does the quantitative index of resemblance in geographic distribution strike a sympathetic chord?

And how about the psychology of a musical ornament and the characteristics of altruism and co-operation among chimpanzees?

These are but three of the more than 20 papers that will be read today at the second and last day's sessions of the National Academy of Sciences. The annual meeting is being held in the Academy Building, 2101 Constitution avenue.

Franz Boas, of Columbia University, will report the effects of American environment on immigrant and their descendants. The growth curve of infants is the subject of Charles B. Davenport and William Drager, of the Carnegie Institution, of Washington.

Eden to Submit Own Proposals To Rivet Peace

cluding Germany's demand for return of her pre-war colonies.

The British plans were expected to emerge from Eden's forthcoming questionnaire to Germany on behalf of the Locarno powers. It was believed possible Eden's questionnaire might touch only on the three points outlined above.

In that case, the colonial problem will be touched only sketchily, but it is evident that Germany places recovery of her pre-war possessions at the top of her present demands.

Eden's proposals would rival those of German Chancellor Adolf Hitler and French Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

British sources suggested that a solution of the colonial problem might be reached by Britain, France, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, China and Belgium surrendering all their mandated territories for reallocation in such a manner that Germany and Italy would get shares.

It was doubted that Japan would agree to give up any of the Caroline or Marshall islands, which have immense strategic value in the South Pacific, but the League of Nations could recall the mandates on a technicality.

There was no talk of handing back all the mandated colonies to Germany. Thus far, the Reich has not made any specific demands for return of particular colonies.

French official circles said another Locarno conference may be called in London immediately after Hitler replies to Eden's questionnaire.

U. S. Virginia Revenue Set at $57 Per Capita

By the Associated Press.

The Treasury Department reported yesterday that internal revenue collections in Virginia in the 1935 fiscal year averaged $57.79 per capita.

The same report showed per capita Federal expenditures in the State in that year were $9.43.

With total collections of $141,348,600, Virginia was the third largest revenue State on a per capita basis in the 1935 fiscal year. Per capita collections were greater in Delaware and North Carolina.

Plane Warns Addis Ababa

maich Nasibu, southern front commander, reporting that his forces shot down four Italian airplanes with rifle fire near Sasa Baneh Saturday.

In the same engagement, Nasibu said, two Italian tanks were destroyed by Ethiopian anti-tank guns newly acquired. He reported that Sunday the unfortified town of Goba was attacked by airplanes which showered shrapnel and incendiary bombs and fired machine gun bursts. Houses were burned and several civilians were wounded.

The 17-year-old Princess Tesahai took time out from her work on gas masks in the shops of the Ethiopian Women's Work Association to receive journalists.

"If Italy is allowed to destroy Ethiopia with gas other civilizations will be destroyed," she said. "If we are not helped quickly gas and aggression will overshadow us in death. For God's sake, help us before it is too late."

Move Ahead Steadily.

Rome, April 27 (AP).—Three Fascist columns, two of foot soldiers and the other of motor trucks, climbed steadily tonight toward the central Ethiopian plateau holding the capital city of Addis Ababa.

Italian press dispatches from the northern front disclosed two Eritrean columns have pushed far ahead of the long line of motorized convoys to clear the rough terrain of defenders and protect both flanks.

The advance guard was believed to be at least halfway to Emperor Haile Selassie's seat of government.

In the south the advance was reported being duplicated as another trio of Blackshirt columns converged on the strategic city of Sasa Baneh, Ethiopian stronghold and gateway to Harar, second city of the Negus' kingdom.

One force struck at the city directly from the south after an engagement at the junction of the Fafan and Jerer rivers. The second moved eastward on the road to Bulaleh, and the third marched on Daggah Bur, 25 miles northeast.

The clash at the river fork, the Italian dispatches said, resulted in the loss of 1,000 men by the Ethiopians and the capture of several officers of Ras Nasibu's general staff, including his secretary.

(Ras Nasibu, southern Ethiopian commander, previously had been reported to have stemmed the Italian advance after terrific fighting south of Sasa Baneh.)

Ex-AAA Aid Scores House Tenant Bill

Drafting of a House substitute for the Senate-approved Bankhead farm tenant bill was sharply criticized yesterday by Gardner Jackson, chairman of the National Committee on Rural Social Planning.

Jackson, former AAA official, charged that the House Agriculture Committee, meeting in secret sessions with officials of the Agriculture Department and the Resettlement Administration, was working out a substitute which did not protect interests of tenants.

The Bankhead tenant bill would provide Government funds which would be used to help tenant farmers to buy their own lands over a long period of time. The House committee several weeks ago began studying plans for its own measure.

Wealthy Family Balks Widow's Wedding Plans

Mrs. Snow Postpones Her Marriage to Press Agent, 'Adopted' Baron.

By the Associated Press.

Boston, April 27.—The Boston Record says gossip of astonished society folk and family criticism had caused postponement tonight of the marriage of Mrs. Frederic E. Snow, wealthy widow of 65, and Baron Wilhelm Frary von Blomberg, 28-year-old press agent.

The baron, just plain Bill Frary, who rushed copy and coffee in a newspaper office until his adoption by the aged Baroness Adelheid von Blomberg, said, however, that Mrs. Snow's determination to be married was as strong as ever.

"Mrs. Snow assured me that whatever members of her family had said has not changed her mind," the Record quoted him as saying.

Baroness, Too, Objects.

"I've been very much upset by all this publicity," commented the nobleman-by-adoption, whose business is getting publicity for fish dealers and ice cream and candy manufacturers.

Besides the adamant opposition of aghast relatives and friends of Mrs. Snow, whose husband was one of Boston's most socially prominent and wealthy lawyers, there appeared also the antipathy of the aged baroness.

The Baroness, who believes that Bacon wrote Shakespeare's plays and circulated petitions to the King of England asking him to recognize by proclamation that supposed authorship, is and "old and dear" friend of Mrs. Snow.

Blames Publicity.

The Record asserts she was at first unopposed to the match between her friend and her adopted son, but today it became apparent she had developed a decided dislike for the proposal.

"I guess the publicity and reporters have changed her mind," remarked the Baron.

"I just got a message to come and see her. She's very angry. She doesn't want the marriage to take place. Her chief reason is the difference in our ages."

The Baron quoted Mrs. Snow as reassuring him, however, that their romance would end happily.

"Don't worry, Willie," the Record quoted him as having his fiance tell him. "Everything will come out all right. We'll wait a little while until all this dies down and then take matters into our own hands."

Tammany Young Services Today

Los Angeles, April 27 (AP).—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for W. Tammany Young, "good luck actor" and self-styled champion gate crasher.

Young, who came to the movies from the Broadway stage five years ago, died of a heart attack yesterday as he slept. The body will be sent to New York for burial.

Before he became a film comedian, Young appeared in many Broadway shows. The producers regarded his as a good luck actor—they gave him parts as much for that as for his talents.

At the time of his death, he had just finished working as "stooge" for W. C. Fields in the picture "Poppy." He had been in all of Fields' pictures.

Young took pride in his ability to "crash" big sporting events and theatrical openings.

Ditter Absence Delays D. C. Appropriation Bill

Due to thea bsence from Washington of Representative Ditter, sole Republican member of the House managers on the District appropriations bill, Acting Chairman Blanton yesterday asked that conferences be delayed several days.

Senator Thomas, who heads the Senate delegation, stated that he would be ready to call a conference upon short notice as soon as Ditter returns from Pennsylvania, where he is now occupied with election primaries. It is probable that the conference may be called the latter part of this week.

Wagner Defends Housing Measure

By the Associated Press.

Senator Wagner (Democrat) New York, last night urged enactment of his $876,000,000 housing bill as a certain means by which men could be put to work and recovery stimulated.

In a radio address he said business interests "are all agreed that the best way, the only permanent way, to remedy unemployment is to create useful jobs in private industry.

"They are also convinced that the occupation which offers the widest field for expansion at the present time is home building."

He described his measure, which would allow the Federal Government to make loans and grants to local housing authorities to finance housing for low income groups, as "designed to assist in bringing the construction trades back to normal."

"There is nothing that could be so useful to the Nation as better housing. At least 11,000,000 families, meaning approximately 45,000,000 people, are now living under conditions that do not protect their health and safety," he said.

Goering Made Ruler of Nazi Supply, Funds

Chosen by Hitler to Direct Raw Materials; May Cut Spending.

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

Berlin, April 27.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler today appointed Gen. Wilhelm Goering virtual dictator over all matters concerning raw materials and foreign currencies.

Goering also is Prussian premier and minister of aviation.

The official announcement of Goering's appointment declares that since matters concerning raw materials, foreign currencies and various departments of administration require Nazi party co-operation, Hitler decided upon appointment.

Goering is authorized to conduct hearings, give orders in all party and administration departments and to request cabinet ministers to support him or act as his deputies.

Takes Over Schacht Powers.

The appointment means apparently that Goering now is superior to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, economic minister and president of the Reichsbank.

The new powers conferred upon Goering formerly were held by Schacht.

In some quarters it was believed that Schacht's position is strengthened rather than weakened by Goering's appointment to his new post without title.

It was pointed out that Hitler's action may be intended to check Nazi propaganda urging abandonment of Schacht's devisen (foreign exchange) policy. Thus, far from affecting Schacht's position adversely, it would protect it.

Many believed Goering's powers will go so far as to prevent Nazi propaganda against any financial measures the government desires to take. While apparently there are no plans to abandon rearmament or to reduce expenditures immediately nevertheless the Reich recently reduced allowances to the states.

Expenditure Cuts Urged.

The weekly Deutscher Volkswirt, which is closed to Schacht, recently urged similar cuts in allowances to municipalities and other public bodies—possibly also meaning but not naming the Nazi party.

As the local administrative bodies which are likely to be affected by cuts are the strongholds of the Nazi party strong opposition against a policy of reduced expenditures is expected.

In order to cope with such opposition the Deutscher Volkswirt urged appointment of a "commissar of public expenditure" fully empowered to cut public expenditures. It is considered possible that Goering's appointment marks the first step in this direction.

It was understood that the government, which until now has financed its expenditures, especially for rearmament, by contracting huge credits totaling millions of marks annually, is now determined not to assume further credits. It is determined not to spend beyond its revenue.

END ALL COMPROMISE

We believe it is true that most ambitious Americans have a desire to own and drive a distinguished automobile—for it is a perfectly human aspiration. And now—with the introduction of the new Cadillac V-8, Series 60—the finest of motor cars is well within the means of the average progressive family. In fact, the time has unquestionably come to end all compromise and drive a Cadillac—for the V-8, Series 60, is priced as low as $1645, at Detroit. May we arrange a demonstration?

Fairfax Board Arranges Deal For Rail Route

Limits School Units' Share in Payment of Taxes by Defunct Line.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Alexandria 43-F-31.

The last obstacle in the acquisition of the abandoned right-of-way of the Great Falls branch of the Washington and Old Dominion Railway by Fairfax County was removed yesterday at a joint meeting of the county board of supervisors and the county school board.

An agreement was reached between the two boards whereby the school board would return approximately $8,200 of the amount it would receive when the railroad taxes were paid into the general county fund, which is under the control of the supervisors.

Last fall receivers for the railroad offered to sell the county the right of way from the Arlington County line to Great Falls, about 8 miles long, for past due taxes amounting to $22,648.56, less cash receipts from the assets of the defunct railroad. This offer was accepted and confirmed by the Circuit Court on April 14.

When the court order was entered the receiver was directed to deed the right of way to the county and turn over to it $5,250 in cash, for which the county would issue a warrant for $22,648.56. The receiver was directed to indorse the warrant and turn it over to the county treasurer in payment of the past due taxes.

County Faced Dilemma.

The supervisors last week realized that when the taxes were paid this money would not be returned to the general county fund, but under the law the treasurer would have to distribute this amount among various funds. When the county budget was adopted the 1st of April provision for paying for the right of way was overlooked and the general county fund did not contain sufficient balance to carry out the transaction and usual county activities until taxes are paid this fall.

Seeking a solution to the problem and unwilling to reopen the county budget, the supervisors asked the school board to hold a joint session, as school finances were involved.

Following an all-day session discussing the legal problem involved, a resolution was adopted by the board of supervisors asking the school board to return approximately $8,200 of the amount it receives to the general county fund. It was pointed out that this would mean that the school board would receive about $2,400 more than it anticipated when the county school budget was prepared and the general county fund would remain approximately the same amount after the transaction as neither of the county boards had anticipated the collection of the past-due taxes from the railway this year.

..... Transfer Held Legal. ....

At the request of the school board, Commonwealth's Attorney Paul E. Brown rendered an opinion based on a similar opinion of the State attorney general that such a transfer of funds would be legal.

The continued operation of the Bluemount division of the railway under a new company was dependent on the settlement of all past due taxes and Fairfax County was the only county in which any difficulty was encountered. The board of supervisors was willing to take over the abandoned right of way, declaring that it was worth many times the amount due in taxes, and that the continued operation of the Bleumount division was of vital importance to the entire northern section of the county.

The Young Democratic Club of Fairfax County will hold its regular monthly meeting tomorrow in the Fairfax Courthouse. Final plans for holding a dance Thursday night in the River Bend dance hall, on the Bount Vernon boulevard, will be made.

Hit-Run Clews Found in Death Of District Man

Part of Bumper Found; Police Told of Speeding District Auto.

With the finding of a part of an auto bumper, Prince Georges County police were confident yesterday that Walter Davis, 47, of 1109 L street southeast, was the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

He was believed struck by an auto as he walked along Central avenue in Maryland Park early Sunday morning. He was within a few yards of his own parked car when found by Jack Schrodt, a friend.

Sergt. A. W. Hepburn, of the Upper Marlboro station, said a car was seen speeding crazily along that portion of the new Washington-Annapolis highway about the time Davis was believed killed. It bore District tags.

According to Schrodt, he, Mrs. Schrodt, Davis and "a young lady friend" had stopped by "Mack's Restaurant," a few hundred yards down Central avenue.

Davis allegedly became disgruntled because other men began to show hsi companion attentions, and subsequently left. Shortly afterwards Schrodt said he went to look for Davis and found his body in a ditch beside the road. His head was in a pool of water.

In a report submitted to Mayor Norman A. Pruitt by the finance committee of Mount Rainier Town Council it was disclosed that a deficit of $9,714.33 existed in the general town fund when the present administration came into power last May.

Covering the fiscal years 1931 to 1935, which included three years and seven months of the administration of former Mayor John H. Beall, the report stated that cash receipts for the period amounted to $81,113.29, while disbursements for the same period totaled $90,827.62. In only one fiscal year during that period, 1932-33, was a surplus noted. It amounted to $287.05.

Deficits of $5,556.90, $1,348.77 and $3,095.71 were noted in the fiscal year 1931-32, -933-34 and 1934-35. The total cash available during the four-year period was $90,930.24, of which $9,816.95 represented a cash balance brought forward from the fiscal years 1930-31. There was a cash balance of $102.62 in the general fund at the of the 1934-35 fiscal year.

The report also showed that expenditures for the current fiscal year, 1935-36, which ends May 1, were, as of April 20, $552.56 less than budget estimates. The budget estimated $22,292.23 in expected cash receipts. The report, however, shows that as of April 20 actual cash receipts amounted to $22,252.28. Disbursements were estimated at $22,-168.79, while thus far disbursements have actually been $21,8616.23.

It was estimated by the committee that the actual cash balance when the books are closed Thursday night will be over $600, whereas the budget had estimated a balance of only $226. The committee is headed by Councilman John E. Parsell and includes Councilmen John T. Duever, Carl E. Harberger and Arthur J. Bates.

Construction of the proposed combination municipal office building and firehouse at Brentwood met with further delay last week when all bids for the work, presented to the joint committee of town and fire department officials were found to be in excess of the $10,000 limit set by the Maryland State Legislature. The lowest bid submitted amounted to $16,000, it was announced by E. W. Baker.

First proposed early last year the matter had to run the gantlet of the Legislature first and a referendum election of the citizens of the community afterward. The Legislature in giving town officials permission to construct the building set $10,000 as the maximum cost.

Bethesda Meeting Asks Abolishment Of Welfare Board

After a stormy debate the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce last night adopted a resolution calling for abolition of the Montgomery County board of public welfare and the return of all relief activities to the State.

The chamber also voted to oppose the etsablishment of a garbage disposal plant at Chevy Chase Lake, application for which has been filed by a private firm.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE
Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up.

Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.

Politics Delays Naming House Airport Group

Byrns Declines to Say if He Will Pick Members of D. C. Committee.

House politics yesterday appeared to be threatening to keep House District Committee members off the District airport commission.

Speaker Byrns, who expected to appoint three House members on the commission yesterday and thus complete the roster, withheld the appointments, he said, because several members ask to confer with him about the matter.

The Speaker said he would announce the appointments today, but declined to state whether they will be members of the House District Committee.

Three Senators Named.

Until recently there seemed no doubt that the Speaker would name leading members of the District Committee to the commission, just as the Vice President named three Senators from the District Committee—King, of Utah; Copeland, of New York, and Austin, of Vermont.

House members outside the District Committee, it is understood, have suggested to the Speaker that the selections be made from among noncommittee members.

Th logical choice for the appointments, if the customary policy of naming committee members is followed, would be Chairman Mary T. Norton, Representative Nichols (Democrat), Oklahoma, and a minority Representative, probably either Dirken, of Illinois, or Cole, of New York.

Nichols, of the three, has been the most active House member in pushing through the present legislation creating a commission to select a site for a District-Federal airport.

Mrs. Norton is not anxious to serve on the commission, but committee members think she should serve as a counterpart to Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

The delay in House appointments is holding up work of the commission, and daily prospects that the commission can make its recommendations before adjournment of Congress are diminishing.

President Roosevelt named the first members of the commission immediately after signing the act. They are Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, chief of the Army Air Corps; Frederick A. Delano, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Lieut. Col. Dan I. Sultan, District Engineer Commissioner.

Drive Started In City to Aid Jews in Europe

Funds Raised in 2-Week Campaign Also to Go to Palestine Rebuilding.

A two-week canvass for United Jewish Appeal funds was launched last night at a meeting of 400 volunteer drive workers at the Jewish Community Center.

Representatives of every large Jewish organization in Washington were present to pledge co-operation in the campaign for $50,000 for relief of destitute Polish and German Jews and fr upbuilding Palestine.

Isidore Hershfield, co-chairman of the drive, graphically pictured conditions abroad that made necessary the raising of millions of dollars throughout the United States this year for Jews in Germany and Poland. He termed the situation abroad as "the greatest disaster that has befallen our people in their long history."

Hershfield told the audience 350,000 Jews had found a haven in Palestine since the war and work of rebuilding the Jews' homeland must be speeded to take care of tens of thousands eager to emigrate to the Holy Land.

Morris Cafritz and Edmund I. Kaufmann, the other cochairmen, spoke briefly of Germany's war on Jews and the desperate situation of refugees.

Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, vice chairman of the drive, called upon workers to carry on the canvass for funds as though no money had yet been contributed, in order that the $50,000 quota may be far exceeded.

Other speakers included Morris Simon, chairman of special gifts, Charles B. Dulcan, Mrs. Aaron Shalowitz, Joseph D. Kaufman, Mrs. Leonard B. Schloss, Mrs. Fedora Lewis and Louis E. Spiegler, drive director.

Another meeting will be held tonight at the Willard Hotel under the auspices of the special gifts committee.

Tax Bill Bloc Formed

enue this new tax bill will produce.

"I believe it will destroy many small business organizations, and that it is entirely in favor of the large corporation which already has an adequate surplus.

"It will create monopolies and place additional hardships on small organizations which have depleted their reserves during the depression.

"It will destroy for all time the back-log that business had at the beginning of this depression, and materially hamper the growth and financing of all new or small business enterprises, the sort that are the very backbone of our economic life. To this extent the bill is a direct threat to employment.

"In a word, this Administration has no idea where it is going or what it is going to do from one year to the next, or what its proposals will be. Its program is hit-or-miss, and its policies are based wholly on guess-work.

"It leads the Nation into one blind alley after another.

"Let us stop this continuous substitution of uncertainty for certainty.

"The most urgent need of the country today is a definite and positive financial program for the Federal Government—a program which will signalize the end of the New Deal's spending joyride."

Same Old Story.

Representative Fuller (Democrat), of Arkansas, replying to Snell, said that criticism of the bill "is the same old story of entrenched wealth seeking to avoid taxation."

Representative Vinson charged that the Republicans, though loud in their criticism of the tax bill, had no alternative plan to offer. He added:

"It is a difficult matter to meet the attacks of opponents of the measure because those attacks, 99 per cent of them, have been nothing but glittering generalities."

The Republicans, he said, accuse the Democrats of not having courage to bring in a tax bill that will balance the budget, and yet in the next breath "say they favor no tax bill."

Vinson said that in many cases the Administration's bill would result in a decrease in corporation taxes.

Representative Hollister (Republican), of Ohio, said the Administration's bill would exempt chain stores from heavy penalties imposed on all other business.

The corporations that operate these stores, he pointed out, have a quick turnover and stand in no need of big financial reserves. On the other hand, he said, an industry, dealing in heavy, durable goods, which may have only a few contracts a year, must of necessity maintain a reserve in its treasury.

The result, he said, is that such an industry is severely handicapped when compared with the chain store industry.

KILL THIS Tax

Selfish interests want Congress to put an additional tax of 5¢ to 10¢ on every pound of Margarine. These tax bills should be killed. They are H. R. 9672 by Culkin of New York, H. R. 9865 by Boileau of Wisconsin, and H. R. 10671 by Pierce of Oregon.

IT is proposed to levy a ruinous tax of anywhere from 5¢ to 10¢ per pound on Margarine on the theory that the economy of Margarine is a menace to our dairy industry.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the average man should eat at least 36 pounds of table fats every year for his physical well-being.

Actually we eat only 21 pounds per capita of which 18 pounds are creamery butter and 3 pounds are Margarine.

Although Margarine sells for about one half the price of butter, ten times as much butter is consumed at the higher price.

■ Compare these figures with those of Denmark, one of the world's greatest dairy countries.

The Dane eats nearly 3 pounds more butter per year than the American and in addition about 45 pounds of wholesome Margarine on his bread and in cooking.

Apparently Margarine has not ruined the butter industry in Denmark.

To tax Margarine because it costs less than butter would be like taxing Fords because they cost less than Lincolns; like taxing Iowa corn in favor of Dakota wheat; like taxing Georgia peaches to raise the price of Oregon apples.

Margarine's lower selling price is attractive to the thrifty and to the millions of people with limited means.

Will a tax on this wholesome and nourishing food product sell more butter to people who cannot now afford the higher price of butter?

The answer is No! A tax on Margarine is a tax for selfish interests, an impossible levy on the food budgets of the masses who cannot afford to foot the bill.

The Art Of Criticism.

In the death of Percy Hammond the theater has lost a valuable friend. This is true not only because of his professional interest as a critic, but also because his criticism was as constructive as it was pithy. But perhaps even deeper than the theater's loss is that of the public, who depended on him for honest and fearless reviews, and got them.

Play reviewing, insists the eminent Brooks Atkinson, "is not a form of the higher criticism; it is a practical form of news reporting." Yet it is doubtful if even Mr. Atkinson himself believes this to be the whole truth. The old stock phrases of who, when, and where may have sufficed when melodrama leaned more to the mellow than it did to the drama. But subtlety has now made its stage whisper heard and critics have had of necessity to enlarge also on the psychological how and why.

Mr. Hammond was ever cynical of the possibility of friendship between critics and players, contending that neither were "sufficiently capable of burying their natural antagonisms." Be that as it may, certainly there has never been much love lost between critics and playwrights. Pirandello seems to dote on writing more to amaze the critics than to amuse the public. O'Neill distrusts their interpretation to the point of inserting self-explanatory asides. And Elmer Rice was so irked by them that he retired from Broadway.

The inherent qualifications of an ideal drama critic would seem to be a thorough knowledge of the theater, its history and mechanics; an ability to differentiate between the comparative merits of plays; an unprejudiced viewpoint in judging histrionic talent; an intuitive insight into the motives intended to be conveyed by the spoken word; and a capacity for presenting these opinions in an entertaining and instructive way. To accomplish this in a satisfactory manner, he must be subservient to no interest but that of his own conscience. And, above all, he should strive to strike a happy medium between an ineffectual yes-yes "ticket-grabber" and an equally ineffective nay, nay Nathan.

For A Currency War.

Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, confidently predicts that France will shortly abandon the gold standard. Doubtless the wish is father to the thought, since the Senator would regard a further reduction in the gold value of the franc as a new argument in favor of further devaluation of the dollar. The President should have the power to reduce the present value of the dollar by from 33 1-3 to 40 per cent, Mr. Thomas is quoted as saying. Otherwise French devaluation would leave us "the only important country with our export dollar tied to gold."

If France should devalue her currency, following the elections there, either there would be no important international repercussions, or two widely different alternatives would be presented for consideration. The action might on the one hand hasten the conclusion of a far-reaching stabilization agreement embracing this country, France and Great Britain. On the other hand, it might lead to a renewed outburst of suicidal currency warfare, taking the form of competitive devaluation or depreciation of the dollar and the pound. In the latter event, French efforts to correct the overvaluation of the franc, and thus relieve the deflationary pressure upon the domestic price level, would be thwarted. France would be no better off than at present and the pressure to devaluate or depreciate the franc still further would continue.

If Senator Thomas has his way, the United States would be an active agent in such a senseless competition in currency devaluation, thereby inciting the British to retaliate by depressing the exchange value of the pound. The contest could only end in a stalemate after bringing losses to all the participants, whose foreign trade would be unfavorably affected by unstable and fluctuating currencies. The effect upon our domestic trade, of course, would be even more serious, largely because of the shock to confidence that would result from a renewed tampering with the dollar.

Senator Thomas appears to believe that our "export" gold dollar could be devalued, leaving our "domestic" dollar unaffected. The idea provides an intriguing subject for parlor debate by amateur economists. But it would be another matter if it should bring Prof. Warren out of obscurity, or otherwise lead to a fresh orgy of monetary experimentation at national expense.

Another Speculative Crisis.

The Johns Hopkins University yesterday launched an emergency campaign to raise $750,000, required "to maintain operations at the present level" during the next two academic years. The financial pressure upon the university is shown to be due primarily to declining interest rates, which are responsible for a shrinkage of over 25 per cent in the institution's income. The capital value of its invested endowment funds, on the other hand, shows a reduction of less than 4 per cent during the depression period, indicating that the investment policy pursued has been wise and conservative.

The financial embarrassment and painful readjustments made necessary by the drop in long-term interest rates are of course not peculiar to the famous university in Baltimore. Innumerable endowed institutions, banks, insurance companies, and individual investors find that the returns from invested funds are steadily diminishing.

In the early stages of recovery from depression, interest rates are usually low, because of a lack of profitable openings for investment of accumulated savings. Lower rates, due to this natural adjustment of supply to demand in the capital markets, create no misgivings and provide a welcome stimulus to business. The low interest rates of today, however, are the result of a highly artificial and unstable condition of the money markets.

The supply of investment funds has been abnormally swollen as a result of deficit financing. Instead of selling its obligations to individual investors, the Government has placed them for the most part with the banks at extremely low rates of interest. As the borrowed money has been spent, it has returned to the banks in the form of private deposits and this credit-created purchasing power has been a prime factor in bidding up prices of investment securities. The result has been a restricted and in many respects unique kind of inflation, confined to limited categories of stocks and bonds. The current plunge in security values illustrates the inflationary character of the forces which have been at work.

There has been no flight from the dollar, as evidenced by the fact that long-term Government issues are selling to yield about 2½ per cent, while short-term rates for Government issues are close to the vanishing point. Industrial bonds and certain classes of stocks have likewise been selling at prices that bear no reasonable relation either to present earnings or future prospects of return. The existing excessive supply of funds for investment has plainly been used to bid up prices of outstanding securities, instead of being employed in financing new capital developments. The "easy money" policy has failed, therefore, to fulfill its mission as a business "pump primer." And it has created a situation that threatens to produce another speculative crisis involving our banks and fiduciary institutions, in addition to creating serious difficulties for institutions dependent upon income from invested capital.

In an article in the current New Republic, A. Wilfred May points out that "the arbitrary extinction of interest rates and the creation of a huge surplusage of unemployable funds, in functioning as the real forces inflating the stock market, are directly vitiating the regulatory efforts of the SEC and making a joke of its self-avowed purpose to turn us into a "nation of investors."

This paradoxical situation provides fresh evidence of the characteristic heedlessness with which the Administration has launched its regulatory policies, without realizing that "the Government's right arm of monetary expansion is directly overcoming the efforts of its left arm of SEC speculative control."

Culture By Edict.

"If our national literature is on the decline," Napoleon is said to have remarked, "I had better speak to my minister of education about it." The same spirit was obvious in the recent celebration of the 2,698th anniversary of the founding of Rome, when the military, political, scientific and commercial instruments of Il Duce, including Signor Marconi and all of Italy's pastry cooks, proclaimed that their country is profiting rather than suffering in the arts of peace during its present military excursion.

When Mussolini told his public that his war on Ethiopia was promoting the "power, justice, and civilization" of Rome, he simply set forth his timeworn formula, and surprised no one. But when Marconi informed the Academy of Italy that new inspiration in poetry, history, sculpture, and painting would be derived from a war that consists mainly of gassing and bombing African villages, he formulated a theory of art and scholarship which is repulsive to all who realize that both types of human effort must be personal rather than political expressions.

It would be impossible to cite Italian history in support of the Fascist idea of the genesis of art. The greatest intellectual and spiritual achievements of the nation were accomplished during the Renaissance, when Italy was, as she remained until late in the nineteenth century, only "a geographical expression," a mixture of petty, jealous city-states and provinces. Her greatest art was the product of religious feeling and commercial prosperity, but never of military conquests.

Marconi should be reminded that Imperial Rome conquered northern Africa, from Gibraltar to Suez, without producing in celebration of her victories a single work of art or scholarship that is remembered today. He might also be referred to Livy's great history, which tells of the invasion of Italy by an African general, Hannibal; and to Virgil's epic, which recounts the judicious retreat of Aeneas to Italy from Dido, the African queen.

In fact, the record indicates that the Ethiopian war is more likely to bring a cultural advance among the truly heroic followers of Hailie Selassie than among the regimented servants of the seemingly victorious Fascist dictatorship.

Sent Under Frank?

Representative Blanton's questionnaire, addressed to judges of the District courts, seeks to determine how many have employment in addition to their governmental duties, and the remuneration for these outside services. In themselves these are not unreasonable inquiries to make of public servants at a time when a budget including provisions for their salaries is under discussion.

The indications that the questionnaires were sent out on the authority of a single Congressman, however, makes it impossible to accept the inquiry as a normal matter. The chairman of the House subcommittee on District appropriations is apparently making this investigation entirely on his own responsibility. Presumably he is collecting arguments to support his effort to eliminate remunerative sidelines for all municipal officials receiving $2,400 a year or more from the District pay roll. But if the House committee wants that information, the committee as such should call for it.

When Senator Vandenberg recently became suspicious of the sums paid by the AAA to individual beneficiaries, he did not send Secretary Wallace a questionnaire demanding the information needed. Instead, he requested the appropriate body—in this case the Senate Committee on Agriculture—to approve a resolution requiring the information.

Since that orderly course is proper in obtaining information on governmental expenditures, it is doubly important that regular procedure be followed in requesting data on private matters. In this case Mr. Blanton is clearly overstepping his Congressional prerogative. Recipients of his questionnaire would be entirely justified in consigning them to the nearest wastebasket, after noting whether or not he sends these unofficial messages under governmental frank.

The Language Of Stockings.

In the spring a young woman's fancy may lightly turn to thoughts of "caress." This is not necessarily because she is romantically inclined, but perhaps merely indicates that she has concentrated on "twilight" all winter and has found that shade rather monotonous. And if you don't understand what this is all about it simply means that you are not giving the hosiery announcements the attention they deserve.

This naming of women's stockings after flora and fauna, dance music and Spanish cities, is frankly perplexing to the plodding male. He goes into the nearest haberdashery, calls for lisle, wool or silk, in desired color and size, and is out again—the smug picture of masculine efficiency. Not so the less emancipated sex, which must choose between sheer and sheerest, knee-length or full-size, and make selections among such subtle shade distinctions as "smoke," "rhumba" and "caprice." Paradoxically, there is even a very popular little number titled "mouse."

The psychologists will have to be called in to describe the varying effects upon the wearer of such shades as "tahiti," "monsoon" and "dansant." And in an election year there is no saying what subtle indications may be conveyed by an appropriate choice of chiffons for the lower extremities of female voters. If you wear "caprice" obviously your ballot is safe for the New Deal. And if "twilight" is your shade the political implications are just as clear.

Emotions And Economists.

Harold M. Fleming in Scribner's Magazine.

The Marxians long ago asserted that economists are driven to their views by identification with a particular class or state of society. But psychiatrists would probably find a more personal explanation. The Marxian dogma of historic materialism . . . hardly explains the views of Marx himself, a typical Marxian, who came from a middle-class family, nor those of the present-day middle-class radical American economist, who is usually the son of a preacher or a small business man.

The psychiatric explanation of unconscious emotional set is that it is formed in the nursery. Early domination or overprotection produces unconscious rebellion, on the one hand, and an unconscious desire to dominate and dictate, on the other. . . .

In this pained and dazed American world, just recovering from prolonged depression, where hardship, frustration, and insecurity have set men's faces against each other, the greatest service our economists could do us would be to take all possible steps to free themselves from emotional blind spots. No economist can hope to take a sound, objective attitude toward social problems if his vision is distorted by emotional conflicts of his own. If economics is to become, or remain, a science of human behavior, economists must be well educated emotionally.

Young D. A. R. Proposed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have attended most of the meetings of the Daughters of the American Revolution in convention here and am moved to say that they are a pitiful lot as representative of the fathers of the American Revolution.

Those who were responsible for the American Revolution were young and brave, and truly the liberals of their day. The few older members among them were certainly young in spirit. The daughters of these revolutionists can hardly be called true representatives of the spirit and ideals for which the revolutionists fought and died.

The majority of the members of the D. A. R. are 60 years of age or over. They have wrapped themselves up too much in tradition and the past to fully realize the present and its needs. They hardly seem to realize how the country has grown and developed, creating newer and greater national problems which must be dealt with along broad and constructive lines. This country cannot be discriminative of certain races, because it is not that type of a country.

In some other countries, where the subjects are almost wholly one nationality, the problems of government greatly differ from ours. Here we have a composite picture of mostly all races united to create a higher civilization. They are your friends and neighbors. You meet them at your clubs, at the corner grocery store and in the office. Going back to the days of the American Revolution, did not George Washington invite Lafayette, Kosciuszko and Pulaski to settle here and enjoy the freedom of the land? The roster of the Continental Army also showed a great number of foreigners in its ranks, fired by the same ideals.

If I were a descendant of the revolutionists I would certainly advocate a Society of Young Daughters of the American Revolution, not old daughters—a keener and more forceful organization, with broader views and greater energy, and truer to the ideals of the founding fathers.

City Speed Limit.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note a suggestion that the in-town speed of automobiles be advanced to 30 m. p. m. Wouldn't it be better to say at least 45 m. p. h.? That seems to be the general average. There is a rumor that the legal rate is 22 m. p. h. downtown.

If I ever see a car observing that speed I shall endeavor to get a picture of it for you.

"Good Neighbor" Idea.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I notice that the drys have formed a "Good Neighbor League." That's fine—it is in keeping with the President's recent nonpolitical suggestion, "the good neighbor idea." It is also in line with the slogan of the Trenton, Mo., Chamber of Commerce—"Get Acquainted With Your Neighbor; You Might Like Him."

Now it might be well for the wets and others who have differences to settle to form "Good Neighbor Clubs" and solve their differences. Washington is badly in need of the "good neighbor idea."

Alexandria's Newcomers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Nothing adds more to the charm of a growing community than the fact that many people from a distance realize the possibilities which have for many years been waiting their resurrection, and are taking advantage of a chance to bring order out of chaos, converting dilapidated old shacks and tumble-down structures into modern homes.

In doing this, many times they encounter criticism and antagonism by those who have passed and repassed these unsightly buildings without even a comment and who have never given a helping hand toward the betterment of these conditions.

Through your well-circulated paper, I want to say that we owe these newcomers—Congressmen, colonels, lawyers, etc., a vote of thanks for their far-sighted view into the future of our beloved city.

For instance, the people of the First Ward have suffered for many years with the smoke and cinder nuisance from an electric light plant and not until a week or two ago did we have any one to awake the City Council from its Rip Van Winkle sleep, and those who disturbed them in their relaxation were none other than our newcomers.

Let us remember the prayer of the man who was forced to climb a tree to take refuge from a hungry bear: "Oh, Lord, if you can't help me, please don't help the bear."

If we can't help in what these friends of Alexandria are trying to do, for goodness' and our city's sake, don't hinder.

"Sad Commentary."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When a United States Representative has to stoop to defense of his own petty law evasions in order to obtain publicity it is a sad commentary.

Representative Zioncheck's recent activities look like a transparent effort to obtain the sort of publicity that flowed naturally to the late Huey Long.

The only difference is, the Washington Representative has nothing on the ball.

F. C. CODY.

"Unrebuked Insolence."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is an adage that he who pays the piper calls the tune. In the District of Columbia it is otherwise. There are a good many more people in Washington, D. C., than there are in Seattle, Wash., or in the Seventeenth Congressional District of Texas, and they probably contribute more to the salaries of the Representatives from those districts than do their immediate constituents. But have the residents of the District any influence with these gentlemen? Do they get even decent respect for local ordinances, or half-way decent consideration for local needs? They do not.

Each branch of Congress controls its membership. Yet it has tolerated in both branches and continues to tolerate conduct "unbecoming an officer and a gentleman," conduct for which any private or common seaman would be incontinentally discharged in disgrace. The Founding Fathers feared corruption, but they never dreamed that any constituency would choose to be represented by a clown, or that such a person would be tolerated in Congress. All of which suggests that the fathers thought better of posterity than it deserves.

This Congress has reached the nadir in disrespect permitted toward the Chief Executive, and in time-wasting, buffoonery and shameless insolence. The major party whose members have allowed such conditions to go on unrebuked, hasn't even the flimsy excuse of needing the votes of these individuals who disgrace its traditions.

A DISGUSTED DEMOCRAT.
Washington, April 25.

Still More On Washington's Parks.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Tourist guide books and "Washington Beautiful" literature should, hereafter, add this footnote to their effusions:

The generic term "concrete horizons" was first applied to the park system as a result of a mild epidemic of changeitis that smacked the burg during the depression. After murder of Smithsonian park and ruination of McPherson square, it assumed plague form in '36.

The germ, isolated by learned veterinarians, was called "artistic conception." The first warning of impending attack was, quote: "a feeling as of your feet in the clouds and your head in the sand." An obstacle to its control was a $1,000,000 loan that had to be spent. No park or triangle, however hardy, was immune from its insidious, drastic and devastating ravages. No victim, smitten ever fully recovered.

The keynote was "leave no auld sod unturned or green spot unscrambled." And the fighting slogan: "The louder the saps yap, the sourer the medicine and the more vigorous its application." Symptoms, chiefly noted by the "vets," were hallucinations of horror (on the part of the jack-the-rippers) that any shrub, tree or patch of turf be left undisturbed or untransplanted. From this developed the obsession that only treatment with concrete, bountifully and promiscuously applied, could combat the disorder.

Old methods of bleeding were held up to scorn and ridicule and a charge of quackery, supported by ornate plans in repudiation of everything previously done.

J. WINSTEAD.
Washington, April 25.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have a suggestion to those citizens who, like myself, deplore the removal of flowers and flowering shrubs from our small parks.

Let all those of us who have even a few inches of ground near our houses fill them as full as may be with spring flowers, and, if space permits, with a shrub or two; and show the out-of-town people—temporarily in our midst—whether or not pretty things will grow in Washington!

CAVE DWELLER.
Washington, April 25.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What has happened to the little parks and triangles of this city? I become so irritated by seeing everywhere I go great humps of dirt and expanses of concrete. Why don't those in authority let things alone when they are fulfilling their mission of bringing beauty and outdoor loveliness into the lives of city residents.

Hundreds of poor folk in the District were daily refreshed by the sight of those little breathing spaces within walking distances of their dwellings. It would seem to be simply a mania for doing something else, and tearing out the bushes happened to strike them as not a bad way to spend a million.

Relief is curtailed and monstrosities heaped upon us to spend money that should have gone to continued relief of the suffering and poverty everywhere present, adding the insult of hard pavement to the injury done by removing the flowers and bushes. Some of that money to keep men at work as husbandmen of the garden spots would seem to be a more logical procedure.

RUTH OBOLD.
Chevy Chase, Md., April 25.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is one important point that none of your readers who object to the park renovations has raised.

Why cement? Someone is profiting heavily from the laying of these unnecessarily wide and heavy walks, these acres of concrete heavy enough to bear trucks. Cement walks are quite unsuitable for park use—as the Park Commission itself proves by announcing that it will cover the costly cement with asphalt or a bituminous mixture of some kind. Why this double paving, duplicating the costly street pavement that would bear trucks?

Doubtless the Park Commission will announce hastily that the cement layer is thin and the stone bed beneath it much lighter than that used on the streets, but any reputable engineer, if consulted, will agree that the walks are costing probably three times what an all-asphalt or other light walk suitable to the parks should cost.

Here is the objection on which every taxpayer can unite and it is well worth investigation.

"Headquarters-men were busily dusting a fine powder over the butt of the revolver."

Remember them? Of old, no murder-yarn was complete without some mention of fingerprints: at first, fingerprints that were authenticated in the last chapter and convicted the last person you were suspected of suspecting—then fingerprints that weren't found, so you'd shiver at malice-aforethought in rubber-gloves.

But now fingerprint-hunting has become such a commonplace that it is scarcely worth the mention. Correspondence-courses in the language of fingerprints have long been within the reach of every amateur detective.

Nevertheless, fingerprinting continues. That rare bird, the really sagacious criminal, may never go to business ungloved, but fingerprinting spreads beyond the limits of its primitive intention.

Last month an amnesia victim was found wandering the streets of Sacramento. There was nothing in his clothes wherefrom to trace his identity. The California police didn't have his photograph in any of their rogues' galleries.

At almost the same moment, a similar instance turned up in Boston. The legal minions of Massachusetts were equally without means of solving a human riddle of this sort.

But in both cases the fingerprints were sent here to Washington to the Bureau of Investigation of the Federal Department of Justice. And it had duplicates on file.

Also in March, the body of an unknown was washed upon the shores on Long Island Sound at Baiting Hollow, N. Y. The face unrecognizable. No fortunate strawberry-mark on the left shoulder. No papers in the pockets. No laundry labels or tailor's name on the clothes. The local sheriff had fingerprints made and sent them to the B. I. of the D. J.—and identification followed.

Want any more "modern instances?"

March furnished several others. Ask the Missouri Highway Patrol about the stranger killed by a train near North Kansas City. Inquire of the coroner of Washington, Pa., not D. C., concerning a like affair.

Or listen to J. Edgar Hoover.

He is a zealous advocate of the "practical value of having fingerprints available in the files of the bureau"—Director Hoover's bureau. It includes, in its identification division, an up-and-coming civil section—meaning a section of prints taken from fingers neither light nor dipped in gore.

And says he:

"The value . . . is illustrated by the figures concerning fingerprints of deceased persons received by the bureau during March, which would have been identified in each instance had there been available fingerprints of all persons. However, of the 279 fingerprints of deceased persons received during the month, 20 per cent were identified with records already contained in the files . . .

"There was received" from Pittsburgh, January 31, "a civil fingerprint card reflecting the impressions of a man who gave as his address the Veterans Hospital at Aspinwall, Pa. The card also indicated the nearest relative as his wife. Early in March . . . there was received . . . a communication from a woman having the same name as the contributor's wife, advising of the disappearance of her husband . . . A possible identification was effected through the files of the card index . . . and information contained on the civil fingerprint card of this man was furnished . . . On March 23, the bureau was advised that the information . . . had assisted this woman in locating her husband."

How's that for efficiency improving on coincidence?

The only thing that bridles our perfect approval is the director's silence as to whether that husband wanted his wife to find him.

Director Hoover's civil section has the voluntarily provided prints, "loops" and "whorls" of John D. Rockefeller, jr., and the disinterested Attorney General. It has 100,868 in all, of which—so rapidly has the sport become popular—12,672 were received during last month.

Mr. Edgar Hoover doesn't see why the country shouldn't make it unanimous.

Of course, there are still some law-abiding people who remain disinclined. They think the surrender might prove a surrender to espionage. They evidently live in the hope of dying by some means not destructive to identification through less intimate methods.

As for us, this columnist believes everybody should be fingerprinted except himself. And even that exception is extra-legal. We have purely personal reasons for not wanting Director Hoover to know who writes our Column.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler.

Good for the Press.

The recent commotion about the freedom of the press has been a good thing for the body and soul of our business.

The newspaper magnates, publishers, editors and dealers in editorial canned goods such as this temporarily suspended their old rivalries and closed together like a fist to fight for a right as valuable to the people and the country as to the newspaper industry itself.

I think, however, that we have begun to get religion and that you will be able to notice a distinct improvement in our way of doing from now on. There is no use denying that we were scared. In fact, one of the dangers of our present resolve to lead a better life is that we will become just too nice to do our work.

Looking back over my own experience in the newspaper business, I realize now that we did develop some very arrogant ideas of our privileges and importance. Newspaper trucks would tear through the traffic, claiming and getting away with all the rights of the fire engines merely to get to the mail train with the up-State or down-State edition. Reporters would swipe pictures off the wall of homes which had been stricken with tragedy. Editors would bulldoze politicians on the phone, and our set generally held ourselves above the smaller laws, at least, because we knew the chief of police, the prosecutor and the mayor. If we wanted something from the Governor we didn't ask him. We told him.

I must say, however, that the newspaper profession got away with much less in New York than in any other cities in which I got my early training. There were 15 dailies in Manhattan alone when I came to town 20 years ago, and there were so many newspaper people and the city was so large that the individual had no influence. To be sure, a man might use charm on a cop or public official to obtain some special privilege, but it was useless to try pressure.

No one paper or pair of papers under one ownership can dominate all the departments of the city government, and the newspaper people of New York, generally, regard themselves as persons of no special standing. If you want to talk a traffic cop out of a ticket for speeding or for overparking it is all right to give him a song and dance but very bad judgment to pull a reporter's card on him and say, "But I am a newspaper man." His answer to that will be that a newspaper man ought to know what's right and what's wrong and set a good example, considering that the papers are always deploring motor accidents and uneven justice.

I remember when I was a cub during the seven-year war of the Chicago publishers going into a sort of fort on the upper floor of a newspaper plant to discover a gang of tough mugs sitting around playing cards, drinking or just snoozing the time away with pistols and blackjacks all over the place. They called these Chicago mobs entertainment committees, and it took some gall on the part of a publisher, with his hoodlums in reserve upstairs, to run an editorial or story describing the private war of the United States Steel or the Colorado Fuel and Iron and wondering how such things could be. But that was a barbarian age in other lines of American life as well.

• • • •

We were coming along in a pace with civilization and our way of life was much improved when the recent holler about the good old sacred heritage from the Founding Fathers sent us into a huddle with ourselves. From this earnest examination of conscience we have learned that Col. Lindbergh, for a fact, did get a misdeal in the papers. He wanted privacy, and we thought that as a public hero he ought to stand for unlimited publicity. But he was so stubborn and ornery about it that he finally carried his point.

In this respect he was a pioneer far ahead of his time, but we learned something from experience, and I think that gradually our papers will grow less responsive to sheer crowd curiosity regarding famous people who want to be left alone. When they make news, of course, they will have to take their place and like it, and this goes for great occasions, such as weddings, but any paper which attempts to trail a Lindbergh on his honeymoon will do so on its own responsibility and needn't expect the business as a whole to indorse or ignore such conduct.

In this agitation of the last few weeks the main question was a man's right to his privacy as a citizen from official prying by the government. Instinctively we were fixing to holler bloody murder on behalf of the unfortunate victim of this foul outrage when all of a sudden we realized how foolish that would sound.

This made us think.

I haven't seen any official resolve in so many words to lead a better life from now on, but you may be sure that the experience will have a good effect. It will take delicate judgment to decide between idle curiosity and public interest, legitimate privacy and the guilty secrecy of Teapot Dome. That calls for greater responsibility, higher intelligence and, I should think, better pay.

Seclusion Sought By 'Woman in Red'

New York, April 27 (AP).—Declaring she was "not a monkey in a cage," the woman who lured John Dillinger to his death sought seclusion at Ellis Island today as soon as she arrived there from Chicago with a group of other deportees.

Mrs. Anna Cumpanas Chiolak Sage, 44, who became known as "the woman in red" when she walked the Midwestern desperado into a trap prepared by Federal agents and police, was ordered back to her native Rumania as an undesirable alien.

She will remain at Ellis Island until officials decide what ship to return her on. It was believed likely that she would be placed aboard the Italian liner Vulcania, which sails Saturday.

Comparison With Europe Shows Two Symptoms Of "Controlled Economy" Here: Deficit And Industrial Regulation.

By Livingston Hartley.

Special Correspondence of The Post.

The approach of the two national conventions renders more acute the differences of opinion that have arisen in the last four years over such issues as laissez-faire versus controlled economy, and the "American System" versus the New Deal. During these years developments abroad have thrown light on some of these issues. Perhaps we can see our own position more clearly as reflected in the mirror of international life.

In spite of the slogans of the French Revolution, it is permissible to argue that liberty and equality are basically opposed conceptions of the aim of government. Complete liberty would assure inequality between citizens, and 100 per cent equality would mean the death of liberty.

Events in Russia, Italy and Germany have shown that the modern threat to liberty is far more vital than the old socialist urge for equality. In each of these countries liberty has disappeared, but it has not been replaced by either political or economic equality. The dictatorship, whether communist, fascist or Nazi, now claims to offer another boon to humanity of more practical importance than personal liberty. That is the boon of individual economic security.

Many writers have long questioned the value of political liberty to labor under the capitalist system. They claim that the real desire of the worker is economic security, the assurance of a living, of a job for himself and a home and food for his family. The worker, say these writers, would willingly exchange political liberty for economic security.

Germany And Russia Solve Unemployment Problem.

We are told that unemployment is non-existent in Soviet Russia and has been cut by two-thirds by the Nazi government of Germany. These results, brought about by rigid government control of the national economy, would seem to signify the existence of a large degree of individual economic security in both these countries. How important has been the price that the individual has paid?

This price is apparently far more important than we Americans realize, secure as we have been for five generations from political persecution. Such economic security as exists under dictatorships has been purchased at the price of political insecurity. The individual may at any time be imprisoned in a concentration camp, maltreated and even tortured at the will of some local official of the ruling party. He must fear and obey his superiors 24 hours a day in every aspect of his life, instead of for 8 hours in his job. He dares not talk on political subjects or criticize the economic policy of the government, and he can no more employ direct action, such as the strike, to protect his welfare than he can oppose the ruling dictatorship by voting against it.

Such is the ultimate price of controlled economy, simply because the power adequate to regulate the myriad economic activities of individual citizens cannot limit its sphere of action to economics alone. The complex artificial mechanism of a planned economy can break down through the failure of any cog; it must consequently be made to run by force, and force means political regulation of the individual.

Our American system of Government is very different from anything in Europe. The limitations established by the Constitution, federalism, the division of powers between the President, Congress and the judiciary, and the traditions of three centuries all stand in the way of an effective controlled economy. We cannot go down that road very far without smashing our traditional system.

How can the system be smashed? In some countries they have destroyed democracy by revolution, but that is not our way. Embattled wearers of colored shirts, marches on Washington by militant minorities, and the seizure of the Capitol and White House might seem thrilling and convincing in a movie or novel, but in actual life such movements would be faced by tremendous obstacles in America.

One such obstacle is the geographic extent of the United States, which bars out the simple coup d' etat as a means of changing our form of Government. Another is sectionalism, which divides the country into vast areas of divergent economic interest. Federalism forms a third, making each of 48 State governments an organized center of opposition to any revolutionary movement. Still other obstacles to a successful revolution are found in our traditions and institutions, our national faith in the Constitution, and widespread individual dislike of regimentation.

Nevertheless two roads to the legal creation of a governmentally controlled economy appear to exist today.

The first is fiscal, the failure year after year to balance the budget. However necessary as a temporary expedient, this policy is fatal in the long run, since its ultimate end is the destruction of the currency and a type of economic collapse that industrial America has never known.

Since the destruction of the currency would wipe out savings of every sort, including the investments of individuals, banks and insurance companies, and reduce our many millions of "bourgeoisie" to destitution, it is doubtful whether free capitalism could survive such a shock in America. The only alternative would seem to be controlled economy, directed by a central bureaucracy along lines that have been charted in Europe. Whether we called it socialism or Fascism, the result would be much the same as far as the individual or local communities were concerned. Centralized direction of the national economy would not work successfully without political dictatorship in Washington, and the elimination of our constitutional guarantees and safeguards.

The danger of continuous deficits is well known, and has been illustrated by the recent experience of European countries. With the handwriting on the wall so clear for all to see, it seems unthinkable that the United States will indefinitely continue to proceed in that direction.

Federal Supervision Of Industry Ominous.

There is, however, another policy leading to governmentally controlled economy and its inescapable political results which is not so obvious. This policy is the progressive extension of Federal control over industry.

As the Federal Government enlarges its control over industry, its activities have a growing influence on the pocket-book of the average citizen. Continue this process until the profit or loss of most American business depends on the action of the Government, and what will happen? Business will insist that the Government function efficiently.

Our Government is not efficient today for several reasons. It was designed in the first place to provide individual and local liberty at the expense of centralized efficiency; hence the separation of executive, legislative and judicial powers and the constitutional limitations on Federal authority. Our Government is certainly not as efficient today as the centralized dictatorships in Germany, Italy and Russia, nor as the management of large corporations which must surmount competition and the laws of profit and loss, nor as the pyramidal organization of an army in the field.

Consequently, if efficient government ever becomes a paramount interest of the dominant forces in American life, so necessary to their welfare as to outweigh personal and local liberty, the old America must go. The Federal Government can achieve only the centralized efficiency of Berlin, Rome and Moscow if the Constitution, Congress in its present form, the rights of the States, and the legal guarantees which protect the individual, are all swept away.

Business, including production, manufacturing and distribution as well as the many white collar professions which depend upon its well-being, is undoubtedly the dominant force in American life, with political power that far transcends its proportion of the population. If this dominant force is ever "sold" through its pocket-book on the need for efficient government, it will have its way, regardless of traditions, institutions or history. The ultimate cost can only be surmised from what we know of living conditions in the "slave countries" of Europe.

Such an outcome lies at the end of the trail marked by conceptions of ever-increasing government regulation. The trail leads to a centrally controlled economy and its inevitable political corollary, centralized dictatorship. If we go down this trail far enough, there may be no turning back.

FTC Assailed As 'Hampering' Business Data

Official of General Motors Says Board Imagines Monopoly Plots.

A frontal attack on the Federal Trade Commission for its "vigilante" attitude and on "public servants" who "threaten to use their power for political purposes" was made by Stephen M. duBrul, of General Motors Corporation, Detroit, at yesterday's session of the American Trade Association Executives meeting in conjunction with the United States Chamber of Commerce.

DuBrul, who spoke on "Fugitives From Information," said:

"Just as a professional red-baiter sees a Communist behind every tree, the Federal Trade Commission has seen monopolists behind every trade association effort.

"I can recall clearly when the statistical setup of one industry with which I was associated was completely wrecked because the largest company involved heard that F. T. C. was going to make an investigation and rather than argue with the commission about it, they withdrew from the association statistical program.

Cites Court Reversals.

"The fact that the commission has lost so many of their cases on appeal to the courts speaks for itself."

He cited the Supreme Court's decision in the recent Sugar Institute case as evidence of the legitimacy of the collection by associations of information and data if made generally available to the whole trade, with certain exceptions recognizing corporations as individuals with a right to certain privacy.

He stressed that while "the Supreme Court has given trade associations a 'green light' on their programs from a legal point of view, it warns them to be on watch for the traffic cop. We have as yet no such green light from political sources.

"So long as some of our chosen public servants threaten to use their power for political purposes, trade groups will be reluctant to develop programs based on a broader public interest, until they receive substantial assurances that their legitimate private affairs will not be subject to summary search and seizure. This presents a difficulty for which I have no remedy to propose."

Warns Against Coercion.

He continued, in urging that business clean house by collecting adequate information on all phases:

"Looking at our present political trends squarely we cannot escape the fact that business men must organize both for offensive and defensive purposes."

In this connection, he warned the assembly that trade associations "must be on guard against any attempt to introduce into their procedures the coercive tactics followed by so many of the NRA code authorities, who constituting themselves prosecutor, judge and jury, proceeded to hold kangaroo courts up and down the land, justly earning the title of 'the modern carpetbaggers.' The ghosts of those star chamber proceedings may yet rise to plague those who initiated them in 1933 and 1934."

Other speakers at the meetings, held concurrently with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting, included Pyke Johnson, president of the association; Paul S. Collier, Harry Meixell, Charles P. Garvin, W. M. Kiplinger, Harold F. Browne, Charles Coolidge Parlin and North Storms. At a session tonight Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper will present the ATAE award for the outstanding trade association achievement of the year.

AAA Publicity

afraid if the figures were made known that somebody would kidnap the farmer's daughter. But most of the beneficiaries are corporations and their daughters must be soulless wenches.

"I have simply asked for information in the payment of $1,000,000,000 from the Treasury by one non-elective public official who spent it when, where and how he pleased.

"My friend from Arkansas says my motives are political. I doubt if any of us would fail to find something of politics in our hearts. The Senator from Arkansas is permanent chairman of the Democratic convention, and the Senator from Kentucky is temporary chairman. Perhaps even they have some slight political motives."

Vandenberg said that the meager disclosures already made concerning AAA payments have demonstrated the importance of the informatoin for which he was asking.

The Michigan Senator suggested that benefit payments be made in inverse ratio to the size of farms.

He charged that some persons engaged in dispensing AAA payments also received AAA checks.

"I don't believe," he said, "threre will be any attempt to defend this mingling of function. They are dealing out checks with their right hands and receiving them with their left."

Vandenberg also pointed out that the Government has leased Indian lands to some formers and then paid them for not growing crops on the same land.

Referring to Robinson's charge that he had previously voted against publicity, Vandenberg said that "I would not change my voting record in any respect."

"The fact that I voted for the Jones-Costigan act gives me the double right to be critical of what has happened under it," he asserted.

He said he voted for the sugar act because President Roosevelt was threatening to reduce the sugar tariff.

"That vote was a shotgun vote," he said.

Vandenberg said he favored publicity concerning money going out of the Treasury and not concerning loans that will be paid back.

He said he favored resolutions asking for any legitimate information, and added that he thought his resolution should be amended to include a request made by Senator Steiwer (Republican), Oregon, for WPA pay roll figures.

Barkley defended the Administration farm legislation, declaring it was necessary to continue production of unmarketable surpluses or to provide some artificial means of solving the problem.

freedom was at a minimum at the present time, said:

"I submit, however, that no man who himself has any practical acquaintance with business processes and methods, and who is not utterly blinded by partisan political considerations, can examine the securities act, the Stock Exchange act, the successive revenue acts of recent years, the social security act, the public utilities act, the Tennessee Valley Authority act, and many of the arbitrary regulations devised under a dozen other recent acts, and arrive at any verdict other than that they cripple and retard business rather than help and revive it."

Sees Traditions Ousted.

Stressing that "we have been drifting away from American institutions and traditions in recent years," Fay said:

"Too long have we carelessly introduced into the stream of our national life alien philosophies of government control and foreign ideas of repression of the individual that have no place in this land of freedom. It is time to rout them out."

It outlining the necessity for revamping business organizations' purposes and methods to meet changed governmetnal conditions, Fay pictured the past as a time when business was "conducted in a fairly free atmosphere." He pointed out that individuals, communities and lines of industry went about their affairs "just about as they pleased," handling local relief, business and social problems by municipal effort. He said:

"If the individual sustained a loss, that was his bad luck. If he met with adversity . . . relatives or friends would help tide him and his family over. They helped him as a matter of right feeling or generosity or sense of family obligation, and not because somebody compelled them to do so as a duty . . . No one owed anyone else a living or expected that anyone else owed him one. It all seemed to work pretty well."

"Must Wait for 'Go' Sign."

With this he contrasted the present, under the Roosevelt Administration, which he did not name, saying:

"Today the individual is no longer free to move as he pleases in the field of his own lawful affairs. He must wait to get the 'go' sign from Washington before he can sow a field of wheat, plant a couple of rows of potatoes, fire a fellow who is stirring up trouble in the factory, get a few friends to buy stock in a new venture he wants to start . . .

"Every man here who is in business can see a dozen, a score or a hundred ways in which Washington influences now affect or control his business, cramp his initiative, and retard his efforts to solve his own problems either by his own efforts or in conjunction with other business men . . ."

New Federal Objectives.

He reminded hearers that in former times the Federal Government was interested largely in "strictly political matters." This he contrasted with the present situation, listing the following as primary subjects of the Government today:

"The ethics and morals and practices of business.

"The wages of labor.

"The prices of goods.

"The planting and financing and marketing of crops.

"The relations between employers and employes.

"The care of the unemployed and the aged.

"The financing of municipal improvements.

"The education of youth.

"The planning and building and financing of homes.

"The minute regulation of hundreds of kinds and forms of industry and commerce and agriculture.

"Budget Outlook Hurt."

"The launching and conduct of economic ventures directly competing with the activities of individual citizens.

"The general business of setting the moral standards and governing the human relationships of a nation of 125,000,000 people."

After citing this list as an example of the spread of Governmental activities into fields formerly not explored, Fay said:

"It is not enough to show that the present financial policies of the Government are destroying the possibilities of a balanced budget." He said the real task was to show the citizen that "sound finance" and a balanced budget were of more importance than any "dole or bounty or hand-out, which may be given to him, and which exposes our whole land to the terrors and distress of inflation, repudiation or confiscatory taxation.

Urging "a revived respect for America," he continued:

"Too long we have remained silent while demagogues attacked unfairly the integrity of our business institutions and business processes. Too long we have allowed men, intent only upon the political benefit of the moment, to go unchallenged in their muckraking of American business and in their efforts to make isolated instances of dishonesty seem to be typical of the whole."

Specifying examples, he said:

"Public utility companies have been made fair game for every political opportunist who wants to take a whack at them."

He urged a united business front in presenting the case to the American people, insisting leaders must work to make "the voice of business heard above the babbles of demagogues."

Fay, before concluding, outlined the background for the "abuses" he had cited as originating "long before the depression years" with the "direct primary nomination of Congressmen and Senators."

Many Remedies Needed.

The re-employment survey resolution was ordered after O'eLary had said:

"We realize that there is not just one unemployment problem, and that the solution is not in the one prescription, but in many, to meet widely different conditions. Action must be positive—not negative—that is, it must provide for creation of new wealth and new jobs to furnish the unemployed with income.

"We all know that no individual, or group, caused the present unemployment; nor is anyone desiring that it should continue. Every individual knows that his own welfare is bound up with the welfare of the entire Nation."

Re-employment by business will be one of the primary subjects of a round-table conference on the problem this afternoon, O'Leary presiding, with Harper Sibley, chamber president, and Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville Corporation, speaking on the topic at today's general session.

implying that Communists were behind the "self-styled unemployed" demonstrators and demanding that Attorney General David T. Wilentz investigate the Workers Alliance and others involved in occupying the ancient capitol. It was defeated.

The Senate met for only 15 minutes. The motion to adjourn until Wednesday mentioned tomorrow's conference and expressed the hope a plan would be found to solve the relief problem. There were few visitors at the Senate session, as all the excitement was at the Assembly's end of the corridor.

After the real lawmakers went home, the demonstrators who found the crowded Assembly stuffy removed to the front of the Capitol and took turns making impassioned speeches. Most of the audience was curious Trenton citizens looking for excitement.

"We Are Serious Now."

Later the Assembly chamber became quiet enough for the workers to have a meeting. Spain, presiding, they had held burlesque sessions for four days "but we are serious now."

It was announced that "plans have been made" but they were not revealed.

The Assembly convened three minutes late with Speaker Newcomb's announcement that he had agreed to allow ten of the demonstrators to remain on the floor and that Cooke could speak.

Cooke called Assemblyman J. Parnell Thomas "a liar" and pandemonium broke loose. A dozen assemblymen were on their feet shouting. Assemblyman Paul, of Essex County, obtained recognition.

"There have been threats of riots and violence since April 15," Paul said. "We have not come here to be browbeaten. We are here to act on relief and we will do it in an orderly manner. We will not be intimidated."

Assemblyman Baldwin, of Sussex County, moved immediately that Cooke be ejected from the chamber. The vote was started and before it was completed Baldwin amended his motion to deny Cooke the privilege of speaking, but to allow the unemployed leader to remain on the floor.

The motion carried, 50 to 5.

Cooke took it calmly. While the vote was in progress, and after the result was announced, he stood quietly, talking to friends.

The furor came after Cooke referred to a telegram he said Thomas sent to Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, allegedly calling the Workers' Alliance demonstrators "Communists, vagrants and paupers."

"I say he's a liar," Cooke shouted, and that was as far as he got.

The Senate passed a resolution, acted upon previously by the Assembly, requesting the Federal Government to return to New Jersey $20,000,000 for financing relief from Federal taxes collected in this State.

the German "menace." Further borrowing is difficult, they added, without upsetting the balance of the budget, on which the franc's stability depends.

With results of only two Corsican districts missing, official returns showed Leftists and the Center with 63 seats each and Rightists with 57. Runoffs will be necessary to fill 433 seats, or more than two-thirds of the chamber. There are 618 districts.

Communists gained three new seats. Socialists got two new ones but lost six others, while the Dissident Socialists gained one, but lost three. Radical Socialists gained two and lost seven, Center parties gained seven and lost ten, while Rightists gained 13 and lost two.

The official standing of the parties is:

Rightists—Republican Parties, 51; Conservatives, 6.

The vote was one of the heaviest in the history of France.

First reports of serious election troubles in France or her colonies came from Reunion Island. There were riots in several villages there during voting yesterday and more than 30 persons were wounded.

Market Break Widest in Nearly Year.

Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.

New York, April 27.—The widest break in almost a year carried stock market prices from one to more than nine points lower today in trading volume that exceeded the 2,000,000-share level.

Traders blamed the break on a number of factors, most important of which were:

1. The French election results, which many believe will hasten devaluation of the franc.

2. Polish action in abandoning the gold standard, which to many indicates further weakening of the position of the gold bloc in Europe.

3. International political complications.

4. Debate and confusion over the tax legislation which is holding investment capital back from the market.

There was a bit of encouragement at the close. Some leaders came back from their lows impressively and this was true particularly of the steel shares. This gave hope that the bottom of the decline may have been reached.

Polish Currency Sale Is Forbidden.

Danzig, April 27 (U.P.).—Poland's gold action today forced the Bank of Danzig to forbid sale or purchase of the Polish zloty. Banks were overrun with residents of this territory attempting to sell zlotys they had bought as a hedge a year ago when the gulden was devaluated.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips.

Peace in Ethiopia.

Elmer Twitchell thinks the League of Nations should stop quibbling over Mussolini's peace terms. "Italy asks only all of Ethiopia, three-quarters of Haile Selassie, everything except the spare handle of his famous umbrella and all his Sunday capes," argued Elmer.

• • • •

"If the League had any sense, it will stand for the acceptance of Mussolini's peace terms as they lay today. Tomorrow he may not be so lenient," continued Mr. Twitchell, the eminent student of world affairs.

• • • •

"Italy has been through a hard war and her proposed peace terms are more reasonable than I expected. I thought she would demand Gibraltar, a neutral zone through Anthony Eden, the discontinuance of Stanley Baldwin as a fortified area, and an international agreement to set back the frontiers of the League of Nations eight miles.

• • • •

"A big mistake will be made if there is any hesitating over the terms offered in all the six star editions and sports finals. I understand that even now Mussolini is considering a clause refusing the diplomats at Geneva an outlet, not only to the sea, but to the Swiss railroad station.

• • • •

"In the interest of world peace, I call on the League to okay the dictator's terms. Its failure to do so will only bring on one of Mussolini's stubborn spells, and the first thing you know Italy will be demanding that she be given Great Britain, Switzerland, Dizzy and Daffy Dean, all of Egypt, a winning ticket in the Irish sweepstakes, a two-thirds interest in Brevity and two-thirds of Japan, China, Rudy Vallee and India.

Writers Launch Move to Hasten New Contracts

Feud Between Studios and Guild Believed Started By Craft's Action.

By the United Press.

Hollywood, April 27.—Smouldering hostility between motion picture writers and the studios, brewing for months over union tactics of the powerful Screen Writers Guild, tonight flared into open conflict when the guild issued a virtual ultimatum for a "closed shop."

The issue was laid down in the form of a resolution, transmitted to the motion picture producers, in which all future contracts with studios will terminate May 2, 1936.

The move, subject to a vote of two-thirds of the guild membership, is designed to end control of writing talent by studios at that time. The Guild expects to establish a "closed shop" in the industry.

Started a Row.

It immediately precipitated a barrage of threats and name-calling, in which both sides issued manifestos employing weapons familiar to labor rows—producers charging the plan is the work of a "small group of radicals," and the writers charging studios with "flagrantly disregarding" their rights.

The showdown between writers and the studios is regarded as the first major move in a campaign ultimately designed to break the film industry's grip on its professional employes—writers, actors and directors.

The current outbreak is understood to be the culmination of a squabble between Warner Brothers and a group of writers, reportedly dismissed for signing a petition protesting against failure to invite the script writer for "Anthony Adverse" to a "Sneak Preview."

Began With "Sneak Preview."

The executive board of the Writers Guild issued a statement which charged that "under a smoke-screen of legality, using their privilege of lay-off and discharge," Warner Brothers had "made it plain that a request by writers for fair treatment will be met by discipline."

The statement pointed out that under its proposed "closed shop" amalgamation of writers "producers will not be in a position so flagrantly to disregard the rights of screen writers nor the respect to which they are entitled as craftsmen."

The resolution to terminate contracts in two years evoked a lengthy public statement signed by producers of eleven major companies.

The producers said they had "every admiration and respect for the sound and brilliant contributions which writers have made to the success of motion pictures" but added they "do not propose to permit a few radical-minded and power-seeking individuals to disrupt the industry."

About The Showshops

GUTHRIE McCLINTIC, in private life the husband of Katharine Cornell and in the theater her director and chief business adviser, seems more or less—principally more—to have weaned Maxwell Anderson, perhaps foremost of the contemporary American playwrights, away from the Theater Guild.

BELL.

Having had his "Mary of Scotland" and "Valley Forge" produced by the Guild, Mr. Anderson intrusted his "Winterset," winner of the first annual award of the New York Drama Critics Circle as the best play of the year, to Mr. McClintic for production as an individual venture. The outcome must have been highly gratifying to them both. That conviction is strengthened by an announcement just received from Ray Henderson, of the Cornell-McClintic organization, one of the most helpful of the theater's stentors.

Katharine Cornell, now appearing in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" to standing-room audiences in the Martin Beck Theater, New York, says Mr. Henderson, next season will produce Maxwell Anderson's new play, "A Wingless Victory," in which she will act the role of a Malay princess married to a New England sea captain. The action of the drama is laid in the year 1800. Rehearsals will begin early in December under the direction of Mr. McClintic. An out-of-town opening is scheduled for the holidays with a New York premiere early in the new year.

One wonders whether that "out-of-town opening" will be in Washington, as Miss Cornell vaguely intimated to this writer on her last visit here, or in the habitual Baltimore or Cleveland?

* * * *

At any rate, before she presents "A Wingless Victory," Miss Cornell plans to make a coast-to-coast tour in "Saint Joan," playing brief engagements in the leading cities of the country. It will be her first appearance on the Pacific Coast in three years. Perhaps the National Capital will be counted in on that, even if it is counted out on the premiere of the new Anderson opus.

A great array of motion picture, radio and stage talent has been commandeered by Sidney Lust, local independent exhibitor and general chairman for the fathers' and sons' banquet of the Brotherhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, to be held tomorrow night in the Mayflower Hotel.

Mickey Mouse, Popeye the Sailor and Looney Tune cartoon comedies will furnish a wealth of screen amusement; the downtown picture houses presenting vaudeville have promised star acts; Harry Wilson, of the Wilson Line of steamers, will be on hand to pull rabbits out of a hat and perform other feats of legerdemain, black art and hocus-pocus; Arch McDonald and Art Godfrey, radio personalities, will add to the goings-on; Mr. Lust will stage one of his famous amateur shows—with a gong and everything!—boxing and wrestling bouts will be staged and members of the Detroit and Washington baseball teams will be on hand.

A single ticket entitles an adult member or nonmember of the Brotherhood to bring as many sons as he has. These tickets are obtainable from Burnett L. Baer, 340 Shoreham Building, at $2.50 for Brotherhood members, $3.50 for nonmembers, $1.50 for boys who are not sons of members and $5 and $10 for sponsors.

That smiling and cherubic adventurer in the seldom trod by-ways of cinemaland, Mr. Sam Cummins, former operator of both the Little and Strand Theaters in this city, seems to have come down right side up after having been tossed around no end by the authorities in the controversial matter of his film importation, "Ecstasy." When his first prints were confiscated as unfit for public exhibition, Master Cummins hot-footed it right back to Europe to replenish his supply. He dropped me a card from the other side months ago announcing the successful culmination of his mission. "Ecstasy" is living up to all his ballyhoo and repaying him for all his trouble at the Belasco. The crowds were so great on Friday and Saturday nights that extra midnight shows were put on. This week, attendance has held to such a high mark that an extra morning presentation has been added at 10:05 a. m., with doors open to the public at 9:30.

* * * *

Concerning at least two of the local magic lantern shows, the public seems to have accumulated totally erroneous impressions. In the first place, the second week's engagement of "The Great Ziegfeld" at the National is not sold out, despite the fact that last week's, to all intents and purposes, was. There are seats for every performance in every division of the price scale—but there won't be for long, at the rate they are selling.

With regard to H. G. Wells' first essay at the celluloids as a medium for spreading his gospel of the next century, perhaps too much emphasis has been laid upon the social, economic and military aspects of his charade and not enough upon its sheer merit as interesting and unique entertainment. In the closing scenes of "Things to Come," now on view at the Palace, it is just barely possible that, in expounding his philosophy of government and civilization's development, Mr. Wells has got a little too far back in the book for the Friday afternoon boys and girls, but even they ought to enjoy a peek at the Everytown of 2036 A. D.

However, "Things to Come," says that little birdie, will be succeeded on the screen at Thirteenth and F by "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," in Technicolor, come Friday.

* * * *

The D. C. Division of the Young Democratic Clubs of America are all set for the production of their revue, "Kapital Kapers," to be presented at the National on June 3, 4, 5 and 6. More than 200 candidates for places in the cast and chorus will be put through their paces by Director William Holbrook tomorrow night at 8 in the ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel. Rehearsals will begin as soon as casting is completed. Mr. Holbrook's most recent directorial effort was the Hasty Pudding Club's musical comedy staged on a recent Sunday evening in the National Theater with John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, a member of the Harvard troupe.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Recital by Grace Adams East, trumpter, assisted by Joyce H. Barthelson, pianist, in Wesley Hall Monday night. Program: Du bist die Ruh' (Schubert), Widmung (Franz), Meine Liebe ist gruen (Brahms), Ave Marie (Schubert), Amour, viens aider (Saint-Saens), Nur wer die Sehnsucht kennt (Chaikovski), Hymn to the Sun (Rimski-Korsakov), La Gitana (Kreisler), Clavelitos (Valverde), Habanera (Ravel), Rhapsody in Blue (Gershwin).

In Miss East's artistic usage, the trumpet becomes a lyric instrument almost as suave as the human voice. The one thing that stands between her ideal of perfect fluency, the imperceptible liaison between the notes of a phrase and the accomplishment thereof is the valve mechanism. But she has learned to reduce that unavoidable hiatus to a minimum, and her playing is a very commendable simulacrum of singing.

Quite evidently her intent is to prove the lyric capabilities of the trumpet, for the greater part of her program consisted of transcriptions of songs, varied from the simplicity of Schubert's "Du Bist die Ruh," to the dramatic urgency of the Saint-Saens aria and the florituna agility of the excerpt from Rimski-Korsakov's "Zolotoi Petushok." Within that wide range she displayed a fine mastery of an instrument which is notoriously treacherous to the sounding lip.

Her admirable breath control was manifest in the steadiness of tone, in the smoothness of phrasing, and in the sustention of prolonged notes. The conditions under which she played were a severe test of that control, for the small dimensions of the hall obliged her to adapt the tone volume to the acoustical limitations. An occasional flash of brilliance in the timbre hinted at the plangency which she could release in an orchestral auditorium.

"Full House."

"A FULL HOUSE." The Stella Maris Club (the Saint Gabriel's Players) present the comedy in three acts by Fred Jackson, under the direction of Robert A. Halsted, with setting, lighting and properties by Harry F. Getner. At Saint Gabriel's Hall, April 27 and 28. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

A comedy of young wedlock, replete with romance, misunderstandings and a bit of mystery, was presented by the Stella Maris Club last evening in Saint Gabriel's Hall before an enthusiastic audience. Fred Jackson's "A Full House" was the work selected and the players evidenced considerable study and care in presenting the comedy of many laughs and much commotion.

While at times the actors were labored in their performance, and their reading, too, on occasion, the entire production was one which definitely showed sincerity of purpose and earnest determination to give their utmost.

The play was judiciously cast. Leona Dumm, as a show girl, the cause of it all, with a neatly turned, quasi-blase characterization, was the most convincing performer. J. Harry Lewis, as the harassed attorney-husband, and Joseph J. Anselmo, as the swain whose earlier escapade with the demoiselle de theater started the complicated goings-on, were good in their parts, opposite whom were Margaret N. Smith, as the wife, and Helen B. White, the fiance, both falling a bit short of complete perfection.

Thomas F. Gowen, as the crook; Ruth Nordstrom, as the maid who wanted to return to Sioux City, and Glenn E. Ashley, as the police sergeant, turned in good supporting portrayals.

Others in the company included J. Paul Ward, jr., as the butler; Edna Mae Brown, as Miss Smith's aunt; James J. Hanagan and Robert L. Lamb, as policemen; Catherine M. Miller, as the apartment owner, and Ann E. Miller, as the one from whom the rubies were stolen.

The play, smoothly directed by Robert A. Halsted, was tastefully set, Harry F. Getner making the most of drapes and lights.

Herriot's Aid Sought To End Use of War Gas

Lyon, France, April 27 (AP).—Edouard Herriot, former premier of France, agreed tonight to seek to end Italy's alleged use of poison gas in Ethiopia after an appeal from the daughter of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Princess Tsahai urged Herriot to intercede as a representative of "better humanity."

The former premier, who himself is struggling for re-election to the Chamber of Deputies, announced he would ask the French government to act.

The princess' appeal came in a telegram to Herriot.

Slot Machines Seized.

Hagerstown, Md., April 27.—Sheriff's forces renewed their drive against slot machines over the week-end, five being seized in two raids at taverns near Middleburg and Boonsboro. Operators of establishments at which the machines were seized were notified to appear in police court.

On Trail of That Famous Tree

Great interest is being manifested in the forthcoming local engagement of Paramount's new picturization of the famous John Fox, jr., story of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," by reason of the fact that it is the first outdoor picture ever made completely in Technicolor. It is not difficult to imagine the beauty of the scene pictured above when photographed in natural color. The players scanning a distant horizon are Sylvia Sidney and Henry Fonda—on view at the Palace, beginning Friday.

Defendant Is Heard In Bath Balm Suit

Chicago, April 27 (AP).—It was a Saturday-night impulse to take a bath which put him in the embarrassing position of being the defendant in a $25,000 alienation of affections suit, Charles E. (Pops) Parker, sr., 65, told Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg today.

Parker took the stand to explain why Michael Farber, 32, the plaintiff, found Mrs. Farber scrubbing his back in the family bathtub.

"We were having a party," Parker related, "and my son and his two friends who had been painting the Farber home brang some beer to the house. About midnight I got to feeling pretty good. It was Saturday night and I said I was going to take a bath.

"I got into the tub and after I soaped up a bit, I found I couldn't reach my shoulders, so I hollered out 'will someone come and wash my back?'

"'I will,' Mrs. Farber hollered back.

"She came in, with the others, and scrubbed me. That's all—except that Mr. Farber walked in before it was finished."

British Tanks, Cars Sent to Palestine

Jerusalem, April 27 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—British tanks and armored cars were brought on the scene of Palestine disorders today for the first time since the troubles broke out April 17.

These military units appeared in Jenin, where the government closed the roads to traffic as a result of continuance of unrest.

Maj. Bramley, commander of the unit, invited Arab leaders to a conference and asked that they aid him in restoring Jewish motor communications in the district. When the Arabs refused, the British officer warned them that Jewish motor traffic would be restored under military guards.

The department of railways decided to have Jews travel in separate cars for the present.

Palestine is administered by Great Britain under a mandate which came into force in 1923.

. . . As a rule, advance raves on a play or picture are bad for the attraction. People then visit the theatre, expecting too much—and they generally leave with the notion that they've been cheated. But, as you undoubtedly know by now, "THE GREAT ZIEGFELD" is one picture that lives up to its advance notices.
Here, beyond all question, is the greatest musical ever to hit the screen. For your own sake, you are urged not to miss this film.

Race to Draw Enthusiasts From Capital

Mr. Farley Will Attend Churchill Downs Track Classic.

Mr. W. Forbes Morgan to Go to Louisville in Private Car.

By Dudley Harmon.

Many turf enthusiasts from Washington and New York are planning to leave for the South this week-end to attend the Kentucky Derby, Louisville's annual racing classic, which each year draws large numbers of the horse-loving set.

The Postmaster General, Mr. James A. Farley, and Col. Marvin McIntyre are among those who already have made train reservations. Others who are contemplating a journey to Louisville on Saturday, are Senator and Mrs. Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, and Mrs. James F. Curtis, who has taken an even greater interest in races since her daughter married Mr. George (Pete) Bostwick, of polo fame.

The Assistant Secreary of War, Mr. Harry H. Woodring, who is in Kansas at present, will return tomorrow in time to leave the end of the week with Mrs. Woodring for the Derby. They will be joined by the Governor of Indiana and Mrs. Paul McNutt, and plan to spend the remainder of the week-end at French Lick Springs before returning to their home, Woodlawn.

Plans Air Trip.

Mr. W. Forbes Morgan will go by plane with a group of friends from New York to see the running of the Derby. Mr. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who was a faithful follower of the Bowie races when they opened for the season several weeks ago, is expected to journey down to the races in the private car of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Emerson. The cost of a private car, incidentally, is not quite so exorbitant as you might expect. Seventy-five dollars for the car itself, plus the railroad fares of each passenger (and there must be 15 passengers, or it's no go) will get you from Washington to Louisville in de luxe style.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Salmon are other New Yorkers well known in Washington who are planning to attend the Derby. Mr. Morton Schwartz, whose 3-year-old Boldventure ran last year under Rear Admiral Cary Grayson's name as its owner was in mourning, is another New Yorker whose entrant interests the Capital. The Derby favorite this year is Brevity, belonging to Mr. Joseph E. Widener, although judging from family tradition, Mr. William Woodward's Granville ought to win as his horse, Omaha, was first last year and his Gallant Fox came in ahead in 1930.

Atlanta Horse Show.

Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert, jr., a familiar figure at the Kentucky classic in previous seasons has elected to go to the Altanta Horse Show instead this year. She is sending her horses ahead tomorrow morning, and she and Mr. Robert will follow in the evening. After spending the week-end in Pinehurst, N. C., they will continue on to Atlanta where the show will take place from May 8 to May 10. It is quite possible that Mrs. Robert will herself drive the horses in a trailer from Pinehurst to the Georgia metropolis.

Many turf-minded Washingtonians who are unable to attend the Derby will be found this week-end at Warrenton, where the historic Virginia Gold Cup will be run on Saturday afternoon. There are five races on the program this year and the second and most anticipated event of the day will be 4-mile course over timber for the coveted cup.

Rose Geranium Bath Powder Delicately Textured and Perfumed Has Nerve Resting Quality.

By Mignon.

The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, indorse or manufacture any cosmetics.

THE cosmetic world is full of dusting powders, some very fine, some simply blaa with practically nothing to recommend them, and some with a fragrance that would sell them no matter what the powder was like. Of course, hunting for cosmetics is like hunting for a wife—you want everything in one package, but how often do you get it?

From the bottom of my heart I recommended to you a new dusting powder made by one of the world's oldest firms. The manufacturer, who ought to know what it is, says it is a "geranium-rose." I, in my ignorance, proclaim it definitely a rose-geranium, and now let the argument start. Whatever it is, I am going to see that it is always handy. My one complaint about bath powders is that, while they are very fine talcum, they are usually without a very distinct fragrance, no matter what you read on the box. For a time I used to mix body sachet with my bath powders in order to give them a nerve-resting scent. You don't have to do that with this powder. It's there when you buy it.

Nothing in this line—as good as it is—is overly expensive and if you can find a more beautifully fragrant dusting powder, I wish you would tell me about it. And, believe it or not, women, all of us, buy our bath powders through the nose.

Visitor to D. C. Dispels Myths Of Dark Africa

Woman, Seeing Kin Here, Left 38 Years Ago as Bride, and Now Is Grandmother.

By Hope Ridings Miller.

THIRTY-EIGHT years ago, Mrs. Pauline Sulski went to South Africa as a bride. Last week she came back to her native American a grandmother.

"But only for a visit," she said yesterday by way of explaining that her home is still in Africa and she will be going back soon.

This is her second trip back to the United States to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sperling, and her sister, Mrs. M. Pasternak of Washington. Accompanying her this time is her 24-year-old son, Meyer Sulski, who—like his mother—has a rich store of tales to tell about life on "the dark continent."

Her eyes twinkling, Mrs. Sulski mentioned that her American friends "have some amusing ideas" about Africa. They frequently ask her, for example, "Do you see lions and tigers often?" "Are most of the people there black?" "Do you have schools and shops anything like we have here?"

An African New York.

She patiently points out to all inquirers that Johannesburg (the city where she lives) has more white residents than Washington and "is, in fact, a sort of miniature New York, with tall buildings, an up-to-date residence section and shops displaying the latest American fashions (we look to this country rather than to France for our styles."

She also emphasizes that the 300,000 Dutch and English residents in Johannesburg "have attractive houses and gardens as beautiful as any in the world;" that the climate there is as ideal as California's, and that visitors expecting to see lions, monkeys, elephants and zebras have to go up to the northern Transvall to the game reserve, set off by order of the famous Boer president, Paul Kruger.

Mrs. Sulski can remember, however, when African wild life was much closer at hand; when a lion in one's front yard was no novelty. Three decades ago, when she first went to live Iairobe, there was a big camp fire each night before her dwelling to keep the wild animals away. She recalls, too, that once it was not an unusual thing when lion cubs were discovered within the village. "One, I remember particularly, was found under the postoffice porch," she said.

T. R. Visited Farm There.

It was while she and her British-born, mine-owner husband were living in Nairobe that Theodore Roosevelt went on his expedition to Africa and stayed for a time on one of their farms.

Mrs. Sulski advises all persons who conceive of modern Africa as an uncivilized continent (largely inhabited by cannibal blacks fighting wild animals in a jungle fastness) to visit her adopted country during the forthcoming Empire Exhibition. "This would be the way to see it at its best," she said, "and to correct some widespread, erroneus ideas about it."

She declined to discuss the dark-skinned natives of Africa, except to say "They are much smarter than most persons give them credit for being," and "despite benefits they have gained from the white man, they are still rather suspicious of him."

The recent motion picture, "Rhodes, the Empire Builder," has done much to stimulate interest of other countries in Africa, Mrs. Sulski believes. Discussing the picture, she said it offered an excellent portrayal of "two of the greatest men ever to go to Africa." She enjoyed it, she averred, not only because she saw much of that history in its making, but also because she recalls having seen both Cecil Rhodes and Paul Kruger—the former when he was prime minister; the latter when he was President of the Boer Republic.

Talking of Africa—its history, is beauties and its modern cities that would do credit to any country—Mrs. Sulski confessed made her a bit homesick for the land that has been hers for the past 38 years; the country in which her five children were born, and which she finds as interesting as it was when she first went there in 1898.

Mastoid Disease May Be Averted By Prompt Care

Earache and Other Symptoms Should Be Looked Into Early.

WHEN INFECTION occurs in the loose tissue beneath the skin, its presence is announced by an obvious swelling which is painful, red and hot. We know also that the skin itself may become attacked. Occasionally bacteria will lodge in the oil glands (sebaceous), the sweat glands, or the hair follicles. The result is a boil (furuncle). As pus gathers it will either rupture to the outside or a proper opening may be made to facilitate its escape.

When bacteria flourish within a bony cavity and remain confined to that area, there may be no external swelling and hence their presence may be difficult to recognize. The symptom of pain, however, is nearly always present and is nature's demand for an investigation.

Pain is usually a rather prominent symptom in mastoid disease, in which the honeycomblike cells within that part of the skull are involved. In adults the bony process may be left directly back of the ear as a ridge approximately 1½ inches in length.

Germ May Be in Blood.

Mastoiditis occurs commonly in childhood as a complication of some acute infection which has reached the middle ear (inside the drum) either via the blood stream or by direct extension along the Eustachian tube. It should be recalled that this tube connects the middle ear with the throat. Many a foundation stone for future deafness is laid as the result of acute or chronic disease of some part of the hearing mechanism.

We can all understand that when inflammatoin is set up within the ear that pressure may develop because of the confined pus. The earliest symptom—earache—is often accompanied by an outward bulge of the drum. This may not mean mastoid disease at all, as the infection may subside rather promptly if the drum is opened and the pus allowed to escape to the outside. It is often necessary to perforate the drum with a tiny incision to prevent spontaneous rupture with the possibility of greater damage.

Because of the peculiar anatomical structure of that part of the skull which houses the delicate hearing apparatus, pus under pressure may find its way into the brain and burrow through the bone. In the first instance meningitis may result. We may be deceived in our interpretation of ear symptoms because of the existence of some other infection such as pneumonia or an intestinal inflammatory state. Any child with earache, a temperature, and vomiting spells should be considered a possible mastoid victim.

Avoid Surgery if Possible.

There are but few acute, blazing conditions which demand immediate surgical attack. If the appendix can be removed before it has ruptured and infected the peritoneum, well and good. On the contrary, the middle ear and the mastoid should, as a rule, not be interfered with until the acute phase of the disease has passed. Fine discrimination is required on the part of the physician in determining whether operation is necessary and, if so, when. Each patient presents an individual problem. How ill is the yonugster? Much will depend on the kind of organism that is causing the infection. Then, too, the resistance of the patient must be considered. Has some other disease sapped his strength? Watchful waiting, with the child under competent medical supervision, until the infection has localized, is the wisest plan.

An X-ray is often of value in making the diagnosis, and if there is any question as to bone involvement, it is well to have the patient in a hospital where X-ray facilities are immediately available and where the operation, if necessary, can be performed without delay. Drainage is the cardinal principle, and all the infected cells must be opened so as to permit free exit of the confined pus. When the procedure is skillfully carried out there is nothing quite so satisfactory. The child recovers, as a rule, without complications, although it may be necessary to keep the mastoid wound open for several wesks.

MARY HAWORTH Says:

There Is Nothing Abnormal in 19-Year-Old Girl's Erstwhile Failure to Fall in Love.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 19 years old and rather attractive, if I do say so myself. I am extremely popular and often envied by the other girls because of this fact. Boys have always flocked to me; yet they have always been the least of my worries. I do not get any thrill in going with them and I have a much better time when I am in the company of girls alone. After going out once or twice with the same fellow he begins to get boresome and sometimes I have even been rude. My mother can't understand me and when she questions me I usually try to change the subject.

Mary Haworth

* * * *

Money, I might say, has never counted with me, although most of my friends have belonged to prominent and wealthy families, and possessed both good looks and nice cars. They have afforded me with many good times yet it seems I have never been touched emotionally by any of them. What shall I do? Who knows but what I might feel this way all my life and be an old maid? Deep down in my heart I know I want to be no such thing. Most all my girl friends go with steady fellows whom they hope some day to marry. Three of my girl friends are already married. One of them remarked the other day how funny it seemed that she knew of more boys I had been out with in the last six months than she had been out with in all her life.

* * * *

What do you think? Is it best for me to go on like this or should I leave the opposite sex completely alone. Sometimes I hardly know which way to turn. So now I am coming to you for advice.

Sincerely, PUZZLED.

Think Less of Self.

DEAR PUZZLED: May it not be that the only thing the matter with you is that you are thinking too much about yourself—taking yourself too seriously? After all, there is nothing about a 19-year-old girl's not having met a man in whom she can be seriously interested. Particularly not when she is accustomed to extravagent attentions from many attractive young men. Anyone who is showered with too much of a good thing is likely to lose his appetite for that particular thing, which in your case seems to be the attentions of eligible young men.

* * * *

If all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, so does all play and no work makes Jill a bored girl. If you were leading a life of some social usefulness, either by supporting yourself or contributing to the support or to the happiness of others, you would probably learn to place a higher value on the society of men as pleasant companions in your leisure hours.

Don't worry if no man has ever touched you emotionally. You will no doubt come upon this experience in all good time, although it may not be until you are five or six years older. Many girls have skirted the experience of falling in love until their middle twenties, and some women have had to wait until their thirties or even their forties to feel the sting of the grand passion. NOTE TO D. S. Q.: As a result of having printed your appeal for advice in this column yesterday, I have had a telephone call from a young woman, a native of Washington, who is inviting you to share an apartment with her and two other girls, all of whom have responsible positions in Washington. This woman, whose name and telephone number will be given you on request, believes you would be much happier if living in the kind of environment her home would offer. If you are interested, will you kindly get in touch with me? M. H.

Camps Solve Vacation Need Of Some Boys

Families Unable to Take Trips Should Simplify Mode of Living.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

SUMMER vacation is an annual problem in many households. The parents who have enough money can often solve the perennial question by sending their children to summer camps. For many children the solution is excellent. They lead free and regular lives under responsible supervision, and the parents have a couple of months in which to enjoy a somewhat differen mode of life.

Many Excellent Camps.

Often two weeks or a month in a Scout camp is all the parents can afford for their children. There are many excellent Scout camps, and the democratic atmosphere which they offer is often a broadening and stimulating influence. To live with all kinds of people and learn to get along with them is good for a child from any walk of life.

Some families prefer, however, not to be separated, or have not the means or opportunity to send the children to camp. For them, especially if they live in the city, the problem seems insurmountable.

Simplify One's Mode.

It is a good plan at least to simplify and if possible change one's mode of life for the hot summer months. The housekeeper needs a rest, the children need freedom, and everyone needs sunlight and air. All these requirements can be more easily met if one does away with the wrappings and protective layers of winter. Bare floors are easier to keep clean, and require less attention than rugs and carpets. Windows without hangings let in more sun and air. Children are more free to romp when ornaments and knickknacks are out of the way.

Any home can be made into a delightful summer house if one is willing to clear out all superfluities, and a very little expenditure will, by the addition of chintz furniture covers and awnings for too sunny windows, make it pretty as well as comfortable.

Variety of New Colors.

Some of the new colors are called "red cabbage," "wax bean yellow," "rhubard rose," "parsley green" and "garden blue."

It is thought in some quarters that a range of jewel colors taken from the precious stones in the crown worn by King Edward VIII will soon be brought out.

Ostriches Keep Plumage.

San Diego, Calif. (AP).—As for fan dancers and ostriches, the plumes go to the ostriches, says Mrs. Belle Benchley, director of a zoo. Concerned by the announcement of a shortage of feathers for dancers convening here this week, she took a firm position: "I'm not going to have my ostriches turned nudists just to accommodate a few fan dancers."

Pleasant HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

"THERE'S NO USE in trying to go in for anything fancy in interior decorating at our house because it wouldn't stay that way long, between the children and the dogs. But I do want the place to be attractive. Will you give me some very practical suggestions for the living room? I'm having the walls repapered and plan to get new curtains and draperies, some new occasional tables and two new lamps. I'll have to keep the rugs I have—some Oriental scatter rugs."

We have a theory that a lady can be practical with her home, yet make it charming at the same time. One way is to keep to the most sturdy colors and materials for the furniture coverings because they really get the brunt of the wear. The floor covering has to be hardy, too, but the walls can be in lighter, more frivolous colorings, especially if you select some of the grand new washable papers. The draperies can be of fresher, crisper materials and the lamps can be pretty.

For this particular room we would suggest a hazy gray wallpaper, furniture coverings in plum and in blue in such fabrics as mohair, brocatelle or homespun because they can stand lots of gaff, then curtains of yellow with draperies of a figured material that harmonizes the various colors in the ensemble.

SUBSTITUTE SWEETHEART

By Priscilla Wayne

Ruth Dayton, who is 18 and very pretty, has become innocently involved in a plot by which her employers hoped to murder Jim Bradley, young millionaire, and gain control of his estate. Ruth is in love with Jim and he with her.

Those involved in the plot are Joe and Clara Bradley, uncle and aunt of Jim, and Pascoe, accomplished crook. Pascoe, posing as a nurse, has been slowly poisoning Jim, who has been injured and blinded in an auto accident.

Ruth has been hired by Joe and Clara Bradley to impersonate Jim's stepsister, June Bradley. Ruth resembles June so greatly that Jim, apparently, has been fooled by the substitution. Victim and dupe they fall in love. Jim insists they be married and a fake wedding is arranged by the conspirators. Ruth had been persuaded to impersonate June to comfort Jim who—the Bradleys told her—was blind and dying. June was ill and could not go to him, she was told.

But Ruth learns that the Bradleys had sought her out because they did not dare return to Jim's home without June who had been in their care. She learns of the plot to kill Jim, but is held prisoner and cannot get help. She learns that the Bradleys and Pascoe have forced a doctor who Pascoe knew had been guilty of violating the drug laws to agree to sign Jim's death certificate.

When Dr. McGuire rebels and fights with Pascoe, she helps him revive Jim and afterward, sees him killed by Joe Bradley. She locks herself into the only room in the house where the telephone is not disconnected and calls police. The Bradleys and Pascoe escape and Ruth's brother, Jerry Dayton, who had just found her in her mansion-prison, also disappears.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

A POLICEMAN reported to Dugan. A second stood guard over Ruth.

"The man is dead?"

"Yes. Must have died instantly."

"Suicide?"

"Not a chance. There wasn't a gun anywhere about. A plain case of murder."

"And Bradley?"

"Bradley's a pretty sick man. Doc says he's been fed poison, regularly, in doses of increasing size. Doc's afraid he won't pull through."

"What's Doc going to do about it?"

"He says there isn't a chance for him here. He's likely too sick to be moved to the hospital, but they're going to try it."

Ruth sprang to her feet. "Please—please——," but the policemen commanded, gently enough, "Just sit down, Miss. The place for a sick man is in the hospital where he can be taken care of."

At sound of their voices Dugan snapped at Ruth, "Be quiet," he advised. "We've got enough on our hands with a murder and what looks like a poison case."

"Please let me go back to my husband," Ruth begged. "He's very ill. He needs me. Oh, please let me go. I'll promise to stay right there in his room."

"They're taking him to the hospital," Dugan explained, not unkindly. "He'd have a better chance there than he'd have here."

Ruth caught at the officer's arm. "Please let me go along. Please, please——"

Dugan was not unkind. "No, Miss," he told her firmly. "There isn't any good you could do by going along. Everything that can be done will be done for him. The very best thing you can possibly do is to give us all the information you can. Now tell me—you said your brother was here How did he get here? Where is he now?"

With his words her terror for Jerry returned to Ruth. Where was Jerry? What had happened to him? She tried to tell the officer, and knew that her explanation seemed wild, wondered even if she could have imagined Jerry's presence. She wished she had.

They made a search for Jerry Dayton, searching even the basement and attic of the big house. But he had disappeared. Bette, too, was missing.

The officers found only one other person in the house besides the sick man, and the girl who had summoned them. That other person was the fat, middle-aged cook, who wailingly protested her innocence and who called upon Ruth to protect her.

"I'm going to ask you two to come to the police station," Dugan told them. "Just come along quietly and we can probably work this thing out without any embarrassment to either of you."

But the plump, middle-aged Mrs. Murphy was not content. She sat down stubbornly. "I'll not go," she told the officer to his face. "I'll not go. I've lived 50 years and I never mixed with the law yet and I'm not going to begin now. I'm a decent, law-abiding woman and Miss June here can tell you that I am."

Dugan's quick ears had caught the deference to the younger woman. "Miss June?"

"Yes, Miss June. I've worked for Miss June and her brother for years, and for their folks before them. Miss June will tell you all about me. Won't you, Miss June, honey?"

Dugan held the hysterical woman's arm in a grip like iron. "Who did you say this young woman is?" indicating Ruth.

"That's Miss June Bradley."

"Are you sure of it?"

"Of course I'm sure of it."

Ruth waited silently. The web of circumstantial evidence was tightening about her.

Dugan was stern. "You say," to the older woman, "that this girl is Miss June Bradley? That she's Mr. Bradley's sister. You're sure of it?"

"Of course I'm sure of it. Why, say, I saw the little honey first when she was just 2 years old. That's 16 years ago—no, maybe 17. Speak up, Miss June, honey, and tell him that Abigail's telling the truth."

Dugan faced Ruth accusingly. "That doesn't square very well with that long, mixed-up story you've been telling me. Does it?"

Ruth's own eyes sank before the stern accusation in the eyes of the officer. "I look like Miss June Bradley. I admit that. That's the reason the Bradleys employed me. I told you that before."

"She's told me a long story about just pretending to be June Bradley," the officer said, watching Abigail Murphy's face shrewdly. "Is there any chance that you can be mistaken."

"There was no doubting the sincere honesty of the older woman. "Of course, I'm sure. What story could this child tell but that she's Miss June Bradley?"

"She claims that she's a girl from Des Moines, Iowa, who just looks like Miss Bradley. She claims that the Bradleys brought her along to deceive Mr. Bradley, make him believe that she was his sister, so that he wouldn't worry over what might have happened to the real June."

Abigail Murphy's reaction to this statement was characteristic of her kindly, slow thinking brain.

"Mister, that child's just so sick and worried that she doesn't even realize what's happened. She's the real Miss June. Don't you make any mistake about that."

"Have you got a picture of the real Miss June here?"

Abigail nodded, waddled into the next room, took the picture of June at 16 from the dressing table. "Look. You can see for yourself. As like as two peas. There couldn't be any mistake."

"You haven't seen June for five years, remember," Ruth beseeched.

"I wouldn't need to see you for five years to know you, honey," Abigail's voice was almost beseeching. "I'd know you any place. Didn't I know you the day you came home? Didn't you kiss me like the darling you are when I came upstairs to say 'hello' to you?"

It was true. Ruth had—at the prompting of Clara Bradley—greeted Abigail like a favorite servant and had been pleased when the cook had accepted her as June.

Now she wished again she had never succeeded so well in fooling the Bradley servants. Abigail had returned to her original theme. "You're so worried your sick. Tell the officers the truth, honey, and then they'll go away and I can put you to bed. You look like a ghost."

But Dugan was not inclined to let the two women out of his sight. "You can come along now," he decided. "I'll not call the wagon. You can ride in one of the squad cars and if you'll be quiet and peaceful, it won't be so hard. Maybe you won't have to stay long."

Ruth went down the long corridor. A plain clothes man stood at the door of Jim's room. Glancing past him, Ruth could see that the bed where Jim's long figure had lain was empty.

"What did Doc say about him?" Dugan queried, pausing.

"Seemed to think he might have a slight chance. His pulse seemed to be a little stronger."

Mrs. Murphy was excited, angry, almost hysterical. "You tell them, Miss June," she begged again, "please tell them that I didn't do anything wrong. Why, I never harmed anything in all my life and here tety are carting me away in a police car just exactly as if I'd killed somebody. I won't go. Tht's all. I just won't go."

She attempted to pull away from the officer's detaitning hand.

Inspector Dugan spoke. He was a kindly, soft-spoken officer until the time came to be stern. Then Dugan could not be classed as overgentle.

He took hold of Mrs. Murphy's plump arm with a grip that left finger-prints "Be quiet. "You go right along and you'll say not another word."

Abigail Murphy nodded meekly.

Immediate Independence, Trade Treaty Urged by Island Leader.

Puerto Ricans find the Tydings independence referendum bill, introduced last week by Senator Tydings (Democrat), aryland, "not only bad but impossible of execution," Senator Luis Munoz-Marin, of the insular Legislature, declared yesterday. He has suggested five amendments to Territorial officials here to make the measure "a genuine and honest attempt at independence," he said.

Senator Tydings' bill calls for a referendum by the Puerto Rican people. Should independence be approved, a commonwealth government of four years' duration would be established. After the four-year trial period the island would become fully independent.

Munoz-Marin's proposed amendments provide:

1. Elimination of the four-year transition period.

2. Appointment of delegates by the President of the United States to conclude a reciprocal trade agreement between the two countries.

3. Submission of the trade treaty to the Puerto Rico constitutional convention, and to the United States Congress.

Asks Same Dates.

4. That the effective date of the treaty be the same as the beginning of independence.

5. That the present status of the island, political and economic, be left unchanged until independence and the reciprocity treaty to go into effect simultaneously.

Muno-Marin said the transition period is unnecessary.

"This whole process should not take more than one or two years," he declared. "I am for independence and the Liberal Party that I represent is for independence, but we want to get it quickly, and we want to get it right."

Turning to a draft of the Tydings bill, the Puerto Rican Senator said: "It is harmful to so many regions of the United States that I do not see how the representatives of those regions in Congress can approve it.

"It not only ruins Puerto Rico, but it destroys one of the largest markets for American products—cotton, wheat, metals, machinery, textiles, industrial products of most kinds, and petroleum. However, a genuine independence bill that can have the backing of a majority of Puerto Ricans, the respect of the nations of the world and the approval of Congress, should be pressed."

Sees Threat of Ruin.

He characterized the proposed transition period "as having no purpose excepting a threat of ruin to the Puerto Rican people and of economic loss to all regions of the United States."

Outlining a basis for a reciprocal trade agreement with the United States, Munoz-Marin suggested four points:

1. That the United States have preference in Puerto Rican markets.

2. That Puerto Rico be permitted to enter agreements with other nations for disposal of her coffee crop.

3. That "reasonable" quotas for Puerto Rican cash crops in the American markets be determined.

4. That the United States "recognize the responsibility for the disastrous economic system developed in Puerto Rico," and that "an arrangement be entered into to complete the economic reconstruction plan and to continue as part of the Puerto Rican government such economic agencies as it may be necessary and feasible to carry on under that government."

New Soviet Laws Penalize Childless

Moscow, April 27 (AP).—The increasing importance the Soviet Union is attaching to the raising of families was shown in an announcement that new laws were being drawn up to curb childless marriages and to extend financial responsibility for children's upkeep to bachelors.

Laws will set up a special tax for single men and childless couples, will provide State financial aid for families with many children and will put a tax on divorces. The taxes will be graduated to conform to incomes.

Regulations also will be enacted to prohibit certain operations except where they are demanded in the interests of health. This is a reversal of the former Soviet viewpoint which facilitated such operations.

Aaron Solt, chairman of the supreme court and member of the committee framing the new laws, asserted they were necessary to give the Soviet Union more people.

He declared that although the Soviet woman has been raised on a basis of "absolute equality" with man, she "cannot be released from the great and honorable duty of bringing children into the world."

Duke's Plea Denied By Supreme Court

Jesse C. Duke, attorney, of the 1300 block of Massachusetts avenue northwest, yesterday lost his protest in the Untied States Supreme Court against disbarment orders by lower District courts.

In refusing Duke's plea, the highest tribunal sustained the ruling of the United States Court of Appeals, which affirmed the disbarment by the Supreme Court of the Distrcit.

The District Bar Association's committee on Grievances brought charges against Duke, citing statements he maed in appealing a criminal case. In his appeal Duke said the Federal attorney and court had "hand-picked" the jury to try a prohibition charge against one of his clients.

If you feel tired, run-down, nervous and out of sorts

There is usually a definite reason for such complaints . . . so, now let's reason sensibly.

Don't try to get well in a day . . . this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried.

But there is a certain scientific way you can assist by starting those digestive juices in the stomach to flowing more freely and at the same time supply a balanced mineral deficiency the body needs.

Therefore, if you are pale, tired, lack a keen appetite, have lost weight and feel rundown . . . a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak, with a tendency towards anemia—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic.

Much more could be said—a trial will thoroughly convince you that this way, in the absence of any organic trouble, will start you on the road to feeling like yourself again. © S.S.S. Co.

Professor, 40, Shoots Another Then Kills Self

Ousted Kansas University Instructor Terrorizes Students on Campus.

By the Associated Press.

Lincoln, Nebr., April 27.—Hundreds of excited students rushed from University of Nebraska classrooms to find two professors wounded, one fatally, after three shots rang out on the campus today.

The victims were:

John P. Weller, 40, a foreign-language instructor whose release from his post had been ordered by the faculty, dead by his own hand, and Dr. Harry Kurz, chairman of the foreign language department, slightly wounded.

Weller, whose relations with his superiors were termed "not satisfactory" by Chancellor E. A. Burnett, shot Kurz in the wrist with one bullet, sent another wild, and after a cross-campus dash fired a third into his own chest above the heart. He died before an ambulance could reach him.

A few seconds later startled collegians saw Dr. Kurz run from his office into a corridor in university hall, his subordinate pursuing him with a revolver in one hand and a bottle in another. The department chairman was overtaken and backed against a wall. Two shots were fired, Kurz slumped to the floor, calling out:

"I'm shot!"

Weller fled from the building as its occupants deserted classes and corridors to learn the cause of the trouble. The instructor ran about 150 yards to a triangular grassy plot between the campus studio and Nebraska Hall, pressed his gun against his chest and fired a third time. Students, instructors and university employes hurried to his side and an ambulance was summoned, but he died before aid arrived.

Dr. Kurz, taken to the student health department, where his wrist was dressed, told police Weller had threatened to kill him and take his own life by poison he carried in the bottle. Physicians said three bones in his wrist were shattered, but that he would retain use of his hand.

Chancellor Burnett said Weller's "instruction was not considered good." Last Saturday the university regents gave him a year's absence leave at half salary starting in September "without the privilege of return" to his post. He was unmarried and is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. L. Weller, an invalid of Pigeon Cove, Mass. He received his master's degree from Stanford University and taught previously at the Universities of Texas and Tennessee before joining Nebraska's faculty in 1928.

Zioncheck Loses Appeal From Fine

Representative Marion A. (Wh. Me?) iZoncheck yesterday lost in the United States Court of Appeals his fight to set aside his Police Court conviction on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct when the appelate court handed down a ruling refusing to review the case.

The Washington State lawmaker, who recently was arrested for speeding 70 miles an hour, was charged with ringing telephones in a Connecticut avenue apartment house New Year's Eve. In asking the higher court to set aside his prior Police Court conviction, Zioncheck asserted his conviction was contrary to th eevidence against him and was contrary to the law. He was convicted early last January and was fined $15.

In his latest encounter with the law here, Zioncheck was charged with speeding and when his conduct in Police Court aroused the ire of Judge Walter Casey, he was fined a total of $45, $25 of which represented a fine on speeding and $20 of which was for contempt. Meantime, his $25 collateral had been forfeited, thus making a total of $70.

Plan to Speed District Bills Laid in House

Mrs. Norton Would End Permanent Sub-committee System.

Failure of Legislation at Present Session Is Blamed on It.

By James D. Secrest.

A new plan to expedite legislation before the House District Committee will be suggested to the committee at its weekly meeting tomorrow by Chairman Mary T. Norton.

While it is late in the session for any change in procedure this year, the plan may be put into effect when the Seventy-fifth Congress convenes, providing Mrs. Norton is again named chairman of the committee, and if the new committee approves.

The plan would be to abolish the standing sub-committees in general procedure followed by the Senate District Committee. Thus, minor or uncontroversial bills might be reported by the full committee without prior consideration or hearing by a sub-committee.

Program for Hearings.

When it becomes apparent hearings should be held, a special subcommittee would be named to conduct the inquiry and would dissolve automatically after reporting the bill.

The House District Committee formerly followed this policy, but in the Sixty-ninth Congress, when Representative Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, was chairman, it instituted the permanent subcommittee system.

The weakness of the system was clearly demonstrated this year when 87 local bills were left unacted upon before the sub-committees. While many of these bills would have been rejected by the full committee, many others might well have been reported favorably and have passed the House under a more flexible procedure.

Bills Stay Unreported.

Several District days earlier in the session were not utilized by the committee because no bills had been reported from sub-committees. Now, with only two more District days in prospect, indications are that many desirable measures will be lost because of lack of opportunity to call them up in the House.

Another weakness of the permanent sub-committee system has been that the preponderance of bills have been referred to one sub-committee, the judiciary, headed by Representative Palmisano (Democrat), of Maryland.

Forty-one of the 87 pigeonholed bills have been held up by the judiciary sub-committee.

The committee chairman has been powerless to dislodge the District bills from inactive sub-committtes although she has made frequent appeals to the sub-chairman.

The Juvenile Court bill is a case in point. After lying idle before the judiciary sub-committee for several months, the measure only last week was turned over to the committee chairman after she had insisted that it be acted upon.

To Name Special Group.

As a result Mrs. Norton intends to appoint a special sub-committee tomorrow to hold hearings and report the bill in an effort to get it on the House calendar for consideration either on the final District days or under unanimous consent.

Mrs. Norton also will ask the full committee to report several bills that have passed the Senate so that they may be called up in the House if the opportunity occurs.

gial small loans bill, the Washing-

Among these are the controver-ton-Georgetown Gas Co. merger proposal, the uniform narcotics law, and the uniform sales act.

"I think the small loans bill is one of the most important of the 87 bills pending before sub-committees," Mrs. Norton said. "It's a disgrace the way poor people in Washington have to depend on small loans sharks in emergencies."

The bill was reported favorably by the full committee last year only to be recalled upon demand of Representatives Jenckes (Democrat), of Indiana, and Hull (Progressive), of Wisconsin, and to be recommitted to a sub-committee.

Citizens Group Pledges Its Aid To Dr. Ruhland

Georgetown Group Also Indorses Playgrounds Funds Increase.

CITS .....

Impressed with the importance of public health matters, the Georgetown Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution pledging support to Health Officer George C. Ruhland and promising a greater interest in the health problems of Washington.

In another resolution the association approved the Senate's increase in District appropriations for playgrounds and requested the House to accede to the larger sum.

The association renewed its recommendation for the paving of P and Q streets west of Rock Creek and asked that bus traffic be routed west on P street and east on J street. Buses are now routed in both directions on both streets, it was said.

Protest Flag Inaction.

The president, John H. Small, was authorized to ask the Board of Education and the superintendent of schools why apparently no action has been taken on the association's complaint that the flag is flown on the school on N street, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets, 24 hours a day, and in all weather.

Red lights above fire alarm boxes should be blue, according to a resolutio adopted last night by the Mid-City Citizens Association. The District Commissioners were asked to authorize the change.

In presenting the resolution, F. B. Hoffman, chairman of the streets, alleys and parks committee, said many accidents were caused by autoists suddenly jamming on their brakes, mistaking a fire alarm box for a traffic signal light.

WPA Pay Station Change.

Members of the group also requested that the Thomson School no longer be used as a pay station for WPA workers. The workers, it was, said, were creating a health hazard to children of the school.

The association went on record against a bill pending in Congress which would repeal present compulsory vaccination laws for school children.

C. Marsall Finnan, director of National Capitol Parks, explained changes which are being made in Franklin Park and said that additional benches and better shrubbery would be features of the renovated square.

U. S. to Defend Suit On Patent Claim

By the Associated Press.

Use of gigantic mattresses on the banks of the Mississippi River by Army engineers in their flood-control work yesterday resulted in a patent-infringement suit being filed against the Government in the Court of Claims.

Claiming it owns patent rights in the protective mats, the Asphalt Revetment Co., Inc., of Cleveland, Ohio, demanded payment of $2,750,000 for mattresses already laid, and compensation at the rate of $11 per 100 square feet for mats now being spread from Vicksburg, Miss., down river.

The Cleveland company's petition said Oscar A. Mechelin, of Washington, D. C., was the sole inventor of improvements in protective mats for river banks and was granted a patent on his discovery on August 30, 1932. The patent rights for the mattresses, it added, were assigned to the Asphalt Revetment Co. on January 19, 1931.

Grant's Spirit Needed in U. S. To Solve Ills, Dirksen Asserts

Representative Speaks at Exercises Commemorating 114th Birthday of Civil War General, Makes Plea for Tolerance to Settle Problems of Day.

The qualities of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant are needed in public men of today if this Nation is to be "taken through the problems of the day," declared Representative Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois, yesterday in an address at the services commemorating the 114th anniversary of the birth fightof the Civil War hero.

Speaking at the foot of the U. S. Grant statue in the old Botanical Gardens alongside the Capitol, with a light rain falling, the Representative lauded Grant for his "spirit of fight," tolerance and "wise action" during the panic of 1873.

"The spirit of Grant is needed today if we are to be taken through the problems of the day," Dirksen said. "Only through that spirit of fight can lasting and endurable solutions for our ills be discovered.

"Everywhere we see ourselves in the grip of intolerance today. Intolerance never did any good in settling the problems of the people. We could use much of the splendid tolerance that characterized Gen. Grant."

Following Dirksen's speech, wreaths were laid at the foot of the statue on behalf of the Women's Relief Corps, the Maryland Department of the Sons of the Union Veterans; the Spencer Mussey Tent of the Daughter of the Union Veterans; the Department of the Potomac of the Ladies of the G. A. R., the D. C. Commandery of the Military Loyal Legion, and Gen. Grant's two grandchildren, Ulysses Simpson 3d, and Mme. Julia Cantacuzene-Grant.

Neither of the grandchildren was there, the wreaths being laid by Oscar A. E. Oehmler and Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Morrell.

The Rev. Clifford H. Jope of the Ninth Street Christian Church read invocation and benediction, while John L. Bateman presided. The services were held under the auspices of the Maryland Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War and allied organizations.

Summer Plans For Symphony Hinge on Union

Cappel Confident Funds for Outdoor Concerts Could Be Obtained.

Summer concerts by the National Symphony Orchestra, which arranged and played the pupular sunset symphonies at the Potomac Watergate last year, now hinge in part on settlement of difficulties between directors of the orchestra association and officers of the Musicians' Protective Union, C. C. Cappel, manager of the orchestra, revealed yesterday.

"Now that funds for sustaining next winter's season of concerts is definitely assured, we could go ahead with plans for another series of outdoor concerts this summer if the union problem were solved," Cappel said.

"We are confident that sources of revenue to finance the open-air concerts could be developed. The supposition that we have abandoned plans for another season of these sunset concerts, is not based on authentic information.

"We cannot arrange for summer concerts, of course, as long as we are in disagreement with the musicians' union. But that is practically all that is preventing us from developing our plans."

At present officials of the union, of which all players in the symphony are members, are declining to negotiate with the association directors over the right of orchestra men brought here from other cities to become full members of the union, and also over the expulsion from the union of George Gaul, personnel manager of the orchestra since its organization five years ago.

Roberts Plans To Sue C. T. C. On Buses' Air

People's Counsel to See Ruhland Today on Court Action.

P. U. C. Will Order Firm to Install Fan Draft Ventilators.

Confronted by announcement of the Public Utilities Commission it would not take court action against bus companies because their buses have been held improperly ventilated, William A. Roberts, people's counsel, said yesterday he would confer today with Dr. George C. Ruhland, health officer, preliminary to seeking court action independently.

Threat to institute suit was made by Roberts following disclosure that Health Department tests had shown as much as 35 parts of carbon dioxide in 10,000 parts of air in samples taken from buses. The Health Department had said 13 parts was the maximum desirable.

Following announcement of the intention to seek to have the courts punish the Capital Transit Co., the commission, through Riley E. Elgen, chairman, said it would issue a formal order requiring fan-draft ventilation in all buses where ventilation was found to be unsatisfactory. The question of ventilation of buses has been fought over before the commission for the last several years.

Under ordinary procedure any suit against the companies would be instituted by the commission. Whether anyone else has the right to proceed under the general punitive provisions of the utilities act is not certain. The statement by Elgen and Richmond B. Keech, vice chairman, that the commission would not enter suit prompted Roberts to say he would seek to act independently.

Dr. Ruhland refused to say that any excess of carbon dioxide above 13 parts would be harmful but said he would confer with Roberts and members of the commission on the subject. He has not, he said, announced an official maximum nor is there any regulation under which the bus operators could be prosecuted for violation of health regulations. Whether Roberts institutes action, apparently will depend on the testimony of health experts as to the unhealthfulness of the air in buses. It was pointed out that there is a great difference between carbon dioxide and carbon monixide. The latter is orderless and deadly in much smaller quantities than the former.

The forthcoming ventilation order of the commission, Elgen said, will require change of 10 cubic feet of air per seated passenger in buses. He said the order had been drafted for some time but was held up pending completion of tests by the Bureau of Standards.

Auth Company Reorganization Plans Speeded

Way Paved in Fortnight to Obtain Capital for Its Operation.

Plans for the reorganization of the Nicholas Auth Provision Co., meat packing firm, under section 77 B of the bankruptcy law, to obtain needed working capital, will be completed in from two to three weeks, William J. Neale, attorney for the company, announced yesterday.

Section 77-B is the amendment to the act permitting the reorganization of companies to make adjustments with creditors and to raise added funds, sparing them from being forced into bankruptcy.

Two years ago falling live stock prices and continued depression forced the Auth Co., which has been doing business in the city since 1877, to file its first petition for reorganization under the terms of the law. Under the agreement evolving out of this proceeding, notes secured by a first deed of trust or lien on the property of the company were issued to the creditors to the extent of $253,134.20.

Although this first proceeding settled the problem of indebtedness, no provision was made for the raising of cash working capital. To obtain such funds last week the company filed a petition for reorganization in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

Through these proceedings, it is hoped, the way will be cleared for a loan of $200,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Police began searching last night for a 28-year-old mother who asked the Receiving Home to care for her three children on April 16, when she was evicted from her home in the 300 block C street northwest. She has not been seen or heard from since.

Officials at the home said yesterday the children, June 11; Delores, 8, and Herman, 9, were left at the home by Mrs. Dorothy Harris after the Travelers Aid discovered their plight. Mrs. Harris said she would call for them in a few days after she established a new home.

Herman has been in Gallinger Hospital for the last week with measles. He has recovered and will be released from the hospital today.

Gallery of Art To Offer $100 Purchase Prize

Sum Is Appropriated to Purchase Work Shown in Stores Here.

The Corcoran Gallery of Art yesterday announced that it has authorized a purchase prize of $100 for the Greater Washington Annual Independent Art Exhibit.

The board of trustees of the gallery adopted the following resolution:

"That the sum of $100 be appropriated to be given as a purchase price for the Greater Washington Annual Independent Art Exhibit being held this spring in local department stores.

"That the director be authorized to confer with officials of this exhibit as to the most oppropriate disposition of the work thus purchased, and any conditions which it might be desirable to attach to this award."

C. Powell Minnigerode, director of the gallery, wrote Mrs. Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of directors of the exhibit, that he will arrange details of the prize with her.

At last year's exhibit, the Corcoran Gallery gave two prizes of $50 each for a water color and an oil painting. The water color award went to Richard Sargent for his "Dupont Circle," while Aurelius Battaglia's "The Park" was the winning oil.

Virginia Woman Judged 'Able' To Spend Funds, Gets Heritage

A Federal judge in Chicago yesterday entered a final decree ordering immediate payment of $18,000 of the estate of the late John P. Crocker, railroad official, to Miss Gertrude Crocker, 40, operator of the famous Little Tea House on Arlington Ridge, overlooking Washington in nearby Virginia.

The decree followed an earlier ruling by the court that Miss Crocker had reached an "age of prudence" as defined in the terms of her ftaher's will. Crocker died about ten years ago. His will provided that his six children should share in his estate as soon as each was "sufficiently prudent to handle the money."

Yesterday's decree by Judge John P. Barnes, according to the Associated Press, removed as trustees of Miss Crocker's share o fthe estate, Ralph S. Pierce and his wife, Ethel, Miss Crocker's sister and brother-in-law.

During hearing, Miss Crocker pointed to her fitness to handle money by testifying that she and her late sister, Ruth, increased the value of the tea room from $14,000 in 1921, to a present value of $120,000.

D. C. Primary Bill Backed By Costello

He Fights 'Carpet-Bag' Delegation to Democratic Convention.

Dill Seek Re-election as City's National Committeeman.

John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, last night announced he would fight any attempt to elect "carpet-baggers and Federal office-holders" as District of Columbia delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia in June.

This city, though denied the vote, is entitled to six delegates and as many alternates to the convention which elects the Democratic nominees for President and Vice President.

In the past, the District delegation frequently has included men who had a voting residence in some State. Usually they were men who wanted to have a voice in the convention, but couldn't get elected as delegates at home.

Seeks Re-election.

National Committeeman Costello, who faces a fight to hold onto his leadership of the local Democratic organization, made two other announcements last night.

He said he would be a candidate for re-election as national committeeman and that, if necessary, he would draw up a slate to oppose that of the carpet-baggers.

He proclaimed his support of a bill now pending in Congress which would legalize primary elections in the District. This bill, drafted by John Mullen, a ocal lawyer, was introduced in the House by Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), of New Jersey, and in the Senate by Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

The bill provides for establishment of regular polling places and carries a stiff penalty for "repeating" votes or for other corrupt practices.

To Oppose "Bosses" Slate.

"If we have a real primary here," Costello said, "the people of the District will have something to say about who is going to represent them at the national convention. It will give them a chance to get rid of the carpet-baggers.

"I have been told that certain "bosses" already have prepared a slate of delegates for the Philadelphia convention, and that it is made up of carpet-baggers and Federal officeholders.

"I intend to oppose this with all the power I have."

Costello also expressed the hope that a primary election law would serve as an opening wedge for suffrage in the District.

The Democratic National Convention opens in Philadelphia, June 24. Costello said he thought the local Democratic primary would be held the second wook in June. He pointed out, however, that a decision on this must be made by the Democratic central committee here.

Overlin Floors Chong, Wins Decision in Furious Ten-Rounder

Chinese Sent To Mat for 9 Count

Sailor Is Unable to Stop Game Foe, on Verge of K. O. in 6th.

Body Barrage Weakens Chong; 1,600 Watch Constant Slugfest.

By Bill McCormick.

Ken Overlin took Ralph Chong to the cleaners at Turner's Arena last night. The ten-round fetaure was witnessed by 1,600 and the decision against the Chinese middleweight was unanimous.

Chong did all right for himself in the early rounds, but wilted under Overlin's body pummeling and whirlwind punch barrage to such an extent that toward the end you might have said that he didn't have a Chinaman's chance, if that's your idea of fun.

Overlin was deposited on the floor for no count by a left hook to the body in the first round. Chong was spilled for nine in the sixth by a terrific right cross to the head, which definitely ended any chance he might have had of winning the decision from the fourth-ranking 165-pounder in the country. From that point on, Ralph was doing pretty good by just sticking around for the scheduled distance.

Chong's Style Puzzles.

Chong's style was as puzzling as Chinese writing, but Overlin evidently had almost mastered it in a previous bout in Baltimore. Even at that, he almost failed to pass his examination as Ralph punched him about more than a little bit in the first three rounds and was always dangerous as long as he had a right hand on his bronze body.

Once Overlin's midsection mauling began to take effect, however, the fight became another story—a story of courage, determination and stamina in a slant-eyed campaigner. How Chong ever managed to remain upright under the very pretty going over Ken handed him always will remain one of life's little mysterys.

Not only did the Dempsey-managed contender use Ralph's ribs for a xylophone, he banged his impassive puss with practically every punch ever invented—and a few he though of on the spur of the moment. Chong time and time again seemed destined to make a Chinese landing for the full toll of 10, but somehow, someway he managed to go the distance—and give a pretty good account of himself in doing it.

Cary Wright, local welterweight, and Ritchie Mack, a veteran 145-pound campaigner, went eight rounds to a draw in a brawl carded in the semifinal spot. Many of the spectators thought Mack had an edge, but just as many seemed to believed Wright should have been declared the winner, so the stalemate decision probably was justified.

Boree, Camaretta Draw.

Ray Boree, a Florida featherweight, and Nick Camaretta, one of Chong's stablemates, went six rounds to a unanimous draw in a fast and furious preliminary in which it was every man for himself from bell to bell.

Sammy Sweet, Cincinnati bantamweight, scored a unanimous decision over smiling Yanqui, a game little Filipino, in a hard-fought four-round supporting bout.

In an opener scheduled for four rounds, Killer Lamar scored a second-round technical knockout over Lou Flowers, another colored heavyweight.

Shikat Answers Joe Alvarez In Court

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio, April 27.—Dick Shikat, deposed champ of the wrestling heavyweights, used up about 3,000 words today in filing a Federal court answer and claim to the charge of Joe Alvarez, Boston matchmaker, that he had "jumped a managerial contract."

Alvarez was not in court to hear the answer, evidently having lost interest in the proceedings since Shikat dropped his title to Ali Baba, Armenian, in a Detroit ring Friday night.

Only Fred Rector, counsel for Alvarez, was present, and he asked a continuance so he might secure the deposition of Paul Bowser, Boston promoter, whom Shikat claims is one of the leaders in his prosecution.

Judge Mell G. Underwood granted a continuance May 12, and permitted Shikat to take part in any matches he has booked up to that time. Shikat's end of the Detroit purse, however, was ordered impounded by the court until the case is settled.

Shikat's answer denied he entered into a contract with Alvarez, and contended Bowser was to be the manager; charged that the Bostonians had never arranged or paid him for a match, and that a promise to return to him $15,000 of a $20,000 forfeit had never been fulfilled;

Declared that he had never received 12½ per cent of "gate" for any of his bouts, as called for in the contract;

Declared that he was forced to put up the $20,000 forfeit to show that he would obey orders relative to winning or losing matches.

Declared that he was ordered by Jack Curley and Rudy Dusek, of New York, to lose to Danno O'Mahoney in the world title match March 2 in Madison Square Garden, but that he "crossed" them and won;

Final Stride Brings Virginia Victory Over Maryland in Sprint

Etheridge (right), of the University of Virginia, breasts the tape the winner of the 220-yard dash in the dual meet with Maryland yesterday at College Park. Ryan, of Maryland, pictured finishing second, held the lead until the final two yards.

Va. Trackmen Down Terps By 3 Points

Record Performances by Headley Fail to Stop Visitors.

A brace of record-smashing performances by Coleman Headley, Maryland's ace middle-distance hoofer, failed to save the Old Liners from an unexpected defeat at the hands of Virginia yesterday at College Park. The final tabulation of points gave the Cavaliers a 69- 2-3 to 56 1-3 margin over their hosts.

Headley reeled off a 4:23.3 mile, a new record for Byrd Stadium, in capturing the mile run from his arch-rival, Bob St. John, a Washington boy, in one of the prettiest performances of the afternoon. But, apparently not content with this, he returned to the oval a half hour later and raced a half mile in 1:58.4, establishing another stadium mark and again whipping St. John. The latter faded in the stretch when Headley turned loose with a terrific burst of speed that carried him over the finish line a good 10 yards in the van.

Etheredge Stars.

Virginia's most spectacular triumph was credited to Etheredge, a steel-legged sprinter, who beat Joe Ryan, Maryland, to the tape in both the century and 220-yard dashes. Running with a taped leg and slow in getting away from the mark, Ryan was fair game for the speedy Cavalier in the 100, but it required a hurculean effort to overcome Ryan's advantage to win the 220. Ryan was at least 3 yards in advance of the parade when they passed the 200-yard mark, but Etheredge dug in and caught the Terp by a nose, a flat nose at that, just at the tape.

Without detracting from Virginia's splendid performances in all events, Maryland's downfall can be directly attributed to Bob Slye's injured leg, which prohibited his appearance in three events, all of

This Morning . . .

With Shirley Povich.

I wouldn't have believed it, but I have it straight from a guy who has it straight from Detroit, that the daily journals of that town are now inclined to regard Mr. Mike Cochrane as something less than divine. They have even taken some cracks at him in their newspapers, which a year ago would have been tantamount to heresy in the last degree, and even now is very surprising.

POVICH.

It is the more surprising inasmuch as Mr. Cochrane's ball team is doing very well for itself and is only a game and a half out of the lead in its threat to win a third straight pennant. But Mr. Cochrane's ball players are still the fair-haired lads of the Detroit journals. It is with Mr. Cochrane himself, personally, that two of the three Detroit newspapers are no little pained.

It seems the hate got its start when Mr. Cochrane, now the vice president of the Tigers as well as the manager, gave the newspapermen in the South a bum steer on the Greenberg holdout case. Taking the word of Mr. Cochrane that the club had offered First Baseman Greenberg $25,000 and that his demands for $35,000 were holding up the contract, the papers went out on the limb with that story and, needless to say, made much of it.

Then it leaked out that Mr. Cochrane had not told the whole truth in the matter. Among the items that he overlooked, according to this department's informants, and Greenberg himself, were the facts that the Detroit club had not offered Greenberg $25,000 and that Greenberg had not asked for any such sum as $35,000. These revelations were accepted by at least one paper as a personal affront to its correspondent in the South and through its columns it began sniping at Mickey.

In the same column which for two years had resurrected every known platitude in praise of Cochrane and the Tigers there began to appear some dirty cracks about the Detroit manager. "Iffy the Dopester," who had been writing two columns of gush every day about Cochrane and his Tigers even took to calling Mickey Mahatma Mike, with the inference that, after all, perhaps he was only human and that the vice presidential dutles had resulted in an inflation of the cerebellum.

There was also a column devoted to the suggestion that Cochrane needlessly went out and paid $75,000 to the White Sox for Al Simmons when he had a better centerfielder sitting on the bench—namely Gerald Walker. And that Cochrane, in order to make the deal look good, would probably keep Simmons in the line-up under and conditions, even if he were not hitting.

The Detroit populace was reminded, too, that Cochrane pulled something of a boner in almost his first act as the newly elected vice president of the club. That was when he announced to the players and the press that the team's owner, Mr. Walter O. Briggs, had promised each player a substantial bonus in the neighborhood of $5,000 if the team won a third straight pennant.

To the players that was, needless to say, a very heartening announcement, and it quite won over to Mr. Briggs the adulating Detroit populace in the first year of his ownership of the club. But there was the slight difficulty of such a plan being against the rules of organized baseball which forbids such stimulating honorariums. Mickey Cochrane clean forgot about that, or as "Iffy the Dopester" infers, he never knew about it in the first place—just an example of his abysmal ignorance of front-office procedure.

There are also tales that Mr. Cochrane, as vice president, considers it below his station to fraternize with his ball players and that the club's loyalty to him is something less than 100 per cent on that account. Goose Goslin is harboring the suspicion that Cochrane intends to move Simmons over to leftfield if Simmons is unable to cover the ground in center, and that is an item that also has found its way into print.

The papers who are now taking more than sly pokes at Cochrane were willing to forget that Cochrane's first act when he assumed the management of the Tigers was to post a sign barring newspapermen from the dressing rooms, but that once more is in their craw.

But naving observed for two years in Detroit papers the greatest outpouring of home-town idolatry of a ball club, the sour notes now being sounded in the journals there are quite beyond this department's comprehension. The general charge by the Detroit newspapers is that Cochrane, as vice president-manager, is taking himself too seriously, but I wonder if he couldn't make that a counter charge. And make it stand up.

Patty Berg Is Standout in England

American Golf Star Teams to Defeat Joyce Wethered.

By the Associated Press.

Northwood, England, April 27.—Patty Berg, of Minneapolis, golf's youngest and newest sensation, and tall Joyce Wethered, long regarded as the game's foremost feminine player, stole the show today in a series of exhibition charity foursome matches featuring members of the American Curtis Cup team and British stars.

Miss Berg twice was on the winning side during the two 18-hole rounds and in the afternoon displayed a keen putting touch that enabled her to shoot within 2 of men's par for the Sandy Lodge course for the 16 holes the match lasted.

Teamed with husky Enid Wilson, three times British champion, Miss Berg kept pace with her formidable partner as they defeated Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., and Miss Wethered, 5 and 4. With Kathleen Garnham for her partner, Miss Berg's second victims were Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews, of Coral Gables, Fla., and Gwen Hartopp. The score was 3 and 2. Miss Berg rolled in long putts for deuces on the third and fifteenth holes.

The fine shot-making display of the day, however, was turned in by Miss Wethered, former British champion and now a "business womangolfer." Playing with Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, of Fort Worth, Tex., Miss Wethered needed only pars on the last three holes to equal the man's professional record of 70 as they conquered Glenna Collett Vare, the American team captain, and Miss Wilson, 4 and 3. Par for the course is 73 and the record is held by the veteran Abe Mitchell.

"That kind of golf simply isn't fair," smiled Mrs. Vare, who undoubtedly was relieved at the thought that Miss Wethered will not be playing for Great Britain at Glen Eagles May 6 when the Americans defend the cup for the second time.

Other results: Mrs. Crews and Diana Fishwick defeated Mrs. Vare and Molly Gourlay, 3 and 1; Mrs. Goldthwaite and Miss Hartopp defeated Mrs. Opal Hill, Kansas City, and Dorothy Pearson, 6 and 5; Charlotte Glutting, South Orange, N. J., and Miss Garnham defeated Mrs. Leona Cheney, Santa Monica, Calif., and Betty Dix-Perkins, 5 and 4; Mrs. Cheney and Miss Fishwick defeated Miss Glutting and Miss Pearson, 1 up; Miss Miley and Miss Perkins defeated Mrs. Hill and Miss Gourlay, 4 and 3.

Pikeral and Cecchini Clash at Arena Friday

One of the most promising amateur bouts booked in Washington this winter will be staged Friday night at Turner's Arena, where George Pickeral, 118-pound A. A. U. champion, meets Pat Cecchini, Northeast Boys Club ace. Cecchini won the Hartley Cup, symbolic of the most improved fighter in the recent A. A. U. bouts. The show is being promoted under the auspices of the Gonzaga High School Athletic Association.

Other bouts include one between Eddie Kane and Willie Tapp, 100-pound wildcats, and Whitey France and Jim Dalton, 140-pounders.

Smith Earns $7,048 in Tourneys

Tops Pros Who Played for $87,674 Purses in Winter Golf.

Picard, With $5,310, Is Second; Cooper Third With $3,939.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 27.—Horton Smith, lanky Chicago professional who would have settled for a $2,000 slice of the winter golf prize money, grabbed the biggest bank roll of them all—$7,048.

The 28-year-old former "Joplin Ghost," enjoying his best season in the money belt since 1929-30, was so hot he went far beyond his quota to work up a big edge over Henry Picard, sharpshooting Hershey, Pa., pro who collected $5,310, a checkup showed today.

In third place was "Light Horse" Harry Cooper, another member of the powerful Chicago professional brigade, who brought down $3,939 between November 12 and April 14.

Smith figured when he started out he would have to win $2,000 for expense money before shooting for the profits. However, one tournament, the Miami-Biltmore Open, took care of the "nut" and started Smith working for himself. A 72-hole score of 281 won the tournament and with it the grand prize of $2,500.

Netted $1,500 at Augusta.

Tall Horton's second triumph in Bobby Jones' Augusta National Invitation tournament, in which he overhauled Cooper on the final round, added $1,500, and victory in the Pasadena Open was worth $1,000 to him. The rest of the bankroll was picked up in amounts ranging from $50 in the Miami four-ball tournament, to $500 in the North and South Open at Pinehurst, N. C.

The professionals battled for a total of $87,674 in 26 tournaments during the winter campaign. Following Smith, Picard and Cooper, the big winners were:

Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., $3,611; Willie Hunter, Culver City, Calif., $3,353; Johnny Revolta, Chicago, $3,309; Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh, $3,246; Ky Laffoon, Chicago, $3,043; Gene Sarazen, Flushing, Long Island, $2,761; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., $2,308; Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. Y., $2,237; Frank Walsh, Chicago, $2,129; Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va., $2,000, and Orville White, Chicago, $1,507.

Smith said today he did not plan to go to England for the British Open at Hoylake in July because of business reasons.

"I am too busy to go this year although I'd like to," he said. "I like Hoylake, but I have so much to do here that I can't make it. I even turned down a match with Henry Cotton in London that I certainly would have accepted had I been able to go abroad."

Reds Defeat Cubs In Tenth Inning

Cincinnati, April 27 (AP).—With two gone in the last of the tenth and long Lonnie Warneke on the mound, Ernie Lombardi doubled and Tommy Thevenow singled here today to give the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

This victory was the Reds' fourth in six games against the Cubs this season and it gave them undisputed possession of second place.

The Cubs outhit the Reds, 11-9, but young Al Hollingsworth, a reformed first baseman, bore down in the pinches and retired the toughest part of the Cubs' batting order in the tenth. This was his third victory of the season in as many starts and put him on top of the league's pitching column.

SimmonsDeparted, Chisox Home Plate Moved Back Again

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 27.—Home plate at Comiskey Park, bailiwick of Chicago's White Sox, moved up two years ago for Al Simmons' benefit, began a 14-foot retreat to its old position today.

On the theory it would give Simmons, then in the second of his three years with the Sox, a better shot at the left field wall, the plate was shoved forward. The manuever was unavailing for the big outfielder failed to hit as well in 1934 and 1935 as he had in 1933, although the distance to the right and left field walls was reduced from 352 feet to 348 and from 436 to 422 in center.

With Simmons wearing a Detroit uniform, it was decided to restore the park to its former condition. The job will necessitate rebuilding the infield, but will be finished before the Sox return from their Eastern trip May 12.

Indians Down St. Louis to Keep Lead

Campbell's Home Run Is Margin of Cleveland 2-1 Victory.

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, April 27.—George Blaeholder's seven-hit pitching and Bruce Campbell's homer in the seventh inning gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns here today and kept the Indians on top of the American League heap.

The Indians were able to get only eight hits off Russ Van Atta and the game was tied when Campbell smacked his homer over the wall in deep right center. His other hit of the day was a single.

The Indians scored their other run in the first when Roy Hughes singled to right, stole second, went to third on Earl Averill's fly ball to the outfield and scored on Joe Vosmik's single to left.

But the Browns came back and tied the score in the fourth on Harland Clift's triple and Rollie Hemsley's single to left.

Then each team got only two hits in the next three innings, but one of these was Campbell's home run drive in the seventh with one out.

The victory was Cleveland's fifth in six games with the Browns and their eighth win in 11 starts this season.

In addition to Campbell, only two other players managed to get two hits. They were Bill Knickerbocker, Indian shortstop, and Roy Bell, the Browns' star.

Ruby Keeler Pretty Bad In Tournament Debut

Los Angeles, April 27 (AP).—Calm enough facing the cameras, pretty Ruby Keeler "blew up" today in the qualifying round of the California women's golf championship.

Playing under her married name of Mrs. Al Jolson, the petite actress had a terrible 10 on the first hole, 5 over par, then settled down to card a 51-47—98. Women's par for the Los Angeles Country Club course is 38-41—79.

Pedro Montanez Wins 14th Straight Battle

New York, April 27 (U.P.).—Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rican lightweight, tonight won his fourteenth straight American victory over rugged Aldo Spoldi, of Italy, at St. Nicholas Palace.

More than 6,500 fans saw the busy, brown-skinned Montanez win nine of the ten rounds to clinch a Madison Square Garden match with Leonard Del Genio, of New York, on May 15.

Linke to Face Tigers in Opener

Champions Will Invade Today; Simmons Is Lone Line-up Shift.

Harris' Best Pitcher Are Available for Remaining Games.

From out of the West today come the Detroit Tigers and their four-game winning streak to do battle with the Nats in three games.

Thus, the Nats, who fattened their average against the last-place Athletics over the week-end find themselves confronted with the best opposition the league has to offer, what with the Tigers rated as favorites to repeat their 1935 pennant triumph.

The task of halting the Tigers will be assigned today to Ed Linke, the rotund right-hander who has yet to win one of his three starts this season. But with Jimmy DeShong not yet available and his other regular pitchers lacking sufficient rest, Manager Bucky Harris has no alternative.

Opposing Linke on the mound will be either Elden Auker or Tommy Bridges, both of whom contributed impressive victories to the Tigers' current streak. Auker's last performance was a shut-out of the Browns.

Tigers Start Slowly.

Reminiscent of their poor start in the 1935 pennant race, the Tigers this season again were slow to function well, losing four of their first six games, but with four straight victories against the Browns and the White Sox they have zoomed into third place only a game behind the lead.

The game today will mark the debut of Al Simmons in a Tiger uniform. The former slugger of the A's and White Sox is now a fixture in the Detroit outfield, displacing the light-hitting Jo Jo White in centerfield, where he will be flanked by Goose Goslin and Pete Fox.

Simmons' presence represents the only change in the Tiger lineup that won the pennant in 1935. At first base will be the co-champion among the home run sluggers, Hank Greenberg; at second will be the redoubtable Charley Gehringer; at third, Marvin Owen, and at shortstop, Bill Rogell. Manager Mickey Cochrane will be behind the bat against right-handed pitching.

Nats' Pitching Brighter.

The Nats' pitching shortage exists only for today. Jimmy DeShong, recovering from a laryngitis attack, is expected to return to the mound in the second game of the series—his first start since his two-hit performance against the Athletics; and both Buck Newson and Pete Appleton will be available for the third game.

Schoolboy Rowe will not make an appearance on the mound in the series here. Called to his El Dorado, Ark., home by the death of his father, Rowe will rejoin the Tigers later in the week.

Encountering their first off day since the start of the pennant race yesterday, the Nats were excused from practice by Manager Bucky Harris. An epidemic of colds and sniffles caused Harris to give 'em a rest.

U. S. Finally Okays "Champion"

By the United Press.

New York, April 27.—Baltasar Sangchili, Spanish bantamweight title claimant, who became a bit weary of the city's skyline after watching it for four days from Ellis Island, finally was permitted to come ashore to join the throng of foreign slug artists seeking American dollars.

Sangchili's detention and his consequent claim to the questionable distinction of being the first foreign "champion" ever detained by immigration officials caused considerable discussion along Rue de Larrup. This discussion, although it did not settle the distinction business, brought sudden realization that the number of foreign bruisers currently invading American rings is startling indeed.

Jimmy Bronson, outstanding European representative in the United States and the busiest importer of scrappers, commented on the situation as follows:

"Never before has there been such an ingress of foreign talent as recently. And they're still coming. Almost every boat brings in a couple of boxers. I believe the ring renaissance stimulated by Joe Louis and Mike Jacobs is responsible for it. We should have one of the most prosperous summers in boxing history—and the boys are flocking over to share in the prosperity."

Bronson and his cohort, Lou Burston, imported Sangchili. Hence the squat, hairy-chested little slugger from Valencia met the press in Bronson's office. Sangchili, who wrested his title claims from Panama Al Brown, at Valencia last June, speaks no English. So his manager, July Avernin, and Trainer Bobby Diamond—who also were detained at the island—acted as interpreters. All were released today after a technicality had been ironed out at Washington.

Sangchili said: "At first I thought New York's skyline was wonderful. But after four days of watching it through a barred window, I'm tired of it. I got too much skyline."

George Diffenbaugh Stars in Middle Atlantic P. G. A. Events

Ties Walper With 72 in Sweeps

Indian Spring Ace Team With Peacock, Taking Pro-Amateur.

By Dave Herman.
A Staff Correspondent.

Hillendale Country Club, Towson, Md., April 27.—George Diffenbaugh, little Indian Spring Golf Club professional, carried off the lion's share of the prizes in the Middle Atlantic P. G. A. golf tournament here today, and, incidentally served notice to his contemporaries that he is going to win a place in the National Open trials scheduled here May 11.

After tying Leo Walper, Bethesda driving range professor, and Glenn Spencer, Strathmore Country Club, Baltimore, for the individual sweepstakes honors with a 72 in the morning, Diffenbaugh came back in the afternoon to team with Harry C. Peacock, veteran Indian Spring golfer, to capture top honors in the pro-amateur event.

Diffenbaugh and Peacock, red hot for the 18 holes, carded a best ball of 64, six under par, and one of the lowest scores ever made by a pro-amateur team in Middle Atlantic competition.

Putting Is Costly.

Some careless putting on the last green of the morning professional battle cost Diffenbaugh a clear claim to first prize money. Out in 36, he missed an 11-inch putt to take a five, one over par.

Walper, who played in the same foursome with Diffenbaugh, turned in 35, and gained a tie with Spencer and the Indian Spring pro by sinking a 20-footer for a birdie on the last hole.

District pros and amateurs who took advantage of today's tournament to familiarize themselves with the 6,227-yard course for the forthcoming. Open trials won most of the prizes.

Leo Walper teamed with simon-pure players to share in pro-amateur awards. Walper and Levi Yoder, of Kenwood, and Walper and Frank Williams, of Washington Golf and Country Club, tied for a second honors with 65, each, the latter combination roaring home in 31.

Beernard Dennell, of Kenwood, and Waper, scored a 66 to tie Jim Flattery and C. W. Klipper, of Rodgers Forge for the next prize.

Departmental League Launched

PWA Defeats G. P. O., 6-4, In Opener

A new peake in the technique of opening baseball seasons was reached yesterday when it tok the Secretary of the Interior, Harold W. Ickes, and Public Printer A. R. Giegengack to open the Departmental League with a pair of simultaenous pitches.

zHaving invited both officials to inaugurate the league season, President Vic Gauzza diplomatically had both of them throw out basebals. Neither had much more than the speed of a knuckle ball and their pitches did not go far.

They did signalize, however, the opening of the game between the Secretary's PWA and the Public Printer's Government Printing Office club, 1935 champions. The PWA workers scored a 6-to-4 victory.

PWA, runner-up last year, was not long in getting off to a substantial lead. Charlie Koenig single, Vic Gauzza, jr., sacrificed, and Jewett walked. Koenig and Jewett negotiated a double steal and scored on Sam Harvey's single over third.

Bauzza started the performance in the third with a single and scoring on a long triple to right center by Harvey. Coe singled and stole second, and Sutton singled to score him with the third run.

In the late going the losers threatened and with the winning run on base in the last half of the ninth inning, Jim Murphy, the winning pitcher fanned Harreran for the finanl out.

Richmond Women Golf Stars Rebel

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Richmond, Va., April 27.—Definite announcement of the Women's State Golf Tournament for June 23-27 has left the strong delegation from Richmond unchanged in its determination to go ahead with a match with a picked District of Columbia team here on June 23-24.

When a conflict loomed, State officials hoped that a shift in the match could be made. The Richmonders regard the Washington match as one of the year's highlights, however, and they refuse to give it up. The same groups have another match scheduled for September.

As matters stand, only a few of the better Richmond players will attend the State tournament at Newport News. Most of them say they will stay here to play against Washington.

Eastern Plays Roosevelt in Series

Eastern High owens defense of its inter-high baseball championship this afternoon against Roosevelt High at Roosevelt Stadium. The game will start at 3:30 p. mfi, with Eastern heavily favored to win.

Coach Herman Littman, of Roosevelt, will start young Howard Bowers, a right-hander, on the mound. Coach Charlie Guyon, of Eastern, will probably counter with Wade Prembroke, Jacfi Carver or Ray Stockwell.

Only two veterans are in uniform for Roosevelt, which has been hardhit by ineligibility. Georges Coackley, second baseman, and Frank Bailey, firse baseman, are the experienced men returning to interhigh action. Roosevelt was the runner-up last year.

The remainder of the Roosevelt line-up will have Harry Treganowan leading off and playing rightfield; George Coakley at second; Frank Bailey on first and Normerun Joe Tassa on third, and Larry Hanigan at short. Stewart Gessford in center, Harry Silverma nin left and Harry Silverman in left and Harry Treganowan in right will take care of the outfield.

For Eastern, Herb Bartoo at first, and Al Kidwell, at secondfi will lead the list of veterans back in uniform for inter-high competition. Coach Charlie Guyon, who has already stated that his team is the "team to beat" will not make his pitching selection until today.

Richmond Trackman Pointing For Mile Duel With Headley

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., April 27.—Bill Lumpkin, the University of Richmond's ace middle distance and distance runner, is making no secret of the fact that he aspires to do three things in the meet with Maryland's Old Liners at College Park Saturday:

1. Whip Coleman Headley, the Terrapins' great miler.

2. Break the University of Richmond record of 4:22.6.

3. Win a silver cup offered by Lester Tharpe for any Spider who breaks his record in the quarter-mile, half-mile or mile.

Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, who is outspokenly proud of his star pupil, says frankly he thinks the lad if given a dry track may accomplish all three objectives.

Lumpkin, who has been running against a time chart in previous meets this season thus far had had no one to push him. But he'll be pushed considerably, all hands agree, when he steps to the starting line next Saturday.

Headley is one of only two milers who have whipped the Spider ace in his meteoric career and Lumpkin has resolved that it won't happen again. Saturday Thistlethwaite told him to run a 4:28 mile and Lumpkin, his long legs moving rhythmically, obliged with a 4:27.2 performance. He finished with 20 yards to spare and a half hour later romped away with a victory in the 880 in the creditable time of 2:05.3.

Next Saturday the Richmond coach will send him to the starting line with definite instructions to run a 4:22 mile. He'll have to step to do it—and so will Headley to keep pace with him.

If he is successful in his assault on the mile record, Lumpkin next intends to turn his attention to Tharpe's half mile record of 1:56.8. Both records were established in 1925. Tharpe's record of 49.8 seconds in the quarter, a 1926 mark, seems safe for another year at least.

Bobby Jones Confers Here on WPA Links

Harris & Ewing.

Bobby Jones "Dumfounded" At WPA Links Construction

Bobby Jones dropped into town yesterday and had a chat with a couple of self-admitted "duffer" golfers who left him, in his own words, "dumfounded" at what they are doing in this game of golf. The "duffer" golfers were Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, and Col. Lawrence Westbrook, deputy administrator.

Invited to confer here with the WPA officials concerning the construction of 600 courses all over the country, Jones was completely amazed when it was pointed out to him what WPA is doing for the game.

"I never heard anything like it," he exclaimed. "This means that golf is being democratized. Everybody will be able to play it now. Six hundred courses! Whew! Why, this means that practically anybody, regardless of their finances, will be able to play golf.

The golf world's immortal Georgian looked at a map of the country on which were numerous little disks and other insignia describing just what the WPA is doing and where.

Col. Westbrook explained to Jones that some 3,000 persons are engaged in building the 600 courses, at which Jones broke into more praise of the project.

"Another thing this means," the Atlantan said, "Young people will be able to play now, whereas the club courses have always been too expensive. What this means to the game: It takes the expensive element out of it. This will make golf everybody's game even more than it is now."

Hopkins and Westbrook listened eagerly to such advice as Jones would give concerning the courses. He mentioned a belief that the courses ought to be standardized to some extent, that is, that certain criteria should be followed in constructing them. Jones advised that an effort be made to hire only the best of the country's golf architects.

Westbrook, who says he shoots "in the upper 90s," and Hopkins, who "is even worse," expressed deep appreciation to Jones for his cooperation before he went on to New York.

Hopkins Trackmen Defeat American U.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, April 27.—Johns Hopkins won the first dual track meet of the campaign in its fourth start of the season by defeating American University, 65 to 61, today at most of the track events, but American retaliated in the field with the result that the last event, the broad jump, decided matters.

Going into that event, Hopkins led, 60 to 57, and needed better than second place to avoid a tie. Not only that, but Bernie Lewis, best man in the event, was one of four regulars out of competition with minor injuries. But Graziano came through with a victory to land the required points.

Saul Buc, high jumper; Eddie Peppler, quarter miler, and Howard Jarman, hurdler and high jumper, were the others confined to acting as officials. Hill was the mainstay of the visitors, winning the shot and discus and placing in both dashes and the javelin throw.

100-yard dash—Won by Baetjer (Johns Hopkins); second, Graziano (Johns Hopkins); third, Hill (American U.). Time, 10.6.

220-yard dash—Won by Baetjer (Johns Hopkins); second, Hill (American U.); third, Gray (Johns Hopkins). Time, 24.1.

440-yard run—Won by Clark (Johns Hopkins); second, Gray (Johns Hopkins); third, Thompson (American U.). Time, 54.4.

880-yard run—Won by Moxley (Johns Hopkins); and Sholtes (Johns Hopkins), tied; third, Smith (American U.). Time, 2:9.9.

Mile run—Won by Emmert (Johns Hopkins); second, Church (American U.); third, Fuchs (American U.). Time, 4:50.4.

Two-mile run—Won by Brown (Johns Hopkins); second, Sholtes (Johns Hopkins); third, Church (American U.). Time, 10:44.

Little Hoyas Get But Two Hits, Win on Errors.

Georgetown Prep's fast traveling ball team staved off late Central High rallies yesterday to upset the Mount Pleasant team, 4 to 3, at Garrett Park. Playing errorless ball, the Little Hoyas profited by Central misplays to win, as they garnered only two hits off the delivery of Dizzy DeCerne and Lefty Heft.

The Preppers took a 1-to-0 lead in the first when Billy Byrd was safe on an error by Lefty Heft, advanced on an infield out, and scored on Morse's single. They added two more in the third, when DeCerne walked Bob O'Shaughnessy and Higgins, and Elkin Franklin singled.

Ed McDonough, of Central, cracked a home run to right center in the fifth for Central's first run, and in the next inning singles by Don Fones and Joe Moran added another. The Prep came back in its half to push over what proved to be the winning run.

Procurement Wins In League Opener

Howard Preston pitched the Procurement Division ball club to victory in the Federal Double-A League yesterday in the circuit's opening game with a 5-3 victory over the G. P. O. Federals. Preston allowed but six hits.

Deputy Public Printer Ortlieb threw out the first ball. Before he had hardly rested him arm after the exertion, the Procurement team had swept to a 4-0 lead in the opening inning.

Sencond Baseman Hirst singled, Harry Kramer singled, Jim Cauliflower and Bill Miller also singled, but the best Catcher Tortorice could do was to fly out. Rightfielder Wilson came through with the fifth hit of the inning to score Miller with the fourth run. Preston protected the lead to the finish.

Bow and Arrow Increases Preakness Stock by Graw Victory

Bradley Colt Staves Off Jean Bart

Double Pays $198.20 as Miss Dolphin and Trujillo Score.

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent.

Havre de Grace Race Track, April 27.—The Bradley Stable was shooting with Bow and Arrow again today. Coming back off a winning effort, the son of Whichone toyed with a field of seven other sprinters and boosted his stock as a candidate for the Preakness. In winning the Sudbrook Purse, the day's feature event, Bow and Arrow led Jean Bart, another Preakness hope and a slight favorite, to the wire by a length margin. Deflate was third in the struggle over the 6-furlong course.

In the role of a $5.40 second choice, Bow and Arrow and Jockey Joe Renick were a lucky pair. Getting a little the worst of the break, Renick was forced to steady his mount along the rail, while Deflate and Green Mist fought a head-and-head battle for the honor of setting the pace.

Entering the stretch, Renick was still on the edge of the fence and looking for a spot to drive through. Green Mist and Deflate, feeling the effects of their brisk early running, swung a trifle wide and Bow and Arrow shot through the hole. He was on top in a few jumps. Jean Bart, running close by, was shaken up by Jockey Merrit and began to gain. He was still gaining at the finish, but too late for anything except second money.

Perfect racing weather and a fair Monday program served to lure some 8,000 customers to the afternoon's battle of the mutuels.

Those who bet Miss Dolphin in the first half of the daily double were thrilled by the "if" board, which showed four prices of more than the $1,000 mark. However, Trujillo, one of the smallest of the combinations, at $198.20, was the winner.

Miss Dolphin, a field horse, won the first race from a field of juvenile sprinters, to pay a $15.10 mutuel. Ridden by Jimmy Hunter, the daughter of Stimulus was hustled to the front at once, opened a long lead approaching the stretch and then was taken in hand during the closing sixteenth. Harry's Dream was always second. America First closed a gap to take third money.

Mrs. J. Bosley, jr., owner of the ill-fated Chase Me, sent Snobby Scamp postward in the second race and the Sea Scamp gelding drove to a decision over Boocord, with Adams Eve third, in a sprint that drew eleven starters. Excellently ridden by Jockey Le Blanc, Snobby Scamp came between horses in the stretch, to win going away and pay a $10.40 mutuel.

Trujillo, beaten some nine lenghts last out here, and picking up 18 pounds, made a show of a field of 11 planters in the day's third sprint. He held a contending position from the start, and when put to a drive by Carl Hanford in the stretch, fairly bounded out to a clear winning lead. Trujillo paid a $14.70 mutuel.

Giant Killer Scores.

Trainer Preston Burch, of Washington, made a killing in the fifth race with Giant Killer, which paid a $22.60 mutuel. The St. Germans colt, making his first start of the spring campaign, came with a rush in the stretch to hold Eudes safe in the final drive. Palameda, a paddock tip, was third in the test over a mile and a sixteenth route. Moose Peters rode the winner and added to his margin in the race for the jockey championship here.

Buck Langhorne made it two straight victories by leading a field of seven to the wire in the sixth race over the mile and a sixteenth course. Ridden by Jockey Cliff Stafford, the Dunlin gelding was always prominent and took command when called upon entering the stretch. Bird Flower's long drive brought second money ahead of Bob's Boys. The winner paid $15.

American Belle took the final event at an $8.10 mutuel.

MISS DOLPHIN assumed command leaving the backstretch, opened up a long lead when kept under stout urging, but she had to be hustled hard nearing the finish to stall off HARRY'S DREAM. Latter followed closest to the winner from the beginning, rallied to punishment and was going strongly at the close. AMERICA FIRST bettered his position on the outside and closed strongly in the late stages. TIDY LADY was hurried along all the way and held on courageously. MONOLOGUE closed a good gap after being shuffled back early. FRISCO KID made a determined bid when reaching the homestretch, but tired under a hard drive. OVERPLAY could not reach a forward position. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SNOBBY SCAMP, $10.40, $4.90, $3.40; BOOCORD, $4.00, $2.70; ADAMS EVE, $4.40.

SNOBBY SCAMP, prominent during the early running, rallied gamely when put to a hard drive in the last three-sixteenths, and closing stoutly between the leaders, was up in the last few strides. BOOCORD was rushed hard to enter a forward position after being slow to get going, worked his way to the front in the last furlong, but had too much taken out of him early, and he weakened right at the end. ADAMS EVE showed good speed while setting the pace, saved ground all the way, but failed to stay when collared. JUSTA GLIDER went forwardly placed, but could not threaten seriously when the final test came. CANTERSINE made a stout effort when leaving the backstretch, but weakened under punishment in the last quarter mile. BUDDY BOO was unable to menace. VANDA CERULEA began tiring after going three furlongs.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:47. Off at 3:48. Winner, W. A. Jones' b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRUJILLO, $14.70, $6.80, $5.00; LAURA S., $7.20, $4.90; IRON ORE, $4.70.

TRUJILLO, going in his best form and following within striking distance of the leaders, swung to the outside when moving up at the stretch turn, engaged the leaders in the closing furlong, then drew out swiftly approaching the finish when kept under pressure. LAURA S. held a forward position all the way and came gamely in the closing stages. IRON ORE raced MAY V. into submission in the first five furlongs, saved ground, but weakened in the closing furlong. MAY V. had good speed from the start, but was not good enough. LETTER BOY, slower than usual to settle in her stride, closed a good gap in the last half mile. CABLEGRAM was unable to enter a contending position. MIXED GOODS was held safe. BLACK TOREADOR showed a flash of early speed. The others were never dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The Sudbrook. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:21½. Winner, E. R. Bradley's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOW AND ARROW, $5.40, $3.00, $2.50; JEAN BART, $3.40, $2.50; DEFLATE, $3.80.

BOW AND ARROW, in tight quarters in the run through the backstretch, secured racing room on the turn, swung to the outside in the stretch and was going away at the end. JEAN BART raced well placed from the start, but on the outside, closed with good speed, but was not good enough. DEFLATE raced with GREEN MIST in the lead and tired from her efforts to force the pace. NIGHT PLAY raced evenly but could not threaten. PATSEY BE GONE had no excuses. ROSSELLI lacked speed and was never a factor. GREEN MIST displayed good early speed to set the pace, but stopped badly.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000. Grade C Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:54. Winner, W. M. GIANT KILLER, rated back of the leaders for the first six furlongs, moved up stoutly when reaching the final turn, swung to the outside to dispose of CONQUER, then held on strongly in the last furlong, outstayed EUDES. Latter gained fast in the last five-sixteenths and was racing stoutly nearing the end. PALAMEDE, restrained off the early pace, secured racing room on the inside in the last half mile and closed with excellent courage. MISS CAREFUL moved up resolutely when nearing th homestretch, offered a bold bid midway of the homestretch, but weakened right at the end. CONQUER displaced TEMPESTUOUS without effort midway of the backstretch, went into a clear lead, but stopped suddenly in the last quarter mile. TEMPESTUOUS began tiring after six furlongs.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUCK LANGHORNE, $15.00, $5.90, $4.40; BIRD FLOWER, $4.30, $4.00; BOB'S BOYS, $6.00.

BUCK LANGHORNE, following close to the leaders early, moved up stoutly when leaving the backstretch, wore BALTIMORE BOY down when reaching the home stretch, then holding on gamely, outstayed BIRD FLOWER. Latter, slow to settle in her stride, worked her way up steadily in the last half mile, overcame interference in the homestretch when coming through between horses and finished stoutly. BOB'S BOYS went strongly from the beginning and continued determinedly to the final test came. BALTIMORE BOY showed good speed while setting the early pace, but weakened fast when overhauled. PRETTY NIGHT, rated forwardly, failed to rally when put to a drive in the final sixteenth. XANDRA raced in dull fashion. THIRTEEN STARS was outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:56. Off at 5:56½. Winner, H. Neusteter's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—AMERICAN BELLE, $8.10, $5.30, $3.60; COUNT TETRARCH, $5.10, $3.30; LAST ROMANCE, $2.90.

AMERICAN BELLE had speed from the start, raced with COUNT TETRARCH in the lead and on the inside, saved ground throughout and, closing stoutly, just got up. COUNT TETRARCH raced lapped on the winner throughout, drew out into a short lead in the stretch, but was gamely and just failed to last. LAST ROMANCE steadily bettered her position from a slow start, circled the field entering the stretch and closed stoutly. RESURRECTION raced evenly and showed a good effort. IRISH VOTE closed some ground. RELATIVITY was unable to get up at any stage.

Looks Out on Derby Scene

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

Rated now as the second choice in the Kentucky Derby, the Wheatley Stable's Teufel which won the Wood Memorial at Jamaica last Saturday, peers from his stall yesterday following his arrival at Churchill Downs where he will resume training this week.

At the Post . . .

Havre de Grace Race Track, Md., April 27.

Dear Al:

I'm wondering what has become of the camera finish. The green box is still hanging heavy, heavy over the stewards' poor heads but it has not been brought into action of late. There have been some second and third horses that I would have liked to have had pictures of so that I could take them home and study them. But I will take the judges' word for the placing until the tracks install the real Santa Anita outfit. I met Jockey De Camillis today. He came up to tell the press box boys about his brand new baby girl. The smiling papa drew a suspension and a fine Saturday for beating the gate. And he told me that the last time he was set down by a starter it was for being left at the post. Somewhere in between, De Camillis may find the happy medium that will suit everybody. He will begin riding again at Pimlico and I'm wondering how long the racing lords will allow him to ply his trade.

First race—Careless Knight showed fair form in an outing last week and may be ready to defeat this company. I'm going to string along. OLD IRONSIDES comes from a barn full of fit horses and has worked well. Blakeen and Grace Bunting have outside chances.

Second race—Cruising seems to be well placed here despite a heavy assignment of 118 pounds. Narise is rounding into form and could be dangerous here. Semaphore to take care of the others.

Third race—Ampersand, a winner here, may take care of this field. Can better that winning effort as to time, and I expect no mistakes. Sweet as Sugar and Blue Alice seem capable of holding the others safe.

Fourth race—With Airflame absent, this looks like a hop, skip and jump for Goldey F., winner of six straight races, she having done everything asked and deserves first call. Manatella downed Gay Balko here and is a natural second choice.

Tall Oak for the show. Broad Ripple could improve and be a factor.

Fifth race—Hoops will draw a good rider tomorrow instead of an inferior apprentice. Given a rating ride, this one should not miss. Masked Gal, recent sprint winner, will be in the thick of the battle. Canpra is cheap, but has a chance.

Sixth race—Dutch Uncle is dropping down, and so is Kindacorn. They figure close, but I prefer them in the order named. Manager Bill is always dangerous and may be a keen contender.

Seventh race—Mad Frump and Annimesic, a pair of former stake horses, should battle it out for the chief award here. It is a tight fit, but I will take the former Whitney horse. Pencader appears to be best of the others.

Best bet—Ampersand.

The Market

By Carlton A. Shively, A Special Correspondent.

Stocks and Bonds Fall Further in Heavy Selling on Same Old Worries; Wheat Tumbles.

New York, April 27.—All speculative markets began the week in poor condition and when toward the middle of the day selling began again more liquidation was brought out than has been seen for a few days. On increased sales volume prices broke badly in nearly all sections and the absence of bidders discouraged the fagged out bulls. Selling of stocks subsided toward the close, but prices ended near the bottom, with leading issues losing 2 to 5 points.

Bonds also were weak, except for Treasury issues, and grains tumbled. Bearishness fed on its own fat, and the bottom of the pot was scraped to find fresh reasons for the decline. The old fare was offered: the lack of amiability shown toward the country's prosperity by the President, the SEC's threat to market operators, the uncertain position of foreign funds in our markets, and—first, last and not least—the remarkable discovery that perhaps prices had outrun corporation earnings.

Stock prices retired softly in the forenoon trading until shortly before noon. In the noon hour volume picked up, the ticker fell behind several minutes, and prices broke rapidly. In that period the sales turnover was larger than in the first and second hours combined. The Sun's industrial and rail averages fell 4 and 7 per cent respectively, leaving the industrial price level slightly above that of February 3. Rails have lost all the ground gained since January 21.

More than 100 stocks dropped to new low prices for the year. Among them were American Radiator, American Water Works, Baldwin Locomotive preferred, Boeing, Celanese, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Consolidated Edison (disappointed at a report of lower earnings for first quarter), Gold Dust, Hudson Motors, I. R. T., Ohio Oil, Otis Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad, Radio, Schenley, A. O. Smith, Southern Railway, Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, Standard Brands and United Aircraft.

The widest stock price declines of the day, ranging from 3 to 7 points at the worst, were reported for Allied Chemical, Bank Note, Chain, Telephone, Santa Fe, Auburn, Borg Warner, Case, Checker Cab, Chrysler, Crown Cork, Harvester, Manville, Southern Pacific, Deere, Douglas, du Pont, Philip Morris, Smith, Union Pacific, Union Carbide, Westinghouse and United States Steel. Sales volume exceeded 2,250,000 shares, the largest in six weeks.

Money Rates.

Except in New York City, where rates charged customers by the banks hardened slightly, money turned lower in March throughout the country, contrary to the seasonal trend. That was due mainly to the high volume of excess bank reserves, which nevertheless was reduced during the month. For New York City the average customer's rate rose from 2.56 per cent in February to 2.61 per cent. A year ago it was 2.64 per cent. In other Northern and Eastern cities the rate dropped from 3.63 to 3.60 per cent. In Southern and Western cities the decline for the month was from 4.51 to 4.44 per cent. Those rates, outside New York, are the lowest yet set by the banks.

Foreign Deposits.

How deposits of foreign banks in banks of this country have been rising is shown by the figures of condition of 14,123 insured banks compiled by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Such deposits on December 31 were $405,187,000, compared with $279,638,000 on June 29, 1935, and with $155,846,000 on December 31, 1934. Undoubtedly recurrent French crises have had some responsibility for the growth. State chartered member banks hold most of the money.

Privacy Approved.

The old rules for confidential treatment of SEC statements have given no hint of the commission's favorable action on requests for privacy. Today it appeared that bonus payments to two employes of a chain store company had been accpted in confidence. Presumably the commission was swayed by the common argument that disclosure would be harmful to morale. Since the amounts are shown, the stockholders are not concerned. Some companies whose 1934 salaries have been ordered published have asked optimistically for confidence for their new reports.

Premiere.

For the first time since listing on April 9, Baldwin Locomotive assented 5 per cent bonds were traded on the stock exchange today, the price being a quarter-point under the plain bonds. The dearth of trading in all the assented Baldwin issues suggests either that they were admitted to the list with unusually small distribution, or that holders of assented issues are too bullish on the plan of reorganization to let any of them go. On Friday the exchange will let the public in on the secret of the number of assents.

Brokers' Loans.

Banks reported comparatively little borrowing by brokers as the first of the month drew near. After May 1 brokers will have to post about twice as much collateral to get bank money as they have to put up now, and some brokers apparently have thought it wise to take advantage of the last chance to get capital on favorable terms on the chance that it might be needed later. A few bank lending officers apparently do not like the idea of making last-minute loans just before Regulation U takes effect, fearing that any volume of such lending might be construed as a circumvention of the regulation.

Reporting.

On the stock market's two selling attacks—in the noon hour and again early in the last hour—the ticker tape went through its familiar performance of giving only a general idea of how prices were moving. A ticket tape reporting sales seven or eight minutes after they have taken place on the floor of the Stock Exchange, in times of rapidly falling prices, always greatly adds to price weakness and all round confusion. It helps as much as anything else to insure that a period of stagnation lies ahead, when, as some apologists for inadequate reporting facilities put it, the need for a better system disappears.

Rail Earnings.

Flood losses of Eastern railroads caused too much of a hole in railroad net for carriers in other sections to fill. The first 53 lines reporting for March had a gain of 8.3 per cent in gross, but a drop of 15.6 per cent in net compared with a year ago. Only eight of the roads had lower gross, and 31 of the 53 had higher net.

$110,000,000 B. M. T. Bonds On the Market

$65,000,000 in 4½s and $45,000,000 in 3s and 3¾s.

Two issues of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, totaling $110,000,000 collateral trust bonds, are being offered today by a banking group headed by Hayden, Stone & Co. The two issues, which are said to constitute the largest single corporate financing operation ever made under one indenture, consist of $65,000,000 4½ per cent series, due May 1, 1966, and $45,000,000 3 per cent and 3¾ per cent serial bonds due May 1, 1937 to 1951 inclusive.

The 4½ per cent bonds are priced at 100. Prices for the 3 per cent bonds range from 102.25 for the 1937 maturity, yielding 0.75 per cent, to 102.50 for the 1941 maturity, yielding 2.47 per cent. Prices for the 3¾ per cent bonds range from 105 for the 1942 maturity, yielding 2.84 per cent, to 98 for the 1951 maturity, yielding 3.93 per cent.

The proceeds will be used to retire two isues of 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds amounting to $92,660,000. The balance will be deposited with the trustee under a new indenture.

New York, April 27 (AP).—Imported bar silver at New York was reduced ¼ of a cent an ounce today, putting the price of the metal back to 44¾ cents, the level at which it held from January 20 to April 17. On the latter date it was given a boost in response to an upturn in London.

Wheat Tumbles 4 to 5 Cents as Drought Ends

Corn, Oats and Provisions Follow Downward Trend in Pit.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, April 27.—In semidemoralized trading, wheat values pitched headlong downward 4 to 5 cents a bushel today chiefly owing to breakup of prolonged drouth Southwest.

Contributing in some degree to acute weakness of wheat were sharp breaks of securities. Lowest prices of the day in wheat were reached during late transactions, and were in the face of estimates that exporters had purchased nearly 2,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for shipment to Europe.

Wheat in Chicago closed shaky, 2¾ to 4⅛ cents under Saturday's finish; May, 97⅞@98; July, 86¾@87; corn, 1⅛@2⅛ down; May, 61⅛@61⅞; oats, ⅝ to 1 cent off, and provisions showing 5 to 25 cents fall.

Failures One-Third Of March, '32, Total

Boston, Mass., April 27.—Business failures are continuing to run very low. The number of failures this March were just under those of a year ago, and only one-third what they were in March, 1932.

General Motors First Quarter Best Since 1929

Net of $1.17 on the Common Compares With 68 Cents a Year Ago.

New York, April 27 (AP).—General Motors Corporation today reported the best first quarter profits since the initial period of 1929. Net income was $52,464,174, or $1.17 a common share, compared with $31,510,371, or 68 cents a share in the first quarter of 1935.

Net sales, excluding inter-divisional transactions, were $341,306,065 in the first quarter against $246,325,357 in the March quarter last year. This likewise was the top figure since 1929.

For the 12 months ended March 31, last, net earnings applicable to the common stock were $179,002,093, equal to $4.18 a share on the average number of shares outstanding during the period.

Cash, U. S. Government and other marketable securities at the close of March this year amounted to $218,034,223, compared with $199,435,663 on December 31 and $166,369,122 on March 31, 1935.

Allied Chemical Not to Split Stock

New York, April 27 (AP).—H. F. Atherton, president of Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation, told stockholders at the annual meeting today that business in the first quarter had improved.

In answer to a question, Atherton said the company has no plans for a change in the capital structure at present. In Wall Street circles there have been reports recently the company's stock might be split.

He called attention to the fact the management had voted 84 per cent of the capital shares out of 86 per cent represented at the meeting. While not announced, this would indicate that the 22.6 per cent interest in Allied Chemical stock held by Solvay & Cie., of Belgium, had been voted with the management for the first time in some years.

Stock Seat $130,000, Decline of $20,000

New York, April 27 (AP).—Arrangements were made today for the transfer of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange at $130,000, off $20,000 from the previous sale of $150,000 April 1.

The price at which the seat changes hands today is the lowest since October 22, 1935, when a transfer was arranged at a similar figure. The highest price paid this year was $174,000, February 19, and the lowest previous 1936 transaction was at $149,000, January 3.

Sears, Roebuck To Issue Stock

New York, April 27 (AP).—Sears, Roebuck & Co., should show substantially better profits this year than last, Gen. R. E. Wood, president, told stockholders at the annual meeting today. Indicated April sales appear to be about 13 to 14 per cent ahead of a year ago, Wood said.

Stockholders approved a proposal of directors to increase capital stock to 5,200,000 shares from 5,000,000 shares. The stock would be offered to officers and employes at $45 a share at the discretion of directors.

The proposal provides that the privilege of purchase on the part of officers and directors would be limited to an aggregate of 30,000 shares. The current price of Sears, Roebuck on the New Nork stock exchange is around $64 a share.

The company is holding out for a sales goal this year of $500,000,000. Wood said that while he did not feel it would reach that point, several of his associates disagreed with him.

Bloc Will Urge Fund for PWA At Conference

Will Ask Majority Leaders to Appeal to President on Earmarking.

By the Associated Press.

The House PWA bloc decided yesterday it would try to persuade majority leaders to lay before President Roosevelt the demand for earmarking $700,000,000 of the $1,500,000,000 relief fund.

Original strategy had been to send petitions now circulating, directly to the White House and if that failed to produce results, to force a Democratic caucus that bind the majority.

Organizers will confer today with Speaker Byrns, Majority Leader Bankhead, of Alabama, and Chairman Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, of the Appropriations Committee. Mr. Roosevelt recently expressed disapproval of the earmarking proposal.

Representative Beiter (Democrat), New York, indicated to newspapermen after a lengthy meeting of the bloc yesterday that the appeal to the leaders was decided upon in view of support for the move already exhibited. He said that on a score of petitions circulated in the last two weeks, signatures totaled 143—all but 11 Democrats—with several petitions not yet turned in and with signatures being added daily. The goal is 216, or majority.

It was understood from sources in the bloc that the new strategy was governed, partly at least, by a desire to avoid any suggestion of a "fight" over the question. Beitter continued hopeful that the showing the bloc has made would result in some compromise in favor of the PWA program, and did noti ndicate what program and did not indicate what if any plans were laid for prosecuting their drive should the foray through the leaders be unproductive.

Indications yesterday were that the relief appropriation would not be up for at least two weeks, Chairman Buchanan (Democrat), Texas, said thea ppropriations committee probably would bring out the $500,000,000 naval bill next week after the tax bill had been cleared.

with the leader today includes Rep-

The PWA group which will meet resentatives Beiter, Lambeth, North Carolina; Dobbins, Illinois; Dempsey, New Mexico; Mead, New York; Dies, Texas; Monaghan, Montana; Kramer, Calif.; McKeough, Illinois, and MacFarlane, of Texas, all Democrats.

On The Air Today

An old familiar program was missing yesterday morning when the followers of "Cheerio" turned to WMAL. In its place was Jim McGrath's two-month-old "Morning Prelude," moved to the former "Cheerio" period because of daylight saving programming complications.

Like any other program of long standing, "Cheerio" commands an audience. No one could begin to speculate on how many Washingtonians listen to it. One thing is known: Those who like it, like it with a vengeance and deep feeling. And those who did not like it want no parcel or part of it. In other words, you either like "Cheerio" or you dislike—emphatically.

Presented with the elimination of either "Cheerio" or "Morning Prelude," N. B. C. program chiefs apparently tried to balance the merits of both programs in the light of their popularity—and decided on "Morning Prelude" accordingly.

One thing is certain. Only one of the two can be presented each morning. It would seem to me that the fair solution would be based on the representation of interest in the two programs. Listeners who like "Cheerio" should let the N. B. C. office in the National Press Building know of their interest in having it returned. Those who favor the newer "Prelude" should put in an oar in behalf of that program.

Those who phoned this desk yesterday about "Cheerio" may be certain that N. B. C. will provide the program that meets with the maximum-listener approval.

Some time ago N. B. C. discovered the Negro singer, Clyde Barrie, but it was Columbia that exploited him. Now N. B. C. takes a fall from Columbia, so to speak. Vivien Della Chiesa, the Chicago soprano who won the WBBM contest a little more than a year ago, and who has been publicized prominently by Columbia, has signed an exclusive contract with the N. B. C. artists service. Of course now, maybe neither net is interested particularly in either artist obtained by the other. But it presents its amusing angle, this building air prominence in extravagant language by one radio camp, only to have the artist then wind up in the lap of the opposition.

That late show at WMAL will not be called "Milkman's Matinee" at all. It has been changed to "The Night Watchman." It case you missed the announcement yesterday, this is the show that begins at midnight (except Sundyas) at WMAL this week. And runs to 2 a. m.

H. D. McCaskey Dies in Oregon; Son of Generals

Was Formerly Connected With Geological Survey; Served Philippines.

Hiram Dryer McCaskey, former Geological Survey scientist, whose father, the late Maj. Gen. William Spencer McCaskey was the only officer on active duty in the Regular Army who served throughout the Civil War, died Sunday at his fruit ranch at Medford, Oreg., it was learned here yesterday. He was 65 years old.

Born at Fort Totten, N. Dak., Mr. McCaskey came from a line of soldiers. His father, one of the first 75,000 men to volunteer in the Civil War, rose quickly from the rank of private to that of captain, which he held during Sherman's march to the sea.

Earlier, the elder McCaskey had served in all the battles of the Army of the Cumberland. During the Spanish-American War he commanded the Twentieth Infantry in the Cuban campaign, fighting in the battles of El Caney and Santiago.

Unable to Enter Army.

Only defective eyes prevented the son from following in his father's footsteps. He chose a career in mining engineering. Graduating from Lehigh University with a B. S. degree in 1893, he spent several years teaching before being appointed chief of the Mining Bureau and Division of Mines, Bureau of Science, Manila, P. I., in 1903.

During his three years in the Philippines, he engaged in exploratory work and re-organized the mining bureau there. After serving as delegate from the islands to the Tenth International Geological Conference in Mexico City, in 1906, he was appointed to the United States Geological Survey.

In 1915 he was placed in charge of the survey's division of mineral resources, a position he held until 1919. He was also in charge of reorganizing the work of the survey.

Funeral Will Be Today.

McCaskey served as delegate from this country to both the International Engineering Congress at San Francisco in 1915 and the Pan-American Scientific Conference two years later.

He was a fellow of the Geological Society of America and the American Association for the Advancement of Science and a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. He was the author of many articles on mining and geology.

Surviving him are his brother, Charles Irving McCaskey, former treasurer-general of Persia, who is now in Europe on a mission for the United States Treasury Department; his wife, Mrs. Mary McCaskey, and a sister, Mrs. Eleanore Conklin.

Funeral services will be held in Medford, Oreg., today.

Women Voters Demand Ramspeck Bill Passage

Cincinnati, April 27 (AP).—The board of directors of the National League of Women Voters called on Congress today to approve the Ramspeck bill, transferring first, second and third class postmaster to civil service before the fall elections.

It estimated the bill would place 13,000 postmasters under civil service. A statement said the league was collecting "thousands of signed cards petitioning the political parties to eliminate the spoils system and substitute the merit system."

The Federal Diary

Miss Elinor Evans (P), Office of Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, has a leading role in the Studio of Theater Arts' production, "The Late Christopher Bean" to be presented at Wardman Park Theater tonight and tomorrow night under direction of Constance Connor Brown.

By Morgan Baker.

Charges that 10,000 Federal employes in Washington have been thrown out of work in the last few weeks, or will be dismissed soon, were met by a round of official denials yesterday.

BAKER.

The charges were made by the inter-union re-employment committee of the American Federation of Government Employes, composed of employes in agencies said to be slated for personnet slashes. The committee is seeking re-employment preference for dismissed employes. The group announces a meeting at the Thomson School Thursday night to map plans for getting a rule established to make it mandatory for the Replacement Division of Works Progress Administration to place experienced former Government employes who were dismissed without prejudice on jobs in preference to new arrivals in Washington.

National offices of the A. F. G. E. denied any knowledge of the Thursday meeting, and pointed out that the project was a local matter.

Schafer Cannot Attend.

Michael Schafer, Navy, A. F. G. E. national vice president, listed by the committee as being the principal speaker Thursday, said last night:

"The committee might have secured my acceptance of its invitation to attend the meeting before the news was released to the press. I told the member of the committee who invited me that I did not know definitely if I could attend, owing to a previous engagement which I find now that I cannot break."

According to the re-employment committee, wholesale reductions will be made in AAA, WPA, and Resettlement Administration. It also decries the lack of effort in placing former NRA employes.

Members of the re-employment committee are said to be leaders of the minority "left wing" of the A. F. G. E.

Of the total of 7,283 dismissed persons filed with replacement division, 1,603 have accepted jobs found by the division, according to Morton Milford, special assistant to Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator.

Leads for 724 Others.

Leads to jobs have been found for 724 others on the register, but these persons cannot be located, Milford said, pointing out that they must have accepted positions in the field or have left Washington for their homes in distant States.

No personnel slashes are anticipated at AAA. However, when AAA is placed under Soil Conservation Service, it is expected that approximately 3,500 of the present staff of 5,000 will be sent to regional offices, leaving only 1,500 in the Washington office.

The personnel outlook of Resettlement Administration is summarized by C. B. Baldwin, assistant administrator in charge of operations, as follows:

"We do not anticipate wholesale reductions of personnel at this time. As we decentralize, every opportunity will be given terminated employes to secure field positions."

Aubrey Mills, assistant to Secretary Roper, said that there are no figures available on the distribution of former NRA employes. Former NRA officials, however, estimate that more than 90 per cent of NRA employes have found employment in Washington or have returned to their homes throughout the country.

FCA Picnic Sunday.

Members and friends of Farm Credit Administration Lodge, No. 213, American Federation of Government Employes, will hold a picnic at Great Falls Sunday. A bus will leave the FCA Building at noon for the picnic site, according to Philip Freihitch (C), lodge officer.

Scientists Present Papers.

Dr. Fred L. Mohler, Bureau of Standards, yesterday presented a paper on "Equilibrium Between Excitation and Ionization in a High Pressure Discharge" before the National Academy of Sciences in session here. Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, presented "Preliminary Study of Temperature Effects of Short Solar Fluctuations," and Dr. T. Wayland Vaughan, of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla, Calif., and honorary associate in marine sediments of the National Museum, spoke on "Stolon-Systems of Communication Between the Equatorial Chambers of Orbitoidal Foraminifera."

Ted Register, Forest Service, left Sunday for his new assignment in the Winchester, Ky., regional office.

Geologist Dies in Ohio.

Word has been received of the death last week of Dr. August F. Foerste, of Dayton, Ohio, at the age of 73. For the past four years Dr. Foerste was associated with the Smithsonian Institution as honorary associate in paleontology. Also he was formerly (1887-1891, 1895) connected with the U. S. Geological Survey.

Virginia Barfield (C), of Jackson, Tenn., has been appointed to a position at Veterans' Administration.

Dr. White on Program.

Dr. William A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, will speak tomorrow night at the Jewish Community Center on the subject of "Man's Knowledge of Himself." The lecture is open to the public.

Recent appointments reported at Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce include Olive Solie, Maxine Bethel, Lillie C. Burgess (C), Julian B. Boyd, duplicating unit; Albert Baltuska, Julian De Bellis, James Higgins, Michael McCarthy, mail room, supply division; Eunice S. Coyle, economic research.

Mrs. Mahon Honored.

Mrs. Xenia C. Mahon has been honored by her colleagues in miscellaneous division, Adjutant General's Office, by the presentation of a wrist watch. Col. Robert L. Collins made the award on behalf of the A. G. O. employes. Mrs. Mahon will retire from service Thursday.

NOW FOLKS, I'M GOING TO ASK THE NEXT QUESTION OF SOMEONE KNOWN TO THOUSANDS OF YOU. APPLE MARY, THE LITTLE OLD LADY WITH THE APPLE CART—
HERE'S THE QUESTION, MARY. "DO YOU BELIEVE IN LUCK?"
YES SIR! IT WAS LUCK THAT GAVE ME A FORTUNE, AND BAD LUCK THAT TOOK IT AWAY.

IN A HOME HUNDREDS OF MILES AWAY!
—THEN A CROOKED POLITICIAN FRAMED ME, BUT A PRETTY GIRL TOOK MY PICTURE IN FRONT OF THE UNION STATION THAT DAY, AND WITH LUCK I'LL FIND THAT PICTURE, AND PROVE MY ALIBI.

Leader Warns Women's Clubs Of Propaganda

Subversive Views May Be Presented in Disguise, Convention Told.

By the Associated Press.

Coral Gables, Fla., April 27.—Members of the National Council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs were warned today against use of their club platform for dissemination of "propaganda" by speakers who present their "subversive" Government views under thinly cloaked disguises.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, of Baltimore, chairman of the federation's education department, declared in an interview "we believe that communism, fascism and other political systems which tend to curtail free expression of thought or any program which tends to undermine our Democratic form of government and set up a dictatorship, either of an individual or a group, must be opposed."

In urging the organization's 2,000,000 members to investigate closely speakers coming before their clubs, Mrs. Whitehurst, attending the council's annual meetin here, described three types of orators to be avoided.

These speakers "due to their subtle approach to the subject are undermining the principles of democracy," she asserted.

The first type of speaker to be guarded against, Mrs. Whitehurst said, was the one "that tries to impress with the fact that our democracy should be preserved and then launches into all of its weaknesses or defects, then points out all the good points of fascism and communism, leaving his listeners with mixed emotions * * *.

"Then you have the type of spaker who tells an audience that there is nothing to all this communistic talk, * * * He is also dangerous because he is simply closing your eyes to the true conditions which exist throughout our country today."

The third type, she continued, "tells you that any attempt to combat subversive propaganda would interfere with free speech and liberal thought."

To combat such propaganda, Mrs. Whitehurst urged club women to begin in their own homes and schools.

The council formally opened its seventeenth annual national convention tonight with Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, of Washington, federation president, in charge.

Schools to Start Health Plans In D. C. Friday

Children Will Receive Free Dental Treatment, Examinations.

National Child Health Day will be observed in District schools Friday with the inauguration of programs of dental treatment for needy school children, "round-up" physical examinations for new students entering school next fall and with numerous educational activities for parents and children.

The observance which is being held by the Board of Education and the District Health Office, under the sponsorship of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, will continue through next week.

With the co-operation of the District Dental Society more than 200 dentists have volunteered to provide free dental treatment for about 300 needy white children. A similar program for the colored children is being undertaken by the Robert T. Freman Dental Society.

Appointments for white children will be made through school health nurses and Mrs. Josephine Prescott, of the District Health Office. A. J. Turner, director of physical training in colored schools, will handle the appointments there.

From 40 to 50 Parent-Teacher groups will hold physical examination "round-ups" during the first week of May for children who will enter school next fall.

Included among the educational activities planned for the coming week are four showings of "Life Begins," the film prepared by Dr. Arnold Gesell, whose baby pictures are running currently in The Washington Post. The showings will be Monday at Roosevelt and Wilson High Schools; 3:30 p. m. and 8 p. m., respectively; and Tuesday at Eastern High School at 8 p. m. and the Republic Theater at 10 p. m.

Audience of 5 Senators Is Cool To Dickinson's Dog Food Issue

Byrnes Finds Canned Speeches More Important Than Canned Canine Fodder, Reads Release Telling Senate Events Before They Occur.

Not since the afternoon that Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, so eloquently defended the palatial dog pound being erected in Memphis by the WPA, has man's four-legged friend played such an important part in the affairs of the Senate as yesterday.

Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, started the discussion by reading a long prepared speech in which he declared that the Roosevelt theory of "scarcity" had forced thousands of Americans to eat food "unfit even for dogs."

The Senator declared that many people actually were eating dog food from cans labeled "fit for human consumption." Much of this food, he said, was prepared under conditions that made it unfit for human discussion. He pointed to tremendous increases in production of this food and said could be attributed only to the fact that it was being eaten by human beings.

Only five Senators were present while he spoke, two Republicans and three Democrats.

One reason for the absence of an audience was the fact that members were in possession of a story, printed in an advance publicity sheet by the Republican National Committee, describing in detail the North Carolina, read the "hand-out" scene in the Senate as Dickinson spoke. Senator Byrnes (Democrat), to the Senate.

"The white-haired Iowan arrived in the Senate chamber with cans of prepared dog food," said the hand-out. "The cans and labels were exhibted to the Senators with actual photographs of some of the plants, showing the process of manufacture."

Byrnes demanded to know where the cans, labels and pictures were. He pointed out that none of the five Senators had seen them.

"I have the dog food in my office," Dickinson said.

"I didn't know the Senator was eating dog food," said Byrnes.

"The evidence shows that 100,000,000 cans are consumed by human beings," said Dickinson. "You can't laugh that off."

Byrnes said he didn't intend to laugh it off and that he wanted to hear from the other Presidential candidates, Senators Vandenberg and Borah, on "that great issue."

He demanded to know if Dickinson really spoke "with studied deliberation," as the G. O. P. publicity had said he did.

He asked what the "hand-out" meant by saying the Senator "held aloft a can of uninspected dog food."

At this point Dickinson left the Chamber and Byrnes expressed the hope that "he brings back that dog food."

"The real issue is not canned food, but canned speeches," said Byrnes, adding he was sure the Dickinson speech had been written by the "Republican brain trust."

Byrnes then produced a copy of the new Republican rotogravure tabloid. He quoted it as saying the potato law was "laughed out of existence."

"That's the brain trust's idea of the Supreme Court," he said.

Byrnes pointed to pictures in the publication, showing people in want, and said that the Republicans, while opposing relief, show pictures of people in need of relief.

"If the brain trust can produce nothing better than the sheet I hold in my hand," he said, "then the sooner the Republican committee stops spending du Pont money for this purpose, the better off the party will be."

Cutter, Plane Rush To Disabled Yacht

New York, April 27 (AP).—Two United Fruit Steamships which were hastening to the 96-foot yacht Jane II, reporting herself aground on rocks of the Cuban coast about 60 miles from Havana, tonight announced in messages intercepted by Mackay Radio that they were resuming their course after learning the yacht wanted only to be towed to deep water.

A Pan American plane meanwhile was heading toward the stricken craft from Miami to guide rescuers.

A Cuban coast guard cutter, the Habana, was dispatched from Esperanza, north Cuban shore port, to lend aid tod the Jane II, which in later messages indicated her plight did not involve immediate peril to those on board.

On the yacht, which left Miami Thursday and Havana this morning were William W. Filter, jr., captain and owner; Franklin Taylor, George Coalfleet, and chew of five. They were bound for Alaska by way of the Panama Canal on a hunting expedition.
